COOLIDGE TAKES HAND IN AIR ROW

Gen. Mitchell to be Punished, Washington Hears

Special Navy Board Holds Battleship Supreme

President Makes Public Its Report on Question

"(3.) That the seven battleships New Mexico, Mississippi, Idaho, Pennsylvania, Arizona, Oklahoma, and Nevada, be modernized, as allowed by the treaty, as soon as possible.

"(4.) That the eight 10,000-ton cruisers already authorized by Congress be built without delay.

"(5.) That a progressive airplane plan be authorized to insure the fleet a complete outfit of up-to-date planes, with 100 per cent replacements in reserve, as well as the necessary training planes at a total expenditure for the first year of $20,000,000.

"(6.) That the three remaining fleet submarines, already authorized by Congress, be laid down during the fiscal year, 1927.

"(7.) That another aircraft carrier of about 25,000 tons be authorized and laid down without unnecessary delay."

PLAN IS CURTAILED

President Coolidge in the interest of economy, substituted the following initial program costing $20,000,000:

"(1.) Modernization of three of the coal-burning battleships.

"(2.) Continuation of the construction of the two aircraft carriers.

"(3.) Expenditure of $3,000,000 for airplanes for the carriers. This is in addition to $1,500,000 for this purpose included in the budget for 1926.

"(4.) Commencing the construction of two 10,000-ton cruisers.

"(5.) Commencing the construction of gunboats for patrol service on the Yangtse River."

The President has asked Congress for this $20,000,000 appropriation.

The special board's conclusions, drawn as a result of its inquiry, follow:

"The battleship is the element of ultimate force in the fleet, and all other elements are contributory to the fulfillment of its function as the final arbiter in sea warfare.

"The other elements have their important, and at times indispensable functions.

SUPREMACY REMAINS

"From time to time apparent threats to the supremacy of the battleship have appeared. Each has resulted in some modification of its design and in the methods of its employment in war, but its supremacy remains.

"With the invention and development of offensive weapons have always come the counter-invention and development of defensive means and methods, so that in the end a fair balance is struck between them. The history of the gun and armor, and of the torpedo and interior subdivision, merely repeats the process by which offense always begets defense.

"Aviation has introduced a new and highly important factor in warfare, both on the land and on the sea. It was utilized on an enormous scale and with great effectiveness in land operations during the World War but did not seriously influence sea operations. Its influence on naval warfare undoubtedly will increase in the future, but the prediction that it will assume paramount importance in sea warfare will be realized.

"The airplane (heavier than air) is inherently limited in performance by physical laws.

"The airship (lighter than air) has some valuable characteristics, but due to great vulnerability is of doubtful value in war.

"Aircraft cannot operate from territory that is not controlled by the military or naval forces of their own country.

"Airplanes cannot occupy territory nor can they exercise control of the sea.

"Airplanes cannot reach distant overseas areas under their own power with any effective military load and therefore cannot operate there offensively or defensively until supplied with weapons and fuel.

"Airplanes cannot fulfill the functions of the service of supply for themselves or for other forces in distant overseas areas.

"Airplanes cannot fly across the Atlantic Ocean or the Pacific Ocean to any point on our coasts or within our continental territory with bombs heavy enough to do any serious damage. The situation as to other continental or insular powers having potential enemies contiguous to their borders is wholly different and bears no analogy to ours.

"Within a distance of 250 miles from their bases or carriers airplanes may constitute a serious threat to surface ships, land forces, cities and industrial centers, for the reason that they can transport to the above distance heavy bombs of 2000 pounds in weight at present, which may reach 4000 pounds in the future. To answer such a threat antiaircraft defense must be provided and hostile carriers should not be allowed to approach within that distance of our coast.

"The battleship of today, while not invulnerable to airplane attack, still possesses very efficient structural protection, as shown by the experiments on the Washington. The battleship of the future can be so designed as to distribution of her armor on decks and sides, and as to interior subdivision, that she will not be subject to fatal damage from the air.

CAN BE OFFSET

"The effect of plunging long-range gun projectile hits on a ship's deck has now become closely analogous to the effect of hits by heavy aerial bombs. By armoring the battleship's deck with six to seven inches of armor we at one and the same time effectively meet any practicable attack from the air and also the attack by gun projectiles fired at the greatest probable battle ranges.

"Ignition subdivision will resist any mining effect from aerial bombs. It cannot be said, therefore, that air attack has rendered the battleship obsolete."

"The observation value of the airplane has been extended to assisting gunnery by observing and reporting the fall of the shot relative to the target. This has given great value to high-angle gun elevation, has made possible the accurate control of fire at long ranges and has vastly increased its effectiveness.

"Airplanes have demonstrated their great value to the fleet in scouting, observation and bombing. The use of torpedo planes, gas and smoke screens is still in the process of development. Airplane carriers are necessary elements of a properly constituted fleet to carry airplanes to the scene of action."

OPPOSES SEPARATION

The separation of aviation from the Navy and its incorporation in a separate department of the government would be most injurious to the continued efficiency of the fleet and is a step that should not be taken, the report states. It would result in inevitable duplication, greatly added expense and less efficiency, because a naval flying officer must in the first place be a naval officer, it is asserted.

Results of the experiments on the Washington were included in the report as evidence of the amount of punishment that a modern battleship can take from aircraft and still stay afloat. The report states:

"For the purpose of the test, the ship was ballasted to draw twenty-five and one-half feet and all water-tight subdivisions were completed up to the third deck, and both main condensers were installed. In the first test, five bombs, each of 1000 pounds of explosive, were exploded under water at the most effective depths and at distances from the ship's side well within the zone surrounding the ship, which had heretofore been claimed as an area in which similar explosions would sink or destroy a ship. Two charges, each amounting to the largest now carried by torpedoes, was detonated against the ship's hull. After each explosion the ship was examined. At the end of the fifth explosion, the ship had listed 5 deg. The experts examining the ship said it would have no difficulty in making port if it had been in commission.

HUGE SHELL WITHSTOOD

"Later a fourteen-inch shell, weighing 1440 pounds, was dropped from a height of 4000 feet, but did not pierce the deck armor. It was apparent, however, that such a shell dropped from a greater height would have pierced the deck. This danger could be met by thicker decks. After the tests, the ship stayed afloat four days and was finally sunk by fourteen-inch shells fired from battleships."

Not a single city in the United States is protected by antiaircraft batteries. This admission was drawn from Lieut.-Col. H. C. Barnes, coast artillery, by members of the House aircraft committee this afternoon. Lieut.-Col. Barnes appeared for Maj.-Gen. Coe, chief of coast artillery, who is ill. He declared that airplanes are the first line of defense against invading air forces, but insisted that antiaircraft guns comprise a secondary defense, the value of which was proved by figures in the World War and by tests made since. He confessed it would be futile to attempt to prevent a hostile air force from crossing our coastline with antiaircraft guns alone, but stated they served a good purpose in protecting a certain point just as the coast artillery protects a harbor against entrance by an enemy fleet.

UPHOLDS AIR DEFENSE

Capt. Aaron Bradshaw, who accompanied him, read to the committee official records from the archives of the War Department bearing on the effectiveness of antiaircraft fire and controverting the testimony given by Maj. "Eddie" Rickenbacker, that it "took over 1,000,000 shots to bring down a plane." Capt. Bradshaw read figures showing that in 1918 the Germans sent a total of 483 planes to bombard Paris and that out of this number only thirty-seven got through the barrage around the city, which was defended only by guns, searchlights and sound locaters. Of this number, he said, antiaircraft was credited with having brought down thirteen. On the last raid, he testified, only three out of fifty planes got through to the city and two of these were brought down.

Statistics read by him show that it took 11,000 shots per plane in 1916, but this effectiveness had been increased to 1500 shots per plane in 1918.

The committee was invited to go to Fortress Monroe and witness target practice of antiaircraft guns against moving targets.

cement have been stored at the lower end of Florence Lake tunnel awaiting its completion. The electric cars which have been used for hauling much will transport this cargo through the entire length of the tunnel for the construction of the Florence Lake dam. On the return trip they will carry salvage from the camps, and it is expected by the time the spring run-off starts in April this vast amount of freight in both directions will be disposed of.

All of the skilled miners will be retained, as their services will be needed in May, when another tunnel from Huntington Lake to Shaver Lake will be started. In the meantime they have been told that they will be kept on the pay roll at their regular rating, and may put in their time on miscellaneous duties.

"A permanent construction army" is the term applied to his organization by George Clinton Ward, vice-president of the Southern California Edison Company, in charge of construction, under whose supervision the Florence Lake tunnel his been drilled. "Many of the men who went to Big Creek in December, 1911, when this vast power project was started are still living there, and they hope to remain there until the last drop of water has been put to work for the Southland."

BISMARCK'S LOVE AFFAIR IS REVEALED

BY JOHN STEELE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Bismarck's only clandestine love affair was revealed for the first time in London today through an old photograph exhibited among a collection of souvenirs from the musical life of the Covent Garden Opera-house. The picture, taken sixty years ago at Badgastein, shows the "Iron Chancellor" informally accompanied by Pauline Lucca, celebrated singer of the day. The photo is inscribed with the only frivolous message Bismarck is ever known to have written. "Life is earnest; art is gay," are the words he put there.

Behind the picture there is a story of continental diplomacy defeated by willful women. Bismarck did not want the picture taken, according to what is said to be authentic history, but Pauline insisted. They were staying together at a German health resort at Badgastein at that time, the summer of 1865.

The great Prussian empire builder reluctantly consented to sit beside the pretty singer to keep her from pouting. She promised never to show the picture to anyone. Bismarck's enemies are reported to have spent thousands trying to get the document from the hands of the woman, but it remained secret until today. The Chancellor's family, after his death, engaged special agents to attempt to destroy it. The explanation is that Pauline destroyed her copy the day she died, but the photographer who took the picture kept a copy, which later was lost.

SCOTS ASK SCOTCH TAX CUT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Amid wild cheers from the Labor members, Patrick J. Ford, Member of the House of Commons representing North Edinburgh, presented a petition signed by 158,000 Scots asking for a small reduction in the tax on Scotch whisky.

AIR SUPERIORITY SHOWN BY TEST

It was pointed out that the planes used in the test are of an obsolete type, capable of a climbing speed of only 55 miles an hour. Lieut.-Com. Strong said that when the fleet returns from Hawaii next fall, there will be available a number of new bombing planes of the C8 type, powered with Wright T-3 motors, with a climbing speed of 110 miles an hour and capable of carrying much heavier loads of bombs.

MANY SPECTATORS

Spectators estimated at 40,000 watched the bombing test. Besides the officers and men of the fleet, who had grandstand seats, so to speak, upon the warcraft near the target, the high shore from Point Fermin to White's Point was crowded with thousands. The fall of the bombs, whistling down from the clouds, and the great splash they made as they detonated on striking the water, made the exhibitian an extremely spectacular one.

There were no accidents and no human casualties, but millions of fish of all sizes suffered. The Catalina Channel over a great area was white with floating fish after the explosion of the two salvos of bombs, some dead, some merely stunned.

Besides the bombers, about twenty planes with observers were in the air during the tests.

Admiral Coontz said he watched the test with great interest and was pleased with the accuracy of the bomb-droppers. He declined to express an opinion as to Gen. Mitchell's statement concerning the bombing tests conducted by Army aviators off the Atlantic Coast but said he was not in favor of a unified air service.

PLAN OTHER MANEUVERS

"I have yet to find a navy officer who is in favor of unified air service," he said.

Admiral Coontz added some details to the plans for the navy maneuvers off the southern coast, which begin March 2. He said he would accompany the Battle Fleet as chief umpire of the maneuvers and that a number of army officers will accompany the fleet as umpires and observers.

"Twelve army officers, he said, will leave San Diego March 12 aboard the U.S.S. Antares, to view the maneuvers. When the fleet goes to Hawaii, Maj.-Gen. J. L. Hines, Chief of Staff of the Army, will sail with it with five of his staff and will help umpire the joint army and navy maneuvers at Hawaii.

Admiral Coontz said the aircraft program for Hawaii is not yet entirely worked out, but expressed the opinion that both the big new navy dirigibles, the Los Angeles and Shenandoah, will take part.

Iowa Senators Vote Jail Terms for Bootleggers

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Feb. 18.—A Senate bill making jail sentences as well as fines compulsory for convicted bootleggers was passed by the Iowa Senate this afternoon. The House has not yet acted on the measure. The law now provides for a fine of $300 to $1000 or imprisonment from three months to one year.

ARIZONA CHAPLAIN IS FIGHTING PARSON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Feb. 18.—The Arizona National Guard Regiment has a fighting chaplain. To the post, with the relative rank of captain, has been appointed Rev. Victor A. Rule, pastor of the Phoenix Presbyterian Church and chaplain of the Arizona Senate.

Capt. Rule, a native of New Zealand, was a resident of Pennsylvania when the World War started. He returned at once to his native land, enlisted as a private and in 1915 was in the Gallipoli campaign and in Egypt. The following year he had risen to rank as major and was in command of the first British column to enter Bethlehem in the army of Gen. Allenby. He was wounded four times.

Following the war he returned to the ministry, later coming to a charge in Wichita, Kan., whence he came to Phoenix.

AMENDMENT WOULD RAISE FRIES IN RANK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—By an amendment to pending legislation for the Army, Brig.-Gen. Fries, for a time in charge of Los Angeles Harbor work for the War Department, will receive a promotion to major-general, and will have an increase in salary of $2000 a year, and be placed on the same footing as other officers of the War Department, both as to rank and salary. He will, as major-general, continue his work as head of the chemical warfare division, to which he was recently appointed by President Coolidge for additional service.

Radical Break from Old Line Seen in Changes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE (Md.) Feb. 18.—The Baltimore Sun will say tomorrow that three "radical departures" from the trend of American education are to be announced at Johns Hopkins University next Monday by Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, president.

The changes, says the newspaper, include the establishment at Johns Hopkins of the Walter Hines Page school of international relations; plans for the Wilmer institute for the study and treatment of diseases of the eye, now assured through completion of the necessary $3,000,000 endowment, and the proposal of a policy of confining that university exclusively to advanced students able to enter at a rating not lower than the junior year of college.

All three, according to Johns Hopkins authorities, will have the effect of making the institution again occupy the position of a pioneer in the nation's educational development.

The Walter Hines Page school of international relations, besides being a memorial of the former Ambassador to Great Britain, is defined by the Johns Hopkins committee as something new in education in that it will afford an opportunity "for first-class minds working on world problems."

The school will conduct research work into the underlying facts and conditions of international life, including international law, trade, economic relations, racial psychology, and all the technique of international intercourse and diplomatic customs.

SAN QUENTIN RIOT FATAL TO CONVICT

Mexicans and Americans Clash Following Asserted Attack

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN QUENTIN, Feb. 18.—Rioting between Mexican and American prisoners in the San Quentin prison here today caused the death of Antonio Hernandez, a Mexican, who, it is believed, was trampled and beaten so seriously that he died a few hours later.

Hernandez, who was 36 years of age, was sent up from Imperial county in 1922 for assault with a deadly weapon and robbery.

According to Warden Frank J. Smith's office, three Mexicans were asserted to have attacked an American prisoner inflicting slight wounds which led to retaliation later in the day, although the secrecy of the prisoners made it difficult to learn the details of the trouble.

After the clashes and fearing a spread of the rioting, Warden Smith ordered a large number of both Mexican and American prisoners locked in the dungeon for the night.

An investigation of the occurrence will be conducted tomorrow.

Air-Field Chain for Southland is Encouraged

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 18.—With the possibility of establishing a chain of commercial aviation fields in Southern California and Arizona, of which Clover Field, this city, is a link, chambers of commerce in Arizona have created funds for building municipal landing fields.

According to information received at Santa Monica-Ocean Park headquarters this morning, Bob Hausler of Winslow, Ariz., the man responsible for commercial fields along the proposed Los Angeles-Salt Lake route, states that emergency or major landings will be established every twenty-five miles along the 400-mile air route.

Hausler has done much to further commercial aviation in California and officials of the chamber here feel he will put across the project upon which he is now working, they stated this morning.

SHANGHAI STRIKE SPREADS

Number of Chinese Employees in Japanese Mills Is Now 35,000; Five Hurt in Riots

BY JOHN POWELL

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18.—Despite earnest efforts to end the strike of Chinese employees of Japanese mills against 35,000 men idle and creating what is now China's most serious conflict in modern history, Japanese officials are confident the mill owners will grant the 15 per cent increase in wages demanded by the strikers before they will consent to reinstate the workers in the movement.

Five Chinese were injured during rioting yesterday. A number of students were arrested in connection. Chinese girls are leading parades of strikers.

The foreign police this morning broke up a demonstration by Bolshevik and radical elements in favor of the strike and warned the strikers that if the walkout spreads to the entire port economic boycott of Hongkong strike of seamen, which tied up shipping there, will be declared.

Although the strike began with a Chinese demand for the cruelty of Japanese foremen, it is now thought that the instigators of Chinese control have had something to do with it, as the Chinese have been working against cheaper labor in Japanese mills by Japanese methods.

SHIPS SALE CONFERENCE DATE IS SET

Proposed Purchase Plans of Coast-Orient Lines to be Discussed at Capital

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Representatives of the California-Oriental Steamship Line, the American-Oriental Mail Line and the ship sales committee of the Shipping Board will confer here March 1, next, and discuss proposed purchase by the two lines of ten Shipping Board vessels now operated by them to the Orient.

The conference will attempt to reach an agreement on all phases of the purchase except the price, which will be left open to competitive bids of the two companies.

The California-Oriental has offered to purchase the five Shipping Board vessels it operates to the Orient, while the American-Oriental has proposed the taking over the five ships operated by the California-Oriental Line, as well as the five it now operates. The California-Oriental Line operates over the southern route from San Francisco to the Orient by way of Hawaii, while the ships of the American-Oriental Mail operate by the northern route from Seattle.

The mill owners are willing to grant the 10 per cent wage demanded but they refuse to restore wages during the strike or to reinstate the ring leaders of the movement.

Five Chinese police were injured during rioting this morning. A number of students of both sexes were arrested for leading the agitation. Chinese girls were also leading parades of demonstrators.

The foreign press here says this morning points out the Communistic and radical tendencies of the strike and warns of the danger of the walkout spreading to the entire port similar to the Hongkong strike of seven months ago which tied up the port.

Although the strike began with a Chinese protest against the cruelty of Japanese foremen, it is now thought that the directors of Chinese-owned mills may have had something to do with it as the Chinese have been striking against absorption of their mills by Japanese capitalists.

King George Shows Rapid Improvement

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Public anxiety on behalf of King George was much relieved today. The King's bulletin was an encouraging one, saying the condition of the King, who is suffering from bronchitis, following an attack of influenza, had passed a fairly good night, while it was said by his physicians that the monarch had had a comfortable and cheerful day and that his condition showed considerable improvement.

The royal physicians again visited the King tonight, and were satisfied with the progress of the patient that they considered it needless to issue a bulletin.

RICKARD NAMED IN STOKES CASE

Promoter's Picture Linked to Defendant

Hotel Man's Efforts to Get Evidence Told

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Feb. 18. — Joseph Bruner, white, former investigator for W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire and Annie Johnson, negress, former housekeeper at the Everleigh Club, a notorious underworld resort of fifteen years ago, were among the witnesses introduced to the State today in the effort to convict Mr. Stokes and others of conspiracy to defame his estranged wife, Helen Elwood Stokes of Denver.

Tex Rickard, fight promoter, was mentioned in Bruner's testimony as supposed to be one of the figures in a photograph shown him by the defendant Stokes, in connection with asserted attempts of the latter to obtain false evidence purporting to show his wife to have been a habitue of the club.

Bruner, who was indicted with Stokes as a conspirator but granted severance, said that Stokes sent for him because he had been a cab driver in what was formerly the segregated district and asked him to find persons who remembered an inmate of the Everleigh Club named Helen Underwood.

Bruner said Stokes showed him photographs which he said were taken from Mrs. Stokes's album and asking Bruner if he recalled the woman in them as a former Everleigh Club inmate, or the rooms as Everleigh clubrooms, and Bruner replied he did not.

Stokes, Bruner testified, then engaged Bruner to undertake to find traces of a "Helen" who had been in the Everleigh Club and of men with whom he said she had associated.

Among the pictures Bruner said Stokes showed him for identification was one of a woman holding a dark child on her lap. According to the State, this picture showed Mrs. Stokes with a young white relative whose likeness had registered dark in the snapshot through defective photography.

Bruner said that Violet Phipps asked him in Stokes's presence if the white woman in this picture might not be the white woman he had told her got into his cab with a negro on one occasion.

"Stokes jumped up right away," said Bruner, "and said: 'Aren't you sure it's the same woman?'

"I told him it was too long ago to be sure of it."

The same picture figured in the testimony of Annie Johnson, who said Stokes insisted to her that the child in the picture was a negro, heir to a fortune, and that the mother had boarded in the Everleigh Club. She told him, according to her testimony, that no such woman as shown in the picture had been at the Everleigh Club and that no girl at the Everleigh Club had had a negro child.

CRUSHED BY CAR
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

Importance of Water Issue to California Stressed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HANFORD, Feb. 18.—Speaking on "co-ordinated conservation of the waters of the State of California at the annual get-together banquet of the Kings County Chamber of Commerce tonight C. A. Barlow, president of the California State Irrigation Association, said in part:" The first question to be decided is have we water?

"Taking State Engineer McClure's report known as Bulletin No. 4," he contined, "we find that statistics over a period of fifty years prove the average flow of water through the Golden Gate to be 27,000,000 acre feet annually. The same report shows that we now have under irrigation about 7,000,000 acres of land, that there are 12,000,000 acres which can never be watered unless the waste water of the Sacramento River can be distributed over these dry areas.

"Examination has determined that there are more than 1250 storage reservoir sites in the mountains. The only thing to now be determined is the detail as to how these waters can be carried to the dry land. Such engineers as W. F. McClure, C. E. Brunsky, Louis C. Hill, C. D. Marx, H. B. McGlashan, William Mulholland, H. A. Kleugel, H. D. McGlashan, say it is practicable. Every citizen shows it is desirable and must be accomplished if California is to experience much further development. The California State Irrigation Association is merely an educational organization for the purpose of concentrating the thought of the people of the State on this question. There is before the California State Legislature the Creighton Mister bill for further investigating to determine if facts and figures justify the beginning of this great work. We feel no other question is of such vital importance to the future of California. We are asking all bodies, all social clubs, all organizations of every kind whatever to indorse this measure, send copies of your indorsement to Gov. Richardson and also to C. A. Barlow, Bakersfield, president of our organization.

"It is a stupendous undertaking undoubtedly but elsewhere in the world today much larger irrigation enterprises are working satisfactorily."

French Military Court Condemns German Officers

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

AMIENS (France) Feb. 18.—Nine German officers were today condemned by a French court-martial by default, for crimes committed during the recent war.

Lieut. Borsmann was sentenced to hard labor for life for overriding the opinion of a German doctor and ordering the wife of a French officer from a house, although she was so ill she died while being moved.

Twenty years at hard labor and ten years solitary confinement were among the other sentences imposed for crimes which included the pillaging of houses and castles.

BRYAN'S GAS SALES ILLEGAL

Nebraska Supreme Court Rules on Use of State Money by Former Governor

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Feb. 18.—The use of State funds by the Governor or any other officer for the purchase of gasoline or other materials to be sold at retail to the public is illegal unless such funds have been appropriated by the Legislature or provided for by law, it was ruled today by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

The case was appealed by Harry Fischer, Omaha, from the judgment of the Lancaster County District Court, which denied him his petition for an injunction to prevent State Auditor Marsh from paying the warrants approved by former Gov. Bryan.

In declaring that the operation of the State gasoline station under former Gov. Bryan's administration was illegal, the high court finds that no funds for such purpose were appropriated by the Legislature two years ago, nor is there any provision made by law for such funds.

It was contended by the State in behalf of former Gov. Bryan that the gasoline was purchased along with the supply used by the State. The District Court was of the opinion that although the gasoline was sold to the public, State Auditor Marsh had no way of knowing which warrants were to pay for the gasoline sold to the public.

The State filling station went out of business when Bryan retired from office January 8, after having operated since last June, when the former chief executive took the initiative in what he pronounced a fight against the excessive profits being made on gasoline in this State. The station located here did a large business for a time, but soon local dealers cut the price below that charged by the State.

A summary of the situation shows that the money has been paid out, the station is out of business and apparently the only effect the Supreme Court decision will have is to establish the fact that authority must be obtained for such ventures.

GLORIA IS DOING WELL

BY HENRY WALES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Gloria Swanson, film star, recently married to Marquis de la Falaise, a young French war hero, was hurriedly operated on at 2 o'clock this morning at a private hospital here. The Marquise was said to be doing as well as could be expected tonight, although the nature of her illness was not explained.

Mme. La Marquise canceled her passage on the Berengaria, which sails today, at 7 o'clock last night. Over the telephone she informed the correspondent that she was "in bed" and did not "intend to get up." Later she grew rapidly worse and her attending physicians called in two surgeons after midnight.

The operation was decided upon immediately and the Marquise was transferred from her luxurious suite in the Hotel Plaza to a private hospital—the same one at which Pearl White was operated on recently.

The Marquis, Gloria's husband, appeared considerably worried today and spent his whole time at the hospital. He refused to discuss the Marquise's malady and stated that it might have a turn for the worse, but at present the surgeons believed she would recover.

This evening a statement was issued by her physicians declaring that the Marquise's illness was due to an operation performed two years ago. A fall from a horse at Fountainebleau during the filming of "Mme. Sans Gene" produced grave internal trouble which resulted in last night's sudden relapse and the operation.

Dr. Vaudansell, who performed the operation, said tonight that the Marquise could not possibly have lived two hours longer without an operation. He said her condition might permit her to leave the hospital in a week or ten days if the improvement was steady. He expressed the belief that she would not be able to return to America before another month.

The Marquis said later this evening that passage was being arranged for March 4.

Gloria is now suffering from severe hemorrhages, a statement at her film company's office said. It was added that acute peritonitis had set in, but her physicians were hopeful.

Irate Farmer Halts Building of Pipe Line

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 18. The Humble Pipe Line Company, in laying its line from Reagan county to Comyn, is temporarily omitting a half-mile strip north of San Angelo because an irate farmer with a rifle ordered Bruce Gibson and Jimmy Thompson, drivers for the Hughes Teaming Company, off his land.

Three truckloads of pipe started on to the place when a farmer, about 60 years of age, sat down by the road with a gun across his knees.

Humble officials express the opinion that the matter will be amicably settled. This is the second time the Humble pipe stringers have been halted in that section.

FRANCE MAY AID IN SERVANT PROBLEM

IMMIGRATION QUOTA WILL ALLOW OF BRINGING HUNDREDS HERE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Feb. 18. — American housewives on the outlook for domestic help have almost overlooked France in planning to import servants, according to the American Consulate's figures given out last night.

While hundreds of trained Swiss servants have been refused admission to America because Switzerland's immigration quota does not satisfy the demands on it, France, with the smallest quota in Europe —39,450—still has a comfortable average available for visas left over every month.

At the end of January, the seventh month of the application of the new law, France used up only 2428 of its quota. Roughly, one-fourth of that number were domestic servants. There is room for another hundred servants monthly, which would relieve the strain on the American consulates in Switzerland, where several hundred servants already have been refused admission to America.

Other American points will also be granted concessions for shipments of quail, it was announced.

STATE GAINS IN RAILROAD TAXES

California Financial Position to be Best in Years

Espee and Santa Fe to Hand Over $8,493,316.43

Lack Tells About King Bill Payments Due Since 1921

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 18. — Payment by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads of State taxes due under the King tax bill since 1921 will place the State of California in the best financial condition it has enjoyed for many years, M. D. Lack, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, announced today after learning the railroads had decided to abandon their appeal to the United States Supreme Court. The amount the railroads will pay in taxes and penalties, Lack declared, is $8,493,316.43, divided as follows: Southern Pacific Company, taxes, $5,846,553.22; penalties, $730,319.14; total, $6,577,372.36. Santa Fe, taxes, $1,703,061.40; penalties, $213,552.67; total, $1,915,614.07. Grand total, $8,493,316.43.

In addition to the taxes and penalties which the railroads have agreed to pay into the State treasury on of before July 1 next, the State, Lack said, has suits pending in the Superior Court of Sacramento county to collect interest on the protested taxes at the rate of 7 per cent per annum. The interest will amount to approximately $1,500,000.

On the 2nd inst., the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads paid their protested King bill taxes for 1924-25, which, with the penalties totaled $3,940,508.73. Consequently, Lack pointed out, that when $8,493,316 in taxes and penalties is paid by the railroads, and considering the $2,930,995 paid the 2nd inst., and the interest item of $1,500,000, the State treasury will be swelled by the sum of $12,923,324.

Adding to this amount the $1,141,505 surplus over recommended expenditures in Gov. Richardson's budget to the legislature, there will be a grand surplus in the treasury of $14,065,329.

"The result of the railroad suits against the King bill," said Lack, "was obvious from the beginning. The decision of the Federal court was conclusive and unequivocal, and left no foundation on which an appeal could be based.

"Much credit is due to Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb and his staff for the careful handling of a difficult case. It required real ability and skill, and a slight mistake might have cost the State the millions it is now collecting."

WORK NEW ABDUCTION CASE CLEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18.—Police today were endeavoring to trace a woman believed to have been with Mrs. Jessie Appel, Los Angeles woman, when the latter went to Tia Juana two weeks ago, and, according to her story, fell into the hands of several men whom she asserts drugged her, held her captive and then forced her to sign checks, which later were cashed.

Mrs. Appel, who was taken to the Burlingame Hospital yesterday after her harrowing experience, was reported today to be resting comfortably and slowly recovering from the shock. None except her physician and nurse has been allowed to see her.

It was revealed today that Mrs. Appel was brought to the American side of the border Saturday night by a sailor in civilian clothes, who met her in a Tia Juana saloon and to whom she appealed. This man brought her to a modest hotel here and otherwise befriended her, although she did not tell him the details of the asserted abduction nor give her name. Mrs. Appel remained in the hotel Sunday and Monday, when the police were summoned and she was removed to the hospital.

Dr. W. L. Kinsley said Mrs. Appel undoubtedly had been drugged and brutally mistreated, and probably would not leave the hospital for several days.

The police are endeavoring to check up on a story to the effect that Mrs. Appel intended leaving for Los Angeles about two days ago, but left the railway station before train time, presumably in the company of an unidentified woman.

Yucatan Tries to Clear Name With Old Law

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18.—Yucatan, desirous of avoiding the reputation of a divorce mecca, gained through the extremely radical State divorce law, has fallen back on an ancient law which prohibits a married woman without permission of her husband to travel from one Mexican State to another or enter Mexico.

Scores of divorce-hunting women from the United States, Canada and Europe have been refused admittance to Yucatan in the past few months, although they had their passports visaed by Mexican Consuls. The Foreign Relations Ministry has been ordered to instruct all Mexican Consuls to inform women divorce-seekers of the above condition of entry imposed by Yucatan.

IRON WORKER STRIKE MAY BE NATION-WIDE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 18. — With no settlement in sight the two months' strike of 2000 ornamental iron workers in New York City threatens to become nation-wide, Fred W. Armstrong, general manager of the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award, has learned. The strike in New York was called to protest the employment of nonunion ironworkers by members of the Iron League. Armstrong said the reports indicated that the walkout is to be a forerunner of a nation-wide movement to halt millions of dollars worth of construction.

FIRST GOLD FOUND IN YOSEMITE VALLEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YOSEMITE, Feb. 18.—A small nugget of pure gold, the first gold ever found in Yosemite Valley, was picked out of a sand pile yesterday by Fred Krause, a stonemason employed in the construction of the new Yosemite Museum. About twenty years ago miners entered the valley in search of the yellow ore, but were driven out by army officers who had been directed to enforce the regulations in regard to national parks prohibiting mining. These miners never were able to find gold.

Damage estimated at $8000 had been done to a business place owned by Robert Hancock and to a barn owned by E. W. Taylor, of El Paso. The flames, driven by a strong wind, were attacking a large barn when the Clifton party went into action.

COMPACT ISSUE TO BE TACKLED

Arizona Legislature Ready to Take Up Question

Senate Adopts Special Rules to Guide Discussion

High-Line Leader Continues Fight on Project

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Feb. 18.—The Arizona Legislature is about to plunge into discussion of the Colorado River compact and interstate agreements, after holding off until only three weeks remain of the sixty-day session. In the Senate, at the recommendation of President Winsor, rules have been adopted for the debate with a time limit set for each phase of the discussion. Last session the whole of the legislative time was open season for the pact with interminable debate. Three hours will be devoted to the Mexican phases followed by limited discussion on the provisions for division of water in the compact. Then will come the St. Charles resolution calling for ratification and other Senate resolutions that demand reservations. Lastly will be taken up the Senate and House resolutions that look toward conferences and agreements with California and Nevada.

Senator Colter, who also is president of the Arizona High Line Canal Association, today offered a new resolution remarkable especially for its verbiage. It asserts that every river survey develops new and startling facts favorable to Arizona, that a false legislative step "would constitute a blunder so gigantic as to have no equal in American history and would bring to this Legislature the just anathema and hate of the citizenry that is to come, while they weep for an empire that was lost."

FEARS POWER INVASION

Fear is expressed that other States may be allowed to come into Arizona and build power dams; the upper basin is declared to be given more water than it could use and the compact is declared not established in the courts and to be unamendable. These are called fatal defects "that should be sounded with an anvil chorus and shouted from the housetops until Arizona is ready to act." For these reasons, demand is made that the Governor be furnished with $100,000 for comprehensive study of Arizona's possible use of the Colorado River, he thereafter to appoint a committee of four legislators and two other citizens to confer with similar committees from California and Nevada.

The Governor sent a communication from the Attorney-General to the effect that the State has little to do with the proposed toll bridge across the Colorado at Blythe and that it is a matter to be settled by the counties interested.

BRIDGE FUND APPROVED

The House passed a bill to appropriate $100,000 for a bridge across the Colorado at Lee's Ferry, a similar sum having been appropriated by Congress from Indian funds. It also passed a bill exempting from taxation the Boyce Thompson desert arboretum, near Superior.

At the urge of the State Treasurer, as State funds are running low, the House rushed through a bill that had had leisurely passage in the Senate, permitting the issuance when needed of tax anticipation bonds, instead of waiting for legislative authority.

The ownership of automobile rental batteries is protected in a bill passed by the Senate.

Still another banking bill was offered in the House demanding bonds or securities to secure depositors from loss. Appropriation of $100,000 is asked for a new road from Winkelman to Klondike, to develop mines and shorten highway distances across Arizona.

Other new House measures include: Cutting the compensation of the Adjutant-General from about $5000 to $2400; disposing of vehicles captured in prohibition enforcement; giving right of way to school busses; distributing to counties taxes on transient herds and sheep bands.

UTILITY COMPANY INCREASES STOCK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 18.—At a meeting of stockholders of the San Antonio Public Service Company, subsidiary of the American Light and Traction Company of New York, an increase of capital stock from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 was authorized. It was explained by Ed H. Kifer, vice-president and general manager, that besides the ultimate construction of a 100,000-horsepower plant on the Guadalupe River near New Braunfels, other improvements contemplated in various departments will necessitate an expenditure of approximately $1,900,000 during the present year.

A FLYING SAGEHEN

He hasn't any wings but his rivals frequently think so when they get up against Hugh Pinney, Pomona College sprint star. The Sagehen flyer will be seen in action Saturday afternoon at Pasadena against the Caltech dash artists.

COLLEGE SQUADS CLASH

Pomona and Caltech Meet on Cinder Path in Opening Meet of Conference Season

Spring is here or if it isn't it ought to be for the first official track meet of the 1925 intercollegiate season is carded for Saturday afternoon at Pasadena. The Pomona College cinder cruncherss are slated to engage the California Tech artists in a high-powered dual meet, said affair to commence at 2 o'clock.

The Sagehens are topheavy favorites to cop the meet and some of Coach Bob Strehle's athletes may have a hard time getting up a decent sweat. In Bob Maxwell, hurdler; Hugh Pinney and Doug Smith, sprinters; Chuck Eaton, javelin tosser; Champ Clark and Earl Merritt, weight artists; Bill Snyder, long-winded runner; Hill, Hamilton and Turner, high jumpers, and Homer Frisbee, broad-jumper, the Sagehen mentor has a host of veteran point getters. Maxwell is sure of two firsts in the hurdles, while Snyder ought to cop the two-mile race rather handily.

W. L. "Fox" Stanton, who is chaperoning the Engineers, hasn't a great amount of material to work with and it is a cinch that the Caltech squad doesn't compare with the Pomona outfit from the standpoint of class. However, Stanton can always be depended upon to furnish some surprisingly agile young man who comes up from nowhere to down some well-known favorite. A few years ago he had Doug Keetch, a great two-miler, while his contribution last season was Mayhew, a freshman javelin heaver. Glenn Graham, Olympic Games pole vaulter, is sure of a first place in his event, while Edwards in the sprints will undoubtedly give the Sagehen stars considerable competition.

The meet will give Southern California dopesters a pretty fair line on the Pomona squad. Strehle has a veteran team and they ought to make a good showing in the A.A.U. relays at the Coliseum a week from Saturday. The Sagehens meet California in a dual meet here next month.

RUTH STILL REDUCES; NOW WEIGHS MERE 232

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HOT SPRINGS (Ark.) Feb. 18.—"Babe" Ruth in his battle with weight, has reduced from 245½ pounds to 232, but still is seventeen pounds over his objective, which is 215.

Ruth devotes most of his time now to "tubbing," and is said to melt away about five pounds with each parboiling. But his appetite remains and most of the weight is put on again between his tortuous visits to the vapor chambers, making the process of reducing slow work, but with every indication that it will be sure.

HOPPE INCREASES HIS LEAD OVER CANNEFAX

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SERAPHS BUY NEW TWIRLER

Angels Get Charley Glazner from Philadelphia

Bengal Chuckers, Catchers Start Work Monday

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Good news was bubbling over at the Seraph headquarters yesterday. Not only did Business Manager Oscar Reichow announce the purchase of Pitcher Charley "Whitney" Glazner from the Philadelphia Nationals, but Marty Krug came out with a statement that Wally Hood had deserted the ranks of the holdouts. So, as the sugar peddler remarked, what could be sweeter?

Skipper Krug was quite elated over the acquisition of Glazner, who should win quite a number of games for the Cherubs. Glazner is 28 years of age and has had enough experience to prove tough for the hitters in this loop. According to several of the players in town who have seen Glazner in action, the newest Angel has a good curve ball and should more than get by in this loop.

Glazner joined the Pittsburg club in 1920 after winning twenty-four and losing ten games for Birmingham in the Southern Association. In 1921 he led the Pirate chuckers, winning fourteen and losing five, while the following year he finished with eleven wins and twelve defats. During the middle of the 1923 campaign Glazner was traded to the lowly Phillies for Lee Meadows and he ended up with nine wins and fifteen losses. Last year Glazner won seven and lost sixteen games, but he ranked twenty-fifth in the runs responsible per game averages.

Glazner was purchased outright from the Phillies after negotiations had been on for more than a month. The Seraphs did not go through with the deal until certain Glazner would sign.

Concerning Hood, Manager Krug cornered Wally in the Angel offices yesterday and, after a lengthy chat, they emerged with Wally having agreed to terms.

"Now that we have Glazner," said Pilot Krug, "we ought to have the best hurling staff in the league providing we can get Wayne Wright to report. A wire was dispatched to Wright yesterday and we expect to hear from him in a day or two."

The Cubs still owe the Angels a couple of players. Krug wants to get a southpaw hurler and an infielder from the Bruins and if he does, believes that his club will be set to step right out in the lead and stay there.

Bill Essick, chatty skipper of the Vernon Tigers, will get the Tiger batterymen and rookies off on the spring training grind at Maier Park Monday morning. Uniforms will be dished out and then Bill will start the athletes off on a two-workouts-a-day menu.

Marty Krug also will get the Angel pitchers and catchers started Monday morning. Krug plans to hold morning and afternoon workouts daily so as to get the twirlers in good shape by the time the regulars begin rolling in March 2.

Howard Lorenz, Secretary of the Tigers, yesterday spiked the rumor that the Bengals were after the services of Pete Scott, Kansas City outfielder who is now playing with the White King Soaps. When it was announced that Mike Menosky, the galloping Pole, had been peddled, enterprising scribes immediately decided that Scott should play with Essick's pets.

ALHAMBRA AND MERCURY MIX ON COURT SATURDAY NIGHT

The Alhambra Athletic Club basketball team, which is tied with the Hollywood Athletic Club five for the leadership of the Southern California A.A.U. race, will meet the Los Angeles Athletic Club squad at the Mercury Gym, Saturday night. The game was originally scheduled for last Tuesday night but was postponed at the request of the suburban cagers.

Fox, star center of the Alhambrans, will not be able to play against the Mercury tossers, and may be lost to the team for the rest of the season. He is in the hospital with an infected knee. Casey will take his place Saturday night. If the L.A.A.C. squad wins they will be in line to tie for the title by beating Hollywood Monday night.

The Champ On His Back--

But no fighter put him there. Mickey Walker believes in strengthening his kitchen and is doing so in preparation for next Tuesday night's clash with Bert Colima.

TROJANS WIN ANOTHER

U.S.C. Tossers Trim Arizona 25 to 10 in Wild Game; L.A.A.C. Quintet Thumps Frosh 35 to 33

BY BRAVEN DYER

In a hand-to-hand, catch-as-catch-can, punch-for-punch, rough-and-tumble contest that should have been staged under the Marquis of Gooseberry rules, the U.S.C. basketball team made it two straight over the University of Arizona tossers last night by scoring a 25-to-10 victory at the Trojan pavilion. Jack Doyle, Vernon fight promoter, would do well to sign up all of the evening's principals for his next boxing show as the boys all conducted themselves in orthodox ring fashion.

Coach Lee Turner's athletes started out by playing a strong defensive game and the score after eight minutes play was 7 to 0 in their favor as a result. This seemed to nettle the Wildcats, who are not easily tamed, and with the introduction of Mr. Oldham into the fray the visitors began to fight—not only with the U.S.C. guards, but also with anyone else who happened to come in front of them.

Lee Turner

GREAT SCRAP

The result was a free-for-all, man-to-man scrap that produced countless tumbles, wrestling matches, shoving contests and none-too-friendly petting parties. The Wildcats forgot all the basketball they ever knew and devoted most of their time to bumping the Trojans around, and the locals responded with a few well-directed bumps of their own. Score at half-time was 12 to 4 in favor of the U.S.C. tossers, mainly due to the energetic efforts of Kenny Boyer, who caged four field goals.

In the second half the same tactics prevailed, with U.S.C. holding the upper hand throughout. Oldham, who had made 13 points the night before, was held to a lone field goal, Miller and Skousen getting one each, for the sum total of the visitors' baskets from the floor. Some fast work by Kaer and Badgro kept the locals out in front.

Referee Ralph McCord, who also worked the preliminary game, perspired like a geyser during the evening. Two men ought to be assigned to cover such contests.

INJURY SHELVES KAPLAN

BY PAUL LOWRY

Zealous Kid Kaplan is just beginning to realize what it cost him to box twelve rounds with Bud Ridley at Vernon a week ago last Tuesday. He came out of the fracas apparently none the worse for wear and without even a good perspiration, but yesterday Dr. Roscoe Nicholson, after an examination of the world featherweight champion's hand, pronounced him unfit for action for at least three weeks.

Whereupon Scotty Montieth, the demon manager, immediately got in touch with Tommy Simpson at Oakland and had the match with Johnny Farr shoved ahead one week. Unless other complications develop the two will tangle in the northern burg March 11.

The Oakland bout causes Jack Doyle some embarrassment, for he had planned to use Kaplan in a return go at Vernon with Tod Morgan of Seattle soon after the northern scrap.

Rose Bowl Talk is Bunk

Eastern writers apparently are very much agitated about a Dempsey-Gibbons battle out this way, and their latest efforts have brought the Rose Bowl at Pasadena into the limelight.

Harry M. Ticknor, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, spiked this one by saying that no application had come or ever would come before the board for a professional prize fight in the Pasadent stadium.

Commissioner Seth Strelinger, chairman of the California Boxing Board, says no one has applied to him for a permit to stage a fight in the Rose Bowl, and he suspects that the idea is a clever stunt of Gibbons's publicity agent to get his boss's name in the public print.

Incidentally Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, says the Rose Bowl thing is news to him.

with U.S.C. for the fall and also that the Cardinal will arrange a dual track meet for the coming spring months.

California announces that it will be impossible to arrange a varsity football game for the fall of 1925 because its football schedule has been arranged and cannot be readjusted. However, it is anticipated that the freshmen teams of California and U.S.C. will have a football match on the fall schedule.

Other games, it is said, will be arranged in various athletic lines and it is believed that another year will find the three big universities of the State functioning in all lines of college sports.

U.S.C. STARTS IT

The move for a return to athletic relations was started last fall by University of Southern California. It is reported that trustees of that institution declared their willingness to accede to any requests that might come from the northern institutions.

While unconfirmed, it is reported one of the demands was for the retirement of Gus Henderson as football coach. Still another move is to be seen in the recent announcement from Southern California that Harold J. Stonier and Warren Bovard would no longer be affiliated with the athletic situation in the Trojan school.

Paul Davis, graduate manager of Stanford, is at present in Los Angeles, and undoubtedly before his return home will arrange for the varsity football game that is to be staged.

Following is the official statement:

At a conference held in San Francisco today between representatives of California, Stanford and University of Southern California it was agreed, after a discussion of the athletic policies and methods of control of the three institutions, to resume athletic relationship as soon as schedules in the various boards can be resumed.

DEFINITE UNDERSTANDING

The representatives of the three institutions feel that the success of real amicable sports relationships can be furthered and maintained only by definite understandings between the responsible university authorities. The attitude of friction and antagonism fostered by statements which have appeared in the press from different elements of the public, the alumni and self-appointed representatives of these institutions is particularly deplored.

Incorrect reports in the public press concerning relationships of the University of California and the University of Southern California were condemned by the representatives at the conferences.

The so-called Martin case was of interest to both California and Southern California and the termination in January by dropping the student mentioned helped pave the way for resumption of friendly relations.

Student control at California corresponds to the general athletic committee at Southern California and the board of athletic control at Stanford, wherein students have representation. Control of scholastic requirements and enforcement of eligibility rules are in the hands of faculty representatives at all three institutions, public statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

FOSTER TRUE SPIRIT

It is confidently expected that this resumption of relations, if kept within the bounds of strict university control, will foster a true spirit of rivalry that will protect intercollegiate athletics from the professional stigma.

It is possible at this late date to arrange a track meet between University of Southern California and Stanford this spring, with a possibility of a varsity football game this fall. The California and Southern California schedules for the remainder of this year are so arranged the only possibility of a football game before 1926 will be between the freshmen teams of the two universities. These and other sports will be arranged between the three institutions for the next college year.

MRS. HURD NABS MATCH EASILY

Titleholder Disposes of Wisconsin Champion

Faces Miss Cummings Today in Feature Tilt

Glenna Collett to Tackle Frances Hadfield

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PALM BEACH (Fla.) Feb. 18. Two former national champions and the present national woman golf champion will compete in the semifinal round of the Florida women's golf championship on the Palm Beach course here tomorrow. In the upper bracket, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, present national title-holder, will meet Miss Edith Cummings, former national champion, and in the lower bracket Miss Glenna Collett, former national champion, plays Miss Frances Hadfield.

Mrs. Hurd was always in command of the situation in her game with Miss Bernice Wall, Wisconsin state champion. She maintained a steady-going, relentless pace from the start, while Miss Wall, a brilliant young player, was erratic around the greens. Mrs. Hurd won, 6 and 4.

Miss Collett had little difficulty in downing Mrs. Phillip Stevenson, 6 and 5. The Providence golfer started out in whirlwind fashion and had the match practically in hand even before the turn was reached.

The best match of the day was that between Miss Hadfield and Miss Dorothy Kletz, semifinalist in the western championship last year. Miss Klotz played the first nine in beautiful fashion, turning with a lead of three holes, but coming home she lost the tenth and, after winning the eleventh, lost four consecutive holes due to some brilliant play by Miss Hadfield. A birdie on the seventeenth enabled Miss Klotz to square the match, but Miss Hadfield got a fine par four at the seventeenth and they halved the eighteenth for a 1-up victory for Miss Hadfield.

TROJAN FIVE BEATS ARIZONA

The curtain-raiser was a much better basketball game than the so-called main affair. The Los Angeles Athletic Club team trimmed the U.S.C. Freshi, 35 to 33, after a pulse-quickening finish that almost produced half-a-dozen sudden deaths. With about two minutes to go the Mercury team was leading, 32 to 29. A basket by Brunner put the Frosh in the running and then a free throw by Thomas tied the count. Brunner got another free throw to put the Trojans ahead and it looked like curtains for the clubmen, but Linnie Larson came through with a free throw to knot the count once more. Just before the gun barked old reliable Fred Olney eased his tired, elongated frame to one side of the court and popped a shot through the net to give his team victory. The win meant a lot to the Mercury five as a defeat would have ruined their chances of a tie with Hollywood and Alhambra for the A.A.U. honors. Ed Saunders, one of the regular Club guards, did not play last night.

The line-ups:

Buck Curtis Beats Soules at Wilmington

Buck Curtis was awarded a decision over Bud Soules, who subbed for Pat Mills, in the main event at the Wilmington Athletic Club last night. Mills appeared in the ring with seven stitches over his eye and was therefore excused from donning the mittens. Curtis was master of the situation throughout and gave Bud a boxing lesson over the entire ten-round route.

Sailor Snyder, all-Navy champion, knocked out Al Pomeroy in the first round of the semifinal. The gob delivered a right hook to the jaw that dropped Pomeroy on his face. He was out for five minutes.

Sailor Spence beat Don Downey via the decision route in six rounds. Kid Chile won a decision over Solly Martinez. Dave Mustafo won over Ted Barton in the third round of the curtain raiser when the referee stopped the bout to spare Barton from further punishment.

COVINA CAGERS TRIM GLENDALE HIGH FIVE

Stopping a rally just in time, Covina High's basketball team defeated Glendale, 19 to 18, at Covina yesterday afternoon. The winners got away to a fast start and were leading, 13 to 6, at half time, but while they got five points in the last half, the Dynamiters rang up twelve, and were coming along fast when the whistle stopped the game. Arnel, Covina forward, was the big hero of the game, scoring thirteen of his team's points.

Beauman and Sturman starred for Glendale. The line-ups:

Covina (19.)		Glendale (18.)
Arnel (13)	F.	Hardy

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

THE open season on track records is with us again. Mr. Albert Gill Waddell of the Culver City bowl bursts into the sporting editor's sanctum with a brand new speedway record every single afternoon. When the boys begin to worry about what's going to be on the front page of the early edition they avoid gray hair by leaning back and saying, "Oh, well, Al will be in pretty soon with a new record busted by somebody. I wonder whose turn it is today."

Thus is the noble effort of a hard-working publicity getter handled about among the knowing newspaper men. And the funny part of it all is that every blooming record they make out there is absolutely bona fide, 100 proof, all wool and a yard wide, as was proven by the speed that the boys made in the recent race which opened the new speedway.

That's the thing that annoys Mr. Waddell. If he were just a private citizen with an amateur interest in the speed lanes and he came dashing into the office all breathless-like with the story of Benny Hill circling the big board bowl in some startling time or other, the journalists would all fall off their chairs in the excitement of trying to hold the front page long enough to get the story in.

But the mere fact that Mr. Waddell secures a stupendous sum of money for his services at the Speedway makes the newspaper men all laugh merrily when he busts in with a new mark. And when you're a truthful young man like Mr. Waddell and the speed kings are really and truly fracturing the speedway records, it's discouraging, indeed, to have the boys spooling you about it.

The truth of the matter is that speedway racing is the one unbelievable sport in which the records continually go higher and higher, despite the handicaps that are being put on the drivers and the car builders. In the course of about four years—probably five—the size of the engines has been cut from 300 cubic inches to 122. The present motors are a bit more than one-third as large as they were five years ago—and they're going faster and faster every day.

Scientific engineering and tremendous advices in design and construction have enabled the manufacturers to speed up the cars faster than the speedway officials could cut them down. There is not a standard automobile made now for commercial use—in this country—with as engine as small as these racing cars, and yet here they are making over 130 miles an hour and the end not in sight yet.

It is certainly no wonder at all that the public seems to be crazy about speedway racing. They'll have a crowd at Culver City Sunday that will rival the opening day attendance, which jammed the new plant to capacity. The speed kings are tuning up their cars to an even higher pitch than they did for that race, which fractured every existing record for speed.

There seems to be no limit to the speed that can be produced by the slim, innocent-looking little contraptions which speed around the big basin. They are the Pauvo Nurmis of motordom, and, while the thrills they produce for the crowd are sensational and probably well worth the money, the even more marvelous thing is the advancement they represent in man's unending pursuit of Father Time.

Andy Toolen, Former U.S.C. Star, is Dead

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EVANSTON (Ill.) Feb. 18. Andrew J. "Andy" Toolen, 26 years of age, former University of Southern California football star, died here today of typhoid fever. He played left end on the Trojan teams of 1919, 1920 and 1921.

Following his graduation at Los Angeles, Toolen came to Chicago, where he engaged in the practice of patent law. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Georgia Bennethum of Hollywood, Cal. They were married October 15, 1924.

Toolen was one of the early proteges of "Gloomy Gus" Henderson, who recently resigned as coach of the U.S.C. Andy was also a football star during his high school days in Los Angeles.

MIDWICK FACES SAN MATEO

Star Polo Outfit to Play Local Squad in First of Two-Game Series Tomorrow

Led by Will Tevis, Jr., one of the best-known polo players on the Pacific Coast, the San Mateo squad will meet the Midwick Country Club riders in the first of a two-game series at the Alhambra Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The second match is scheduled for the same time Sunday.

Tevis is the son of Will Tevis and as such he has carried on the good work which his father did for the turf game on the Coast many years ago. Young Tevis carries the highest handicap of the visiting four, rating four goals. He will be seen in action at No. 3 position and Midwick riders will undoubtedly be busy trying to keep track of him.

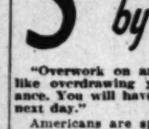
W. W. Parker, riding at No. 1 berth, is rated at one goal as is Cliff Weatherwax, No. 2 man. R. P. Schwerin, back, carries a two-goal handicap. Reports from the north have praised the work of Weatherwax, who is reputed to be a hard hitter and a fast rider.

Carleton Burke has not announced Midwick's line-up as yet, due to the fact that the locals have been trying out many combinations during the past few days. It is almost a certainty that either Arthur Perkins, Teddy Miller or Burke will be in there to stop Tevis. S. H. Cox, J. A. Ruddick, Ed Vail, Jack Holt, Harry Pattee, Hal Roach and Gordon Cronkhite are all available for duty.

SPORT-CASTS by Walter Camp

"Overwork on any one sport is like overdrawing your bank balance. You will have to pay up the next day."

Americans are specialists. We specialize in business and as a result we lead the world in the field of commerce. We specialize in sports, and the world of sport is dominated today by Americans. But too great a specialization in sport isn't the best influence on the general health of a nation. A game of golf or tennis is often possible when a round of golf is out of the question. A fast walk in carbon-cleaning air may be feasible when conditions make it impossible to indulge in your favorite sport. The man who becomes fairly proficient in a number of outdoor sports is better fitted for the job of keeping fit than the man who can play and enjoy only one game.



The English are several yards ahead of us in this matter of general enjoyment of all sports. Colin Aylmer, a leading English golfer and a member of England's 1922 Walker Cup team, rates golf as number three or four on his list of sport favorites. Yet he plays a good enough game to be selected as an internationalist. In his delightful book on golf Cyril Tolley relates that cricket took as much of his time in college as the elusive business of stalking par. How many members of American golf teams have ever attained any degree of skill at any game except golf? The list is very small.

Perhaps the chief cause of our specialization in sport is the fierce American desire to win. Winning is a vital part of the game, but it isn't everything. One result of too great a desire to win is the tendency to set so swift a pace that the entry for a championship burns out.

Put the ten best British amateurs and the ten best British pros against the best twenty we could muster from our ranks of amateurs and professional golfers and the chances are that the American side would win a majority of any set number of matches. Put the first thousand in England against our first thousand and the battles should be fairly even. But put our first thousand golfers who are past 40 against a thousand British opponents of the same age and it is my belief that the English would lead all the way in both skill and endurance.

My belief is based on the fact that the average Englishman of 60 has spent more time in the open air in the enjoyment of general sport than the average American of the same age. The cross-country tramp just for the sheer physical fun of a keen workout is a common experience to Englishmen. The average American doesn't indulge in this form of exercise at all.

The answer of the average American to this argument will probably be that he is too busy to take up more than one sport. The buster he is the more he needs various sports that will fit into casual spare time.

Fairly good proof that we have a tendency to burn ourselves out in sport is contained in the record books of athletics. In the sprint distances our men lead the world, but in the distances, where stamina counts most, a nation like Finland, with a population of only 3,000,000, produces a Nurmi and a Ritola to dominate the field. It seems a little absurd that a nation of 120,000,000 people, with the strong pioneer blood of all of the peoples of the world fused in their veins, can't produce a worthy competitor for these tireless men from the tiny country that is Finland. The explanation of the absurdity is too great an emphasis on sheer speed and not enough attention to building general strength. The material is all here. It only needs development.

We understand that the phonetic spelling of Nurmi would be "Nearme." Is it possible that the great Finn, looking over his shoulder as he breasts the tape with no one to keep him company, occasionally mutters to himself: "There is no one Nurmi"?

A western newspaper informs us that they occasionally freeze baseballs in Salt Lake City in order to keep down the number of base hits possible in the rarified atmosphere of the balls are not deadened by being frozen. This is not really a news item, for Babe Ruth, after depositing one in the stands, has often said to the opposing pitcher, "You may, at your leisure, freeze that one!"

MOSS FOX VICTORIOUS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18. — Moss Fox, well prepped for a sprint, captured the six-furlong feature event on today's card at Tia Juana, winning by four lengths from a field of six starters. T. S. Jordan was second and June Grass, a New York horse, was third. T. S. Jordan set the early pace, but had nothing left when Moss Fox was given his head.

Paula Shay won the fifth race, the first one this season in which only three horses were entered. Roseatte II got the biggest support from the public and was rated at even money while Paula Shay and Dr. Clark were priced at 2 to 1.

Jockey Elston had the leg up on Paula Shay. In the preceding two races he brought over winners, Mount Shasta and Sway.

Sweet and Law at 27 to 1, snatched the eighth race from the favorite Grayson by a head.

First race, four furlongs—Queer Thing (Barnes, up); Ouanla (Liller,) second; Silver Slate (Smith,) third. Time 0:48 3-5.

Second race, four and one-half furlongs—Twin Fox (Coyle,) up; Sir John Vargas (Ellis,) second; Blanche Meyers (Smith,) third. Time 0:53 3-5.

Third race, six furlongs—Mount Shasta (Elston, up); Oil Lady (Griffin,) second; Margaret Mc (Fisher,) third. Time 1:09 1-5.

Fourth race, mile and one-sixteenth—Sway (Mathews,) up; Cal. Lil (Fisher,) second; Alamor (Griffin,) third. Time 1:47 1-5.

Fifth race, mile and one-sixteenth—Paula Shay (Elston, up); Rosetta (Haugland,) second; Dr. Clark (Griffin,) third. Time 1:49 3-5.

Sixth race, six furlongs—Moss Fox (Griffin,) up; T. S. Jordan (Germaine,) second; June Grass (Tedlie,) third. Time 1:15.

Seventh race, mile and one-sixteenth—Silent King (Ellis,) up; Professorship (McHugh,) second; Miss Bella (Elston,) third. Time 1:47.

Eighth race, six furlongs—Sweet and Low (Martinsen,) up; Grayson (Fisher,) second; Miss Gloria (Griffin,) third. Time 1:13 2-5.

Ninth race, six furlongs—Nan McKinney (Ellis,) up; Scottish Lad (Frederick,) second; Maxine (Barnes,) third. Time 1:13.

SCHLOCKER FACES ASHMORE

Joe Schlocker, former Los Angeles Athletic Club lightweight, who has made rapid strides in the boxing game since the adoption of ten-round fights in California, will meet a tough customer tonight, when he tangles with Sailor Ashmore, former Pacific Coast 135-pound champ, in the main event of the Pasadena Armory scraps. The pair will settle differences over the ten-round route.

In as much as both are hard sockers, it would not be a bit surprising should the battle end prematurely. Neither have ever been stopped in a local ring, so it is expected that the fans will be in for ten rounds of slugging.

The Pasadena Armory management is expecting a husky crowd and has enlarged the seating capacity by 500, with the addition of new bleachers.

Joe Reese and Sailor Cadena, 120-pounders, hook up in the semi-wind-up in what should be a fast struggle. This one is billed for six rounds. In the other bouts, which will be four-rounders, Pewee Nolan faces Tony Archer at 115 pounds; Virgin Williams takes on Young Deever at 118 pounds, and Rudy Guyton and Roy Sotelo, 130-pounders, meet in the opener.

Thompson Wins Over Sylvester by a Knock-out

Jack Thompson knocked out Eddie Sylvester in the third round of the main bout, which was scheduled to go ten rounds at the Assembly Athletic Club last night. A right wallop to the point of the chin sealed the doom of Mr. Sylvester, and he was out cold for the rest of the evening.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THE Joe Benjamin-Jack Silver fistic debate at San Francisco next Monday is going to enlighten John J. Public on a couple of points—how good is Silver and how punk is Benjamin, or vice versa? The battle should be a bloodthirsty, savage, ruthless affair, for the winner will be one of the eight contenders still left in the running for a whack at Benny Leonard's crown.

The victor will be the West's only representative in the lightweight elimination tourney arranged by the New York State Boxing Commission, and if he is fortunate enough to wade through all the opposition it means fabulous money opportunities. Leonard is generally reputed to be worth over $500,000, with the shekels rolling in all the time. Why shouldn't Benjamin and Silver put everything they have—heart and soul, shoestrings and leather—into it? The plum is worth the picking.

While Benjamin has had more or less success in the East, Silver is purely San Francisco boy. He has had all his successes in the Bay City, but he has done so well that the critics are almost a unit in acclaiming him the best lightweight on the Coast.

Benjamin is an exceptionally clever boxer and he can hit. But time and again he has displayed his lack of courage when soaked. If he gets out in front and evades punishment he looks like a million dollars, but he fades quickly when the going gets rough. It may be that with the stakes so great he may overcome his backbone weakness and develop the Jack Dempsey fighting spirit. If he does, look out for him.

They're beginning to talk up an Ace-Hudkins-Benjamin fight at Hollywood in the near future. But if Benjamin gets by Silver it's hard to see when they would put it on, for Joe ought to sail along to the semifinals or finals of the lightweight scramble if he clears the San Francisco hurdle. It would be a great fight and one everybody would like to see.

However, there is another fight in the air for Hudkins that ought to test his mettle. That is one with Dode Bercot, the Seattle southpaw who licked tough Morris Schlaifer, the Omaha welter, last Friday night at Hollywood.

It's a logical battle. Hudkins has beaten nearly all the lightweights and junior welters hereabouts except Bercot, and the latter has walloped pretty nearly everybody except Alex Hart, who outpointed him when they met at Vernon.

Bercot's southpaw style might puzzle Hudkins and for that reason Ace's managers may duck the match, but if they're going to make a real champ out of him they ought to throw him at Bercot and let him show his stuff. An all-around fighter like Hudkins ought not to be annoyed by one who deals his smacks from the port side.

Ernie Owens's stock dropped several points on the market as a result of his defeat at the hands of Lew Rollinger at Vernon Tuesday night. As far as points were concerned Owens really won the fight, but his lack of aggressiveness and wilting when stung lost him a lot of friends. "Served him right," was the verdict of many persons when the referee raised Rollinger's hand.

The least that can be said of Rollinger is that he attempted to make it a fight. Owens stood in the middle of the ring trying to make Rollinger do all the leading and acting as if he had a huge reputation to uphold.

Young Ad Codina ought to go quite a ways in the pugilistic profession. He had tough Paddy Clancy sick in short order, demonstrating that he is not only a good boxer, but a guy with a wallop.

VENICE NINE DOWNS JEFFERSON TOSSERS

The Venice High baseball squad blanked the Jefferson nine, 4 to 0, in a practice game played yesterday on the Gondolier's diamond. Valdez and Swaboda, on the mound for the Venetians, held the Democrats in check all the way. Warren pitched good ball, but the home guards managed to touch him for hits on a couple of critical occasions. Lombardi, third-sacker for Venice, featured. The same teams meet next Wednesday at Jefferson. The score:

	R.	H.	E.

TOMORROW'S GAMES

Pomona at San Bernardino.
Riverside at Chaffey.

The race for the basketball title in the Citrus Belt League will probably be settled tomorrow night when the two leading teams, Pomona and San Bernardino, Cardinal and Black, tangle on the Gate City court. Both teams have the same number of wins marked up to their credit. Pomona defeated San Bernardino in the first round of play and many fans expect the big Red and White to repeat.

With the advantage of the home floor and two victories in the past week, the Cardinal and Black have an even chance of copping the game. Pomona will enter the contest without the services of Hill, forward, and Bonnett, guard. These two men are out for the remainder of the season on account of midyear graduation.

San Bernardino defeated the Anaheim Cubs two weeks ago on Anaheim floor by the score of 24 to 20. Last Saturday the San Bernardino team ran up one of the largest scores made in the south this year when they put the skids under Victorville, 64 to 4.

Riverside and Chaffey are in a tie for second place and are both strong enough to defeat either of the league leaders. Redlands is holding the cellar championship and, unless a great change takes place on the Terrier outfit, they will end the season in the same position.

Undefeated and with only one more victory to cinch the league banner, the San Bernardino lightweights are holding the lead at the present time. Before the league schedule got under way these little midgets won five games and, with the four league wins, their total is now nine. Outpassing and outshooting their opponents has spelled success for the little Cards.

Kane's Denial

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul will not meet Champion Jack Dempsey in a no-decision bout for the world's heavyweight title.

This was indicated here by Eddie Kane, manager of the St. Paul battler, when he said that nothing but an honest-to-goodness shot at the title would be considered. Kane added that a number of bids had been received from all parts of the country, but that they were proceeding slowly in order to select the best proposition.

"There has been a lot of talk of a no-decision bout to be held in California," said Eddie. "We have been offered several terms for such a bout, but are paying absolutely no attention to them. If the fight is put on in that State it will not be a twelve-round no-decision contest, but a genuine ten-rounder to a decision.

"Just set down as bunk any Coast report that Tommy has signed for a Los Angeles go. Nothing definite has been done except to consider bids, and we are doing that carefully."

POSE AS POLICEMEN; ROB LONE AUTOIST

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, Feb. 18.—How two men wearing olive drab uniforms and posing as Los Angeles county traffic officers searched his car and his clothing on a road between this city and Los Angeles early this morning and extracted $10 from a wallet which he carried, was recited to the Ontario police today by Frank P. Young, of 2311 Fargo street, Los Angeles.

Young lost his way in a dense fog, according to his report to the police, and stopped another machine for directions back to the Valley boulevard. In the other car were the two supposed officers who asked him what he had in his automobile. Young replied that he had only a valise containing clothing. This the two men proceeded to search. They then went through the clothing and extracted a pocket book which they carried to their own car for examination, later returning it. It was not until Young stopped at a filling station to buy gasoline that he discovered that a $10 bill had been taken from his pocketbook. He stated that he could identify the men.

HEAR TESTIMONY IN FAMOUS LIBEL CASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 18.—The first testimony in the $90,000 libel suit of Councilman George M. McGuire against C. A. Storke and T. M. Storke for editorials appearing in the Daily News during the recent recall election which are asserted to have been of a damaging nature, was taken today.

C. A. Storke was on the witness stand all morning. In his editorials the accused McGuire of profiting in a transaction whereby he became the owner of a city building, but he admitted on the stand that the private contractor who purchased it from the Council offered it to him for sale before McGuire purchased it.

The Storkes are being defended by Atty. W. J. Ford, of Los Angeles, while Councilman McGuire is represented by Geo. C. Sanders of Los Angeles and J. C. Benton of Santa Barbara.

NO PRIZEFIGHTS IN PASADENA ROSE BOWL

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 18.—Among other places, the proposed Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons prize-fight will not be held in Pasadena's stadium. This statement was made today by Harry M. Tickner, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, when confronted with press dispatches from Chicago stating that the bout would be held in the Rose Bowl.

The Chicago report stated that Eddie Kane, Gibbons's manager, had accepted terms for a fight in Pasadena.

"It's news to me," said Mr. Tickner. "Some fight promoter has evidently had an ambitious dream. The suggestion that a fight be held in Rose Bowl has never been before the board of directors and never will be. And that's that."

VISITOR TO JAIL HELD TO EXPLAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

VISALIA, Feb. 18.—R. G. Davidson, barber of Los Angeles, is being held in the Tulare County Jail as a result of a mistake he made when he called at the jail and asked to see his "cousin," Mrs. Helen Floyd, who was returned from Los Angeles on Monday to face bad-check charges.

Sheriff R. L. Hill was of opinion that Davidson erred when he declared he had never done anything "contrary to the law" in his life, as his description tallied with that of a man with whom Mrs. Floyd was declared to have been living in the south.

Davidson is said to have finally confessed that he was not related to the woman, that they had been living together and that he was wanted by Los Angeles authorities. He is being held for investigation.

Oceans of Wine Taken in Raid Near Riverside

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 18.—Bacchus, late last night sustained one of the most serious blows he has ever received in Riverside county. Sheriff's officers raided a Winesville dwelling, confiscated 4000 gallons of wine and made three arrests.

Mike Burtolon, 31 years of age, is in the County Jail for the third time in less than a year, charged with sale, possession and manufacture of liquor. Charlie Burtolon, 39, his brother, is charged with possession and manufacture, and Matt Beltzer, 32, faces the same accusations.

Springing a trap which had been set for the Italians, Deputy Sheriff Paul M. Scott led a posse into the house two miles west and a half-mile south of Winesville at 9 o'clock. In a cleverly concealed cellar under the house the officers found five ninety-gallon barrels of wine; a barn near by revealed a 4000-gallon vat, and in the house there were more than a score of five-gallon demijohns filled with the liquor.

PAY FINAL TRIBUTE

Persons of All Creeds Attend Funeral of Priest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 18.—Father Albert, exiled Irish Patriot, was laid to his final rest in the tiny graveyard at Santa Ynez Mission this morning while Catholics and Protestants alike paid final honor to the young priest who gave his life in a fight for the Irish Republic.

A profusion of floral tributes, one from Eamon de Valeria, was placed on the casket yesterday by Father Dominic who reached Santa Barbara, an exile from Ireland, three weeks ago. Messages of condolences from Irish agitators from all corners of the world poured through the Cable offices Sunday, Monday and Yesterday but Father Dominic was the only Franciscan priest who knew Father Albert in the stirring days of the Irish rebellion to follow the casket from Santa Barbara Mission to Santa Ynez, a distance of 40 miles.

The tiny mission at Santa Ynez was Father Albert's first charge after reaching the United States in May when on order of Bishop John J. Cantwell the parish passed from the hands of the Jesuit priests, who had controlled it for 75 years, to the Franciscan order, its founders.

Santa Ynez Mission is situated in a peaceful little valley, surrounded by grain fields and mountains. The little chapel is fast falling to ruins, but the death of Father Albert has caused agitation for its immediate restoration.

He will also appoint additional men to fill the vacancies caused by the discharge of nine policemen last Saturday, because of their refusal to co-operate with the newly elected trustees.

DEVELOP WATER SUPPLY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 18.—Condemnation suits to procure reservoir sites for the Montecito County Water District were started in Superior Court today. The district which is boring a six-mile tunnel beneath the Santa Ynez range yesterday penetrated two huge underground streams and engineers are considering the advisability of abandoning the $2,000,000 project to impound water in Santa Ynez River because of the excellent underground supply unexpectedly encountered.

AVIATION COMPANY TO BE ORGANIZED

Barr, of Los Angeles, is the head of the new concern, which is planning to purchase an eighty-acre site near Anaheim for the location of the new company. Associated in the company is Col. R. S. Harts, who made a record flight around the United States in 1919, and who will serve as chief of the flying staff of the local aviation concern.

Donald W. Douglas, designer of the world flight planes, and Lieut. John Harding, chief mechanic on the World Flight trip will also be associated with the new concern, the former in the capacity of chief aeronautical engineer.

It was announced today that the construction work and establishment of the field and air lines will probably be completed so that operations may be started within a year.

LEADERS CELEBRATE END OF BLUE LAWS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Feb. 18.—Motion-picture theaters of Pomona will be reopened on Sunday, March 1, following repeal of the Sunday closing ordinance at the special election Tuesday when a majority of 550 votes favored the end of the blue law regime.

In the ten city precincts, 3951 voted for the repeal, and 3538 voted against it. The vote was slightly under 67 per cent.

American Legion men, when the result of the election was made known, serpentined through the business district, passed through the aisles of local motion-picture theaters, serenaded the quarters of the Civic Betterment League and then loaded into automobiles and circled for several hours through the residential district making the result know as they woke up excited residents. Leaders of both sides in the now-historic fight, had little to say today.

RESUME WORK ON STATE HIGHWAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 18.—Construction work on the Rincon Seawall job on the State Highway between Santa Barbara and Ventura will be resumed immediately, according to the J. H. Tillman Company, the contractors, a water supply having been obtained in Carpinteria, 10 miles south of Santa Barbara.

Ten days ago work on this contract was suspended when the Superior Court of Ventura County, on petition of the ranchers, enjoined Tillman from taking water from Rincon Creek. Yesterday arrangements were made for piping the water five miles from Carpinteria.

Forms had been placed and excavations made for several hundred yards when the court order interrupted work on the $500,000 contract.

ROUND UP CROWD OF BOY YEGGS

Officers Take Eight Youths Into Custody on Charge of Burglary

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 18.—With the arrest by Deputy Sheriff Walter M. Walsh of eight Blythe youths ranging from 16 to 25 years of age, Sheriff's officers believe they have at last broken up a series of burglaries in the Palo Verde Valley covering a period of four months.

Three of the boys were brought here by Walsh, one had already arrived and the others are either being held in the Blythe branch of the County Jail or are out on bond pending trial in the local courts.

Four youths are charged with entering the Miner Mercantile establishment January 13, last, and with stealing goods said to be valued at approximately $1000. The others are charged with receiving or transporting stolen property.

Deputy Sheriff Walsh made the arrests after a long investigation. Several of the boys were found in Phoenix and the Salt River Valley in Arizona, while one took him to Merkel, Tex., before the arrest could be made. All of the boys waived extradition and confessions have been obtained from them concerning their own parts in the affair and involving others of the group.

While Walsh declared that no charges concerning other robberies have been filed against the youths, it is believed by officers that at least some of the boys are implicated in the crimes. These include the stealing of an automobile from a Blythe garage and the theft of about $200 from the home of the officer himself.

Those brought to the County Jail are Raymond Lock, James Buchanan and O. S. Griggs. Others under arrest include Donald Hamlin, Floyd Rainwater, Donald Shepardson and Leighton McMillan.

All of the youths with their parents, have been living in Blythe for some time.

USES NEWSPAPER TO "CUSS" AUTO THIEF

LANKERSHIM MAN SO MAD HE PUBLICLY VENTS WRATH ON MISCREANT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Feb. 18.—Lankershim has a new way to get even with auto thieves and car-strippers.

This brand new method is to "cuss out" the thief through the columns of the local newspaper—cite him by publication, so to speak.

Somebody last night stripped the auto of Ted W. Goodyear of 11348 Cumpston avenue, and the following is what Goodyear printed in the home paper:

"Mere words are incapable of expressing my heartfelt thanks to you for leaving the paint on my car, and the air in the tires.

"But I double dare you to return for that. If there is in you any of the spirit of Jesse James and Rube Burrows, whom you so earnestly try to emulate, and you should try to return and get the dust and bills on the car, you will find an automatic shotgun that can empty five charges of buckshot over ninety degrees of Lankershim in nothing flat. If that isn't hospitality enough for you, maybe some soft noses will suffice.

"In my estimation you are lower than whale tracks on the bottom of the ocean. You would sell your dead grandmother's skin for sausage casings.

"Only the censorship of the newspaper prevents me from stating how, why and just what I really think of you.

"Mispah, Kismet, Selah and Auf Wiedersehn! May the Lord forgive you as I do—not! I hope I have made myself sufficiently clear."

APPOINT NEW AUDITOR

Fresno Supervisors Give Job to Deputy Clerk

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 18.—By a vote of three to two of the Board of Supervisors today Ira E. Farley, Deputy County Clerk and clerk of the Supervisors, was named County Auditor to succeed R. N. Barstow, resigned.

Farley has been in the county employ seven years and became clerk of the Supervisors when J. Reed Schaeffer was appointed purchasing agent.

Of a field of ten candidates Farley and Al Johns, an accountant, were the only ones to receive support of the Supervisors, Johns receiving two votes.

The Recorder's office vacancy will occur at 5 p.m. tomorrow when Barstow's resignation becomes effective. He tendered his resignation following a grand-jury investigation which led to the indictment of his son, who was his chief deputy. The position carries a salary of $4000 a year.

Caves, a real estate dealer in Pomona for the last eighteen years and a past-president of the Iowa Society of Southern California, formally entered the political arena as candidate for Mayor in the municipal election to be held in April.

Mr. Caves's entrance brings the total for the mayoralty contest to five, there now being J. E. Adamson, A. E. Andres, Schuyler Parks, L. C. Johnson and Mr. Caves, listed in the order of their announcements.

HELD FOR MURDER

Imperial Grand Jury Names Two Residents in Indictment Just Returned

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, Feb. 18.—John Speer and Frank Uselton of Brawley were named in an indictment by the Imperial county grand jury today charging them with the murder of Barney Wood, aged rancher, who disappeared from his home near Brawley in 1923. Both Uselton and Speer have been under arrest for several weeks.

More than twenty-five witnesses were named on the indictment as having appeared before the grand jury in this case. Most of them were officers and residents of Brawley, where the skeleton of Wood was discovered last November in a shallow grave on his ranch. Wood's whereabouts remained a mystery for more than two years after he was last seen driving his horse homeward on the night of October 8, 1923.

Wood was 72 years of age. For several years he had been disposing of the city garbage and raising hogs and poultry on his five-acre ranch. He was believed to have had a small fortune hidden near his home, and was in the habit of displaying a bag of money whenever he made a purchase. Robbery is believed to have been the motive for his slaying.

E. O. Heinricha, criminologist of Berkeley, was called in by Dist.-Atty. Utley to investigate the case. According to Heinricha, Wood was killed by heavy blows which crushed his skull. An old pick-handle was found near the grave.

Dist.-Atty. Utley asserted that this office has evidence showing that Speer and Uselton planned the robbery and death of the aged rancher and that their connection with the crime first became public through statements made by Mrs. Uselton after a quarrel with her husband.

Says He Shot Neighbor in Self-Defense

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, Feb. 18.—A plea of not guilty to the indictment of murder recently returned against him by the Tulare county grand jury, investigating the shooting of Fred McAllister of Milo on January 30, was entered this afternoon by A. M. Harding, also of Milo, appearing before Superior Judge W. B. Wallace.

The shooting of McAllister was the climax of a mountain feud of many years' standing. Harding contends that he fired the fatal shot only after McAllister had opened fire upon him. Attorneys Braswell and Griffen of Lindsay, his counsel, are reported to have built up a strong case of self-defense.

Harding was uninjured, but McAlister was shot three times, evidence of physicians seeming to indicate that the bullets had entered from the back. It is said the prosecution will seek to prove he was shot from ambush.

This case has gained wide attention by reason of prominence of the two mountaineer families involved and the long-standing quarrel between the factions. Many neighbors were present at the inquest.

No indictment was returned against Charles Samis, a neighbor, who was with Harding at the time of the shooting and who is still being held at the County Jail in connection with the case.

FAVORS REAL WORK

Evangelist Opposed to Law Restricting Labor

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, Feb. 18. — "I am strongly opposed to any legislative enactment that would place the young men of the country under the care of the government and that would keep them from working until they have reached the age of 18," declared John Edward Brown, the evangelist, who is conducting a series of revival services here in an address before the Lions Club today. "The leaders of America, with very few exceptions, are the men who had to get out and earn their way when they were boys.

"Education in America today is topheavy, and the young men are being trained in many of our educational institutions, for places in the professions and in the white-collar ranks, which are so full now that new recruits have to face a terrific battle before they can make a place for themselves.

"The need of the day is for men in the ranks of industry, and within ten years I predict a crisis in the industrial life of America unless more boys are trained to perform some useful occupation, rather than seek positions, as so many of them are doing today."

DISCUSS WATER RIGHTS

City Officials Have Meeting With Commission

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18.—Four of the five members of the City Council, Mayor Bacon, City Manager Rhodes and City Attorney Higgins, left today for San Francisco, where they will meet with the State Railroad Commission to discuss a compromise plan drafted by the State board and designed to amicably settle the differences between the city of San Diego, the La Mesa Irrigation District and the Cuyamaca Water Company.

It is expected some sort of compromise will be accepted, which would eliminate further litigation over water rights of the San Diego River. The city claims prior right to these waters, and desires to settle the problem in order to proceed with the construction of a dam at El Capitan, bonds for which were voted last fall.

The irrigation district and the water company also lay claim to the river. Recently the railroad commission held hearings here and suggested a compromise between the three parties to forestall that it was declared might otherwise be endless litigation.

TAKE TESTIMONY IN BANK ROBBERY CASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 18.—After a two-day battle in which the defense attempted to disqualify Superior Judge Denver S. Church, the first testimony was taken today in the trial of Thomas Griffin, alias "The Owl," charged with the robbery of the First State Bank at Clovis last February.

Thomas Howison, cashier of the looted bank, who was one of those held up when the bandits obtained $30,000 in cash and bonds, partially identified Griffin as one of the bandits.

The prosecution today for the first time hinted at identification of Griffin's alleged confederate, when a police photograph of the supposed bandit, who escaped, was also partially identified by Howison.

All prosecution witnesses except Sheriff William F. Jones and Deputy Orin J. King, who captured Griffin, were excluded from the courtroom on the order of Judge Church.

E. E. Rayburn, vice-president of the bank, positively identified Griffin, as one of the bandits.

MYSTERY IN OXNARD CASE

Foul Play May Have Caused Man's Death

Officers Investigate Recent Suicide

Seek Trace of Money in Victim's Possession

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, Feb. 18.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of a sum of money which was in the possession of Ed J. Thompson, two or three hours before he was supposed to have ended his life here February 5.

It has been discovered since the man's death that he cashed a check for $39.50 on the day he ended his life.

Shortly after 2 o'clock on February 5 the body of Thompson was found in the rear of an auto truck, his throat slashed with a razor. There was but 90 cents in his pockets. Where the balance of the money went is what local attorneys and authorities are trying to find out.

The fact that Thompson had acted queerly several days before he was found dead led to the belief that he had ended his own life. Notes found in his effects led the Coroner to suspect that Thompson had been on the verge of insanity.

An hour before his blood-covered body was taken to a local undertaking establishment Thompson had driven past the place and waved to the undertaker in a jovial manner. Whether or not he was contemplating his own death at that time will never be known. It was said by those who found his body that he had cut his throat while in the front seat and that he had walked about before climbing into the rear end of the machine to die. A water faucet on the truck was turned on and there were marks on the highway beside which Thompson had parked his car where someone had swept the blood stains away. Whether Thompson did all this before he died or whether someone else was present at the time of the killing, has created a doubt in the minds of many here. Attorneys are today trying to locate relatives of the dead man in an attempt to settle his estate. He left a considerable amount in a local savings bank.

SAN DIEGO ELKS TO ERECT NEW BUILDING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18. — Announcement that San Diego Lodge of Elks will erect a handsome new home has been made by R. H. Gunnis, Exalted Ruler, who has appointed a committee of twelve prominent business men and members of the order to negotiate for the purchase of a site and for the erection of a building that will serve the needs of the lodge for many years to come.

When the present Elks' Club at Second and Broadway was built, it was much larger than the lodge needed at that time, but the city has grown, and also the membership, so that the organization finds itself cramped for space.

Canal Routing is Commendation

[U. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The argument [illegible] through the channels was cited by a representative of the Boston Wool Trade [illegible] of an Interstate Commerce [illegible] hearing here today [illegible] for the establishment of [illegible] for lading, through [illegible] joint rates on wool [illegible] the Western States [illegible] by rail and canal. [illegible] to rail and canal. "[illegible] ten years," said H. A. [illegible], manager of the association's transportation department, "the Panama Canal has transformed traffic relations between the Atlantic seaboard territory and the Pacific Slope. The principal reason for canal routing is that the cost per hundredweight of water transportation is much cheaper than by rail, generally about one-third to one-fourth of the all-rail rate.

"For the year ending June 30, 1924, there was shipped through the canal more than 64,000,000 pounds of wool from Pacific to Atlantic ports. This represents more than 20 per cent of the clip of the United States. Such tonnage ought to prove that the canal does serve the wool trade properly, and it is of public interest and necessity that the wool industry be given through bills of lading as desired in order that this tonnage may move as easily as eastbound traffic over rail and water routes.

"We believe that it is a well-known fact that Boston is the largest wool market in the United States, and that we should have the full advantages of being located at a seaport."

There was a knock at the door.

"Are you Mr. Opportunity?" asked the inmate breezily.

"Not exactly," replied the one who had knocked. "I am Mr. E. Z. Payments." —[Louisville Courier-Journal.

ISLANDS CHIEF GIVES MESSAGE

Gov. Farrington Makes Plea for Hawaii's Aliens

Would Remove Restrictions on Mainland Travel

Appropriation to Entertain Fleet Advocated

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONOLULU, Feb. 18.—Suggestion that the Territorial Legislature request Congress to amend the Organic Act of the Territory to remove restrictions now enforced against alien residents of Hawaii traveling to the mainland, and advocacy of an appropriation to aid in entertaining the United States Fleet, which will visit the Islands this spring, were included in the message of Gov. Wallace R. Farrington to the Legislature which opened its biennial 60-day session in Iolani Palace here today.

In connection with the suggestion for an entertainment appropriation of about $100,000, Gov. Farrington added:

"I would go one step further and issue an invitation to members of Congress who are serving on committees dealing particularly with Hawaii's affairs and with national defense, to visit Hawaii as the guests of the Territory during the fleet exercises. I cannot urge too strongly the value of a visit from such a delegation.

HAWAII'S POSITION

"Hawaii's position as the strategic center of the Pacific is now and for several months, will continue to be brought to the attention of every section of the country. The people of the Territory will maintain their traditional hospitality in receiving and entertaining the officers and men of our Navy who will take part in the exercise associated with a study of the defense of the islands."

Referring to birth certificates of persons born in Hawaii, recognition of which has been denied by mainland port officers in many occasions, Gov. Farrington said:

"This issue is of quite as vital moment as the Hawaii bill of rights that reasserted Hawaii's position as a part and parcel of the United States and therefore entitled to share in Fderal aid on equality with the peoples of the several States.

"Every citizen born under the American Flag and giving unquestioned allegiance to the country should be free from irritating and frequent demands that he prove his status. This comes home with special force to our island population because the method of inspecting passenger ships from Hawaii entering the ports of the Pacific Coast States. It is as if we were foreigners entering a foreign port.

ALIEN RESIDENTS

"A request that Congress remove the restrictions of travel now enforced under the Organic Act or later legislation, against the alien residents of Hawaii traveling between the Territory and other ports of the United States, will be very helpful.

"The original restriction was placed in the Organic Act to prevent the passage of alien Chinese to the mainland. This population at the present time is insignificant. More than 50 per cent of our population classified under the census as Chinese is made up of American citizens.

"The same is true of the population classed as Japanese. The number of aliens that might pass from Hawaii and distribute themselves over the mainland of the United States, as the result of the removal of the restrictions, would be an insignificant addition to the national alien population and could never produce a serious problem.

"Our Territory will never be fully established as part and parcel of the United States until these last evidences of our being set apart and peculiar are removed. I believe that action by the Legislature of the Territory and intelligent presenting to the United States and Congress would bring about helpful readjustments."

ECONOMY URGED

The message strongly urged economy in governmental expenditure and the avoidance of taxation laws that "will tend to repel capital rather than attract capital to Territorial enterprises," and the modernization of the tax bureaus of the Territory with a view toward tax reduction."

The alien language school litigation is making normal progress through the courts, but all too large a number of alien language schools are maintaining their scheme of education in defiance of the law passed by the Legislature.

Gov. Farrington said: "As long as this spirit prevails, the group of citizens of alien people responsible for it, will always be reckoned a potential menace to our institutions and the loyalty and sincerity of the children taught under such conditions will be an ever-recurring subject of discussion."

The message detailed the progress made in the islands in the last two years and urged loyalty to President Coolidge.

We are not compelled through dire necessity or lack of business to advertise continuously in order to do business as this institution enjoys the confidence and patronage of one of the largest personal followings in the city of Los Angeles, only made possible through our unswerving principle of integrity and reliability, fair and conscientious dealings with the great American public regardless of creed, color or nationality, which has been the guiding spirit the great American nation has been founded on. Those 100% American methods has made the name of Silver and Company known throughout the length and breadth of this community and established for us a reputation that we are duly proud of. We are fully aware of the indisputable fact that no reliable tailoring institution advertises continuously which is absolutely preposterous in this particular line of business and which in itself would have a tendency to endanger our reputation, as reliable, firmly established tailoring firms very rarely have anything to offer, except and only under specified warranted circumstances, which as a rule is for the purposes of getting acquainted with new trade and extending values to old customers in appreciation for past favors extended us.

Men of intelligence fully realize that values of this kind cannot and would not be given by any reliable tailoring firm for any length of time, as the continuation of values of this kind is an utter impossibility.

Every gentleman availing himself of this Anniversary Sale offer will receive a beautiful, strictly high-class hand custom-tailored suit made to your own individual measure for $40, that we positively guarantee will be the exact equivalent in style, quality and workmanship to an actual $60 and $65 suit made by the most reputable tailoring firms in the country. Your garments will be lined with French Venetian silk, pure wool serge, or alpaca lining (whichever you prefer) and trimmed with genuine Belgian hair cloth, and pure Irish linen canvas, which is the finest grade of linings and trimmings that money can purchase. The same identical high-grade hand-tailoring will be placed in every garment as though the original selling price of $60 and $65 had been paid.

Bring us a sample of any $60 and $65 suit including a sample of the lining and we guarantee that we'll duplicate the same suit during sale only for $40. If we don't, you are absolutely under no obligation to place your order. This offer will hold good during sale only. At the close of this sale this offer will positively terminate.

More than 1000 different styles to select from. Be sure you see the name of Silver and Company in full in order to avoid getting into the wrong establishment by mistake.

GERMAN ARMS CRISIS NEAR

Report of Commission Will Indicate Wholesale Violations of Versailles Treaty

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Feb. 18.—The controversy between the Allies and Germany as to whether there have been violations of the disarmament clause of the Versailles treaty and what may properly be the consequences of these, will come to a sharp issue in a few days, French official circles believe.

A report of the military commission which was to have handed over the supervision of Germany's armaments to the League of Nations commission, is in the hands of Marshal Foch and his colleagues of the Allied Military Commission. It will come before the Ambassador's Council shortly.

Although a subsidiary controversy is likely to arise as to the publication of the report, its essential features are already known and in Allied opinion indicate that Marshal Foch and his associates in the Ambassadors' Council and Allied governments will find that the Reich has flagrantly violated its engagements with respect to the maintenance of a general staff equal in importance to that prior to 1914 and in the training of recruits on a scale that enables her to provide for the eventual mobilization of a force several times greater than the army the treaty allows her to keep up.

It is expected that the Allies will, after duly informing Germany of the discoveries made, notify her that evacuation of the Cologne bridgehead will depend upon her absolute compliance with the treaty, and that until the present military control commission is satisfied that the terms of the treaty have been carried out, control cannot be passed on to the League commission.

SAND CAVE IS DESERTED

Trees, Rock and Earth Dumped Into Rescue Well After Cavern is Cemented Into Tomb

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CAVE CITY (Ky.) Feb. 18.—Sand Cave, on the farm of Bee Doyel, six miles from here, which for more than two weeks held the interest of the nation while efforts were made to rescue Floyd Collins, was deserted today except for a crew of ten workmen filling up the rescue shaft.

Following funeral services Tuesday afternoon the tomb in which the cave explorer was trapped January 30 was incased in concrete and boulders to form his final crypt.

A barricade also was placed at the entrance of the treacherous cavern to keep others out and avert a repetition of the tortuous and tragic death suffered by Collins.

H. T. Carmichael, who assumed charge in directing rescue work the 3rd inst., today had ten employees of the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company filling the fifty-five-foot shaft. The other rescue workers had deserted the camp Tuesday afternoon and night. Members of the Kentucky National Guard, who had been on duty, left for their homes Tuesday night.

Mr. Carmichael was to return tonight to Kyrock, the home of the company of which he is general superintendent of construction, leaving a foreman in charge of filling the shaft.

Trees, rock and earth were dumped into the rescue well. Filling it to the top will consume three or four days. Several chapters of the Collins tragedy remain unfinished. The findings of the military court of inquiry will be announced through the office of Adjt.-Gen. James A. Kehoe. Citizens of Cave City contemplate erecting a monument at the scene.

Mr. Carmichael estimated that on actual cost basis the rescue work would come to between $20,000 and $25,000.

LAUGHS HIS WAY OUT OF COURTROOM

Negro Held for Peddling Toy Snakes Sets Judge to Roaring

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. — Jim Dixon's laugh won him freedom for the second time when he was arraigned yesterday in Tombs Court on a charge of peddling toy snakes in a restricted district. Dixon is 35 years of age, a negro, and measures six feet. He was arraigned before Magistrate Brodsky.

"Your honor, a woman saw one of these snakes as I was walking along the street and she started to laugh so loudly a crowd collected," explained Dixon. Then he chuckled.

The noise grew to a laugh, infectious, irresistible. Every one in the courtroom started to laugh, the magistrate included.

"Dixon," he said finally, wiping the tears from his eyes, "you've laughed your way out of this court."

Two years ago Dixon tried the same trick with the late Magistrate Sweetzer, who was so overcome with laughter that he bought a snake.

PALE DRY

At last your full money's worth in the best of dry ginger ales

WHEN you take your first refreshing, zestful sip of Clicquot Club Pale Dry—when the indescribably delicate flavor of it first registers on your taste, and the cool, satisfying feel of it caresses your throat—

Then you'll realize why thirst was invented! For a bottle of Clicquot Club Pale Dry is a pint of perfection—the best pale dry ginger ale that human skill and knowledge have yet produced.

You all know the world-famous Regular Clicquot Club Ginger Ale—well, Clicquot Club Pale Dry is as good as that, but different!

There's a delicacy of flavor, a refreshing "feel" to dusty throats, and an exquisite bouquet in Clicquot Club Pale Dry that nothing short of Forty Years of Knowing How could have created.

The same price, the same quantity, as all our famous drinks. Your dealer has Clicquot Club Pale Dry so you can tell it from the Regular Clicquot Club Ginger Ale by its rich emerald green bottles—beautifully simple, easily recognized bottles with their handsome red-bordered labels. We knew you would rather have the value of Clicquot Club Pale Dry in the beverage itself—not in expensive wrappings. So we put the value inside the bottles—two full glasses of it.

It costs you the same as Regular Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, and it's every bit as good in its own way. It isn't possible to offer a better beverage for less money, nor is it possible to make a better beverage at any price.

And here's why: The goodness of Clicquot Club Pale Dry didn't just happen—it took forty years of experience in beverage-making to evolve it.

It takes the largest, most modernly equipped beverage plant in the world to produce it—a clean, airy plant set among green fields far from the city's contaminating dust and dirt.

It takes the purest water to make Clicquot Club Pale Dry. Nowhere else in the world have we been able to find water so good for beverage making as here at Millis, Massachusetts. We use only the purest of fruit flavors and spices, the rarest Jamaica ginger root, the finest Cuban sugar to assure its constant goodness.

The Clicquot Kid is a good mixer

Clicquot Club Pale Dry is not only a delicious beverage in itself, but it also mixes extremely well with other drinks.

Opposing Counsel Clash in Hawaiian Concern Suit

Challenge by Respondents' Lawyers Not Accepted

Former Governor of Islands Contradicts Trent

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—Frequent tiffs between opposing counsel on the origin of the plan for reorganization of the German-Hawaiian sugar concern of H. Hackfeld & Co., enlivened today's session of the accounting suit by which former Hackfeld stockholders seek recovery of $10,000,000 from purchasers of the Hackfeld assets on the ground that property worth $17,500,000 was fraudulently disposed of for $7,500,000, under orders of A. Mitchell Palmer, war-time alien property custodian.

During one unusually acrimonious clash, counsel for the respondents offered to rest the case on submission by the plaintiffs of proof of their contention that the so-called Palmer reorganization plan, in fact, originated in Honolulu. Plaintiffs ascribe the origin of the plan to R. H. Trent, Palmer's representativt in Hawaii; F. C. Atherton, capitalist and sugar operator, and associates.

CONTRADICTS TRENT

W. F. Frear, former Governor of Hawaii, contradicted testimony previously given by Trent when he branded as untrue a statement appearing in a letter from Trent to Palmer early in 1918 to this effect that a large proportion of the population of Hawaii was pro-German in its sympathies.

"I would say that statement is anything but true," Frear testified.

The witness said he experienced considerable difficulty early in 1918 in getting cablegrams through from the mainland to Hawaii when he came here to secure Palmer's approval of the January reorganization of H. Hackfeld & Co. Plaintiff's counsel previously had attempted to bring out that Trent and his associates were responsible for certain asserted interferences with cablegrams exchanged between representatives of rival business interests, including Frear, W. F. Dillingham, who assisted in the January reorganization, and others.

"Some of the cablegrams sent by, or addressed to me, were delayed from six to nine days," Frear testified. "This occurred in the face of assurances from W. D. Denegre, chief of the Bureau of Insular Possessions, that my messages were not being held up."

Denegre, it was brought out, explained to Frear that instances in which delays occurred doubtless were due to the physical impossibility of getting all messages through on time at the usual schedule.

The plaintiffs previously had sought to show that only important messages were held up, while those regarded by Trent and his associates as nonimportant went through in schedule time. Trent at that time had access to the files of the cable censor in Honolulu by virtue of his connection with the office of the Alien Property Custodian, evidence indicated.

Frear reiterated his declaration that the Hackfeld business was thoroughly Americanized by the January reorganization, later rescinded at the request of Palmer.

Intimations that Frear doubted Palmer's sincerity in bringing about the unscrambling of the January reorganization, appeared in a letter from Frear to Dillingham in February, 1918, which was read into the record.

MANY ARMY EXECUTIONS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Two officers and 307 others in the British army were executed during the great war for offenses against military law and discipline, said Sir L. Worthington Evans, Secretary of State for War, answering a question in the House of Commons.

Christine of the Hungry Heart

by Kathleen Norris

"IF HE IS HERE!"

Dan watched her, astonished at her sureness, her quick choice and use of words, her definite ideas. She was so like, and yet so strangely unlike, the old Chris.

"And nuns do it with silence, and with prayer," she added, "It can't be done otherwise!"

"I think Alan might feel that—prayer—was a trifle out of his sphere," Dan suggested dryly. "These modern women, you know, aren't spiritually inclined. It might make them contemptuous of the whole thing."

"Then he should deal with women who are spiritual," Christine decided promptly. "It's nonsense to try to get anywhere just with the visible thing—the top milk and Montessori blocks."

Dan surprised and impressed was silent. Chrissie tried the potatoes with a blackened fork.

"I wish you could talk to Alan yourself about it, Chris," the man said finally.

Her quick flush fled, and she looked once more the quiet and repressed woman of a few minutes ago.

"When I see Alan," she said, in an undertone, as if half to herself, "I shall have other things than that to say."

"Chris, he has something to say," too. Will you let him come?" She looked at him, stricken motionless.

"Does he want to come?"

"Very much, dear."

"But—you said that he was not in San Francisco, Dan!" Her breath was uneven, the red color flickered in her white face.

"If he was here, in Mill Valley, Chris? If he was waiting, down there in the road!"

The light died out of her sapphire blue eyes, the life seemed to leave her figure. She groped blindly for a chair, sat down on it without removing her steady, anxious gaze from Dan's face.

"If he is here," she said, in a leaden, toneless voice, "of course I will see him. I must—" She brushed the back of her hand across her mouth, and for an instant a look almost desperate, frantic and hunted, went across her face. Then she seemed to break. She was suddenly meek, beaten. She clasped her worn hands on the table before her, and bowed her head, and Dan saw on her face an expression he had never known her to wear before, an expression of meekness and submission, and saw the thick dark eyelashes lowered to hide the pain and shame in her eyes.

"Will you—bring him, Dan!" she asked, very low. Dan went to the door, and Chris did not move or speak in the three minutes that followed. Then she heard Alan's low quick voice in the yard, and Dan went to meet him, and for a few seconds they murmured together. Alan had one glimpse of her seated figure, in its utter humiliation, before she got to her feet, and faced him.

She had forgotten how kind his face was, how wise and keen the troubled grey eyes behind the big glasses. He was grey, and his figure, in the tweed suit, looked tall and thin. She could not face him; she lowered her lashes again, and stood shaking, silent, afraid.

Alan, from the sill, saw the rusty stove, the tumbled bed in the dim background, the worn, backless chairs, and the blackened pots, the grease-dampened floor, and, against the tempered golden light of the southern window, the vague blur of a silhouetted figure—a woman's thin, shabby figure, a woman with greying, plainly-massed hair and anxious eyes in a white face—

Not Chris? his heart said, with a plunge of pity and amazement and pain. So strangely shrunk, and thin, and spare, so plain, in this attitude that had all the sweet and awkward grace of a young girl brought to bay?

He came into the grimy, dull little kitchen, out of the bright sunlight, and stopped short. For it was Chris.

She had turned with her back to the table, and was resting against it. Her eyes, grave, anxious, unsmiling, were fixed steadily on his, like those of a young baby.

There was a long silence, broken only by the crackle of wood in the stove, and a clock's steady ticking, out of sight. Chris's breast, under the colorless gown, rose and fell in deep, heavy breathing. She had her hands behind her on the table, and her look was almost that of fright, she was like some wild creature, desperately meditating escape.

"We kept you waiting?" she said presently, in a cold, strained whisper. "I didn't know — I didn't know you were there!"

"That was all right!" Alan answered, clearing his throat. "I was walking about—"

He stood abruptly and there was silence for a moment again.

Then the invalid on the bed made and inarticulate sound, and the three others turned toward him.

Stuart had made a fretful, ineffectual movement with his hand; his covers were uncomfortable; the slit-like eyes were half-open in his white and lead-colored face, but he seemed to see nothing, and to be unaware of, or indifferent to, the presence of strangers in the kitchen.

Chrissie soothed him, straightening and murmuring. And for a moment she faced Dan and Alan from his side, her sapphire eyes the only unchanged thing about her, after the long years that had brought her, and these three men, to this room and this hour. They had seen her in the full flush of beauty and youth and power, they had seen these neglected masses of hair brushed into shining golden glory, and this cotton-clad, thin figure dressed in exquisite fabrics, and moving through lighted and warmed, luxurious rooms to the sound of soft music.

And yet, to two of them, never had she seemed to have the strangely appealing quality that she had today, or to possess more of that extraordinary force—that compelling and irresistible power that had drawn them across a continent to find her. Her deep eyes, her mouth, clean-cut by agonies and renouncements, her ivory-pure, close-drawn skin that showed more than ever now the classic modelling of nostrils, and temples, and chin, her haunting voice, with the old poignantly-sweet break still enriching it, and making the hearts of her listeners stand still — had they belittled these things, in memory? Or had it been this, all of it, that made the thought of her different from that of any other woman in the world.

New Japanese Envoy Leaves for America

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Feb. 18.—Ambassador Matsudaira, Japanese envoy to the United States, and his wife and children, sailed yesterday on the Shin Yo Maru after a most enthusiastic send-off in Tokio and Yokohama. He made no departing statement.

A section of the press expressing disagreement with the government's policy on the Exclusion Act, expresses hope that Ambassador Matsudaira will not let America "forget the wrong she has done Japan."

It is intimated by the Foreign Office that Ambassador Matsudaira's main task will be to develop a second armament conference. Having served as secretary in the first conference, he is judged the best Japanese to prepare the second.

The Trick of Quick Starting

Only part of your gasoline problem!

There's your motor to be considered—and this is vitally important. Go a little farther into this question of gasoline.

Non-detonating gasoline delivers power impulses continuously throughout the full stroke of the pistons. It doesn't deal one sudden, crashing blow. Strong, smooth power results.

A swift, powerful, continuous thrust drives the pistons all the way down. No sudden crash against the piston head, the force of which is spent and gone in one explosion.

No vibration, none of the wear and tear, and no "knocking" due to those sudden crashes.

A smooth, quick pick-up and a gliding, powerful, stressless speed comes from Non-Detonating Union Gasoline.

BOND PAYMENTS TO START TODAY

Treasury Issues Call for 1925 Securities

Short Term Notes Will be Issued for Funds

Certificates Totaling Over Quarter-Million Out

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The Treasury took the first step today in development of its March financing program, Secretary Mellon announcing that redemption of securities maturing March 15, including certificates of indebtedness designated as Series TM-1925 and the three-year, 4 3-4 per cent notes of 1926 would be started tomorrow by the Federal reserve banks.

While officials have come to no conclusion yet respecting the plan of financing to be evolved in connection with the March 15 tax payment, it appeared today that only short-term securities will be issued to carry out the refunding that obviously must be made.

Certificates amounting to $225.-704,500 are outstanding and the amount of Treasury notes maturing at the same time is $322,924.-500. The Treasury balance now stands around $220,000,000 and the March 15 tax installment will bring it enough more, it was believed to permit the use of about $200.-000,000 in the retirement of outstanding obligations. This would mean the issuing of new securities amounting to approximately $350.-000,000.

As the situation now stands, the Treasury will hardly complete its fiscal program until after Congress has adjourned March 4, by which time it will be able to compute accurately the appropriations it will be called upon to meet and will have some idea as to the amount of taxes resulting from payment of the first installment this calendar year. By that date also, the Treasury can gauge market conditions and shortly after March 4 officials in charge of the financing can decide on the interest rate the securities will bear.

While it is generally agreed that the certificates to be issued will be for short items, it is believed by some that there will be one offering to be employed exclusively in the exchange of new securities for maturing obligations and another to be sold for cash with the likelihood that the latter issue may bear the privilege of use in payment of taxes. On such a basis, the tax certificates probably would be for only six months.

CHICAGO TO ARREST ALL TIPSY MEN

Chief Issues Orders to "Bring Them in;" Fears They May be Killed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Members of the drinking classes, who know from hard-won experience that their feet just won't behave after the evening tipples, had best arrange to do their quaffing indoors from now on.

Chief of Police Collins, fearful for the lives of citizens who are wont, unconsciously, to imitate Lean Errol in his drunken waiter-with-the-tray act, after a few jolts of the 1925 vintages, today issued orders to his captains that henceforth policemen would arrest any and all "drunks" they meet on the streets.

"And if I hear of any plain-clothes or uniformed policeman failing to arrest a 'drunk,'" said the Chief, "I'll send him before the trial board."

The measure, Chief Collins explained, is protective rather than punitive. Only a few days ago, while taking a short stroll, he encountered two reeling citizens. One he rescued from the path of a speeding street car, he said. A drunk has no chance with an automobile, the Chief pointed out. He also wants to find out where the staggerers are getting the poison.

Land Office Eliminating Surplus Help

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Furloughing without pay of thirty-six surplus employees of the General Land Office was announced today by Secretary Work of the Interior Department.

Reduction in the force of this bureau is being made in accordance with the policy of the Interior Department to get the daily work out promptly with the minimum number of employees necessary and keep the expenditures within the appropriations made by Congress, which for the General Land Office have been reduced by approximately $617,000 for the fiscal year of 1926, as compared with 1925.

FORTUNE IN RUM ON SEIZED SHIP

Second Craft Joins Quadra in Bay City Port

Asserted Liquor Runner Taken by Coast Guard

Crew Faces Prosecution Under Dry Law Charges

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—Another asserted Canadian rum runner, the Coal Harbour, joined the steamer Quadra today in the local port of intercepted ships, and the crew of fourteen face the same sort of Federal prosecution that is pending against the crew of the Quadra.

The Coal Harbour was seized by the Coast Guard cutter Cahokia last night southwest of the Farallon Islands after an hour's chase, in the course of which, the government men charged, the fugitive vessel once tried to ram the cutter.

According to advices from Seattle, the Coal Harbour is operated by the Canadian-Mexican Shipping Company, Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C., the same organization that owned the Quadra.

Costume officers had not completed their check of the Coal Harbour's cargo tonight, but they estimated the liquor aboard to be worth more than $600,000 at rum-runners' prices. The liquor was left aboard under guard, while the members of the crew were taken to the custom office and questioned.

Kenneth Gillis, Assistant United States District Attorney, said that a complaint charging violition of the prohibition law would be filed against the men tomorrow, if reports from the customs authorities bore out unofficial statements of the seizure. Meanwhile, the crew undoubtedly would be held in jail, he added. If the government decides to file charges, the next steps will be to ask indictments from the grand jury.

Capt. G. B. Johnsen of the Cahokia, returned from the capture with the report of a sizable fleet of rum-runners hovering off the coast just outside the danger zone. He said that during the chase and while his men were boarding the Coal Harbour, two vessels appeared at close range, surveying the scene with their searchlights, one a large ship capable of twenty knots. They disappeared quickly.

When finally caught, the Coal Harbour offered no further trouble and men from the cutter leaped aboard with tow lines and fastened the quarry securely. The Canadian ship was towed into San Francisco at daybreak.

BERMUDA CROP OF LAREDO IMMENSE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAREDO (Tex.) Feb. 18.—It is estimated that the winter crop of Bermuda onions in the Laredo district will be approximately 2000 cars. Most of the shipments will go to northern and eastern markets. The young onions were transplanted into the fields last November and have made fine growth during the winter. Unusually large acreages are being grown in the districts around Carrizo Springs, Crystal City, Cotulla and other points in South Texas. The harvest season will open about the middle of March.

Sand Cave ha Quedado Desierta

CAVE CITY (Kentucky), febrero 18.—Sand Cave, ubicada a seis millas de aquí, en la hacienda de Bee Doyel, y donde estuvo concentrado por más de dos semanas el interés de la nación, mientras se hacían esfuerzos por rescatar a Floyd Collins, ha quedado hoy desierta. No hay ahora allí sino una cuadrilla de diez trabajadores que están tapando el tiro de salvamento.

Después de celebrados los oficios de difuntos ayer tarde, se encerró en una caja de hormigón y canto grande la tumba que aprisionó el 30 de enero al explorador de cuevas, formándole así una verdadera cripta.

Púsose también una barricada a la entrada de la traidora caverna, para impedir que otros entren y evitar así la repetición de la macabra y trágica muerte sufrida por Collins.

H. T. Carmichael, que estuvo dirigiendo las obras de rescate desde el 3 del corriente, puso hoy diez empleados de la Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company a llenar el tiro de cincuenta y cinco pies. Los demás rescatadores se retirarón del campamento la tarde y noche del martes.

Mr. Carmichael tiene pensado regresar esta noche a Kyrock, domicilio de la compañía de que es superintendente general de construcción, y dejar un mayordomo encargado del relleno del tónel.

Se han arrojado árboles, piedras y tierra al pozo de salvamento, y se empiezarán de tres a cuatro días para llenarlo hasta arriba. Todavía quedan por concluir varios capítulos de la tragedia de Cowans. El dictamen del tribunal investigador militar se hará conocer por conducto de la oficina del General Ayudante James A. Kehoe. Los ciudadanos de Cave City piensan levantar un monumento en el teatro de los acontecimientos.

Estima el señor Carmichael que el costo en dinero de los trabajos de rescate debe de montar a unos veinte o veinticinco mil dólares.

"El General Brigadier Michell tenía cabal razón en lo que respecta a la eficacia de los bombardeos aéreos sobre los barcos de guerra. Ya lo sabíamos desde hace mucho tiempo, pero hoy lo hemos comprobado."

Tal fue el comentario hecho ayer por el Capitán de Corbeta J. S. Strong, oficial que manda la escuadra No. 2 de bombardeo naval, pocos minutos después de que dicha escuadra, a despecho de la poca visibilidad, hizo muchos blancos con las bombas que soltó desde una altura de 7200 pies, sobre un pequeño blanco que se remolcó hacia afuera del puerto de Los Angeles. La altura mencionada, hizo observar el Capitán de Corbeta Strong, es superior en 1200 pies al alcance efectivo de los cañones contra aviones, que no pueden llegar a naves aéreas que estén a más de 6000 pies de altura.

Agregó el oficial que el objeto de esta prueba era demostrar la posibilidad en que están los aviones de la armada para bombardear eficazmente un blanco movedizo desde una altura que rebasa el alcance de las armas contra aviones. El experimento hecho prueba esa verdad, sin lugar a duda.

Otros altos jefes de la flota, entre los que se cuentan el Almirante Robinson y el Capitán Moses, capitán de navío que manda las fuerzas aéreas de la Armada, apoyaron la opinión antes citada. Declaróse que en la segunda salva, todas y cada una de las veinte bombas dieron en el blanco, desvaneciendo así toda duda en el ánimo de los más escépticos acerca del porvenir de los aviones en la guerra.

Boxeo

Jack Dempsey, campeón mundial de boxeadores de peso fuerte, compareció ayer en el juzgado que está viendo la causa de Kid McCoy, acusado este último de tres delitos de asalto y cuatro de robo. El campeón fue citado como testigo de la defensa. Prestará testimonio hoy a las 2 p.m., según manifestó ayer el defensor Shreve. Es probable que en su declaración exponga la teoría de que McCoy, excampeón pugilista, sufre de ataques pasajeros de demencia, debido a las lesiones que hace años recibió en el tablado.

El Ministerio Público concluyó ayer sus argumentos contra McCoy, después de que los testigos relataron lo del escándalo a tiros el 13 de agosto de 1924, tras haber sido muerta la señora Mors unas cuantas horas antes en una vivienda que ocupaban ella y McCoy bajo nombres supuestos. Se relató cómo disparó McCoy varios tiros sobre los que estaban en la tienda de antigüedades de Mors, y atracó a cuatro personas.

WEST POINT HONOR GRADUATE KILLS PARENTS TO END MISERY, THEN SLAYS SELF AS SACRIFICE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CRESCO (Iowa) Feb. 18.—Because his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dunn, were in ill health, William D. Dunn, Jr., shot and killed them both today and then killed himself.

"I'm doing this for their good," Dunn wrote in his note to the undertaker. "I'm willing to sacrifice my life for them."

The mother had cancer and the father asthma, both were nearing 80. Dunn returned here from a position in Michigan a year ago to care for the aged pair. He was a captain and served with distinction during the World War.

After shooting his parents through the head, Dunn went to a neighbor's home and asked the housewife to come over and help with the care of the invalids. Preceding her back, Dunn paused under a tree alongside the house and shot himself. Death was instantaneous in all three cases.

Dunn, who graduated from West Point with honors, is believed to have been mentally unbalanced.

COPPER FUTURE HELD PROMISING

Developer of Mother Lode Says Demand Growing

World-wide Dearth Predicted Within Ten Years

First National Bank Official Augurs Prosperity

James J. Godfrey of New York, the man who brought Mother Lode of Alaska to production as the lowest-cost mine on the continent, and sold control of it in 1918 to the Kennecott interests for several million dollars, is enthusiastic over sales prospects of copper during the next few years. Mr. Godfrey, who is president of the Kay Copper Corporation, which is developing property in Yavapai county, about fifty miles north of Phoenix, Ariz., is stopping at the Biltmore.

The mining man believes that within a few years, in spite of increased production, there will be a world shortage of the metal, due to expansion in all lines of business. He predicts the arrival of this condition within the next decade. He said:

"World consumption of copper last year established a new record, surpassing the war peak of 1918 by about 10 per cent; the prewar peak of 1913 about 50 per cent, and 1923 by about 25 per cent. During 1924, world stocks of copper were reduced from 312,000,000 pounds to about 240,000,000 pounds, and the price of the metal advanced steadily from 12 cents to 15 cents.

DEVELOPMENT LAGS

"It is true that many of the larger concerns were not producing at maximum but it must be remembered that the record production of war times was uneconomical, in that development was allowed to lag far behind, and it is not likely that production at war-time levels will again be attempted. There should not be a very heavy increase from domestic copper mines.

"Meanwhile, world consumption is increasing tremendously, approximating 2,500,000,000 pounds last year, which compares with the war-time peak of 1918 of 2,050,000,000 pounds, and a prewar record of 2,225,000,000 pounds, established in 1913. Since 1921, or in three years, world consumption has gained 125 per cent.

"World production in 1924 totaled 2,200,000,000 pounds, compared with war-time record of 2,150,000,000 pounds in 1918, and prewar peak of 2,181,253,000 pounds in 1913.

CONSUMPTION GROWS

"It is quite certain that we are entering the greatest consumption period of all history, and there should be a consumption of 3,500,000,000 pounds this year alone. It is no tax on the imagination to foresee a stabilized prosperity that producers have hitherto not known. New mines must be developed to meet the increased demand that is surely coming. In that development Arizona should take a leading part. As a matter of fact, its vast mineralized areas have been no more than scratched, and as development proceeds Los Angeles and all this Southwest country should share liberally in its prosperity."

According to Mr. Godfrey, present expenditures on the Kay Copper Corporation now Are about $30,000 monthly. Since last October the original ore body has been developed at the 1,200-foot level over a total length of 550 feet and width of eighty feet. Further depth of 200 or 300 feet will now be gained by a winze, which will be started at once.

Estimates are also being prepared for a main, triple-compartment shaft, to be put down to the 2000-foot level south of the present shaft, and which will be equipped at a cost of $350,000.

Steady Progress Urged

Prosperity will result only from the effort spent in encouraging it, and progress must proceed step by step, to be enduring, it was asserted yesterday noon at the prosperity luncheon and meeting of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles at the Biltmore by Arch W. Anderson, vice-president of the First National Bank.

Mr. Anderson then proceeded to tell the meeting why Southern California should continue to advance along prosperity lines. Among the facts he cited were:

"World conditions are more stable. Gold standards are being re-established in Europe. World trade is improving. Industry is more active. Agricultural prices are better. There is an abundance of credit.

"The year, 1923, is considered the Southwest's peak year. Last year many phases were better than in 1923, but some notable ones did not rank with the previous twelve months. The present year already has taught us to forget the feast-and-mouth disease and we have learned that a dry season or two cannot ruin us. We also are becoming accustomed to a decrease in the feverish real estate activity, so marked for several years.

"Prosperity is not measured alone by conditions, but by the effort put into its attainment," the banker emphasized, "and progress to be sure must be measured."

CREDIT BANKS OFFER AID

Financing of Live-stock Needs Explained by Farm Loan Board Members; Improvements Here

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Curiously enough the vote seekers in Congress who have been so assiduous in their efforts for agricultural legislation have failed to offer even a plausible solution for the difficulties of the live-stock industry. Most of their attention has been lavished on the grain farmers in the form of such proposals as the McNary-Haugen bill, guaranteed to restore prosperity by artificial resuscitation. The working of economic laws evidently, however, has achieved the desired result and nullified the bustling efforts of the grain farmer's legislative friends.

Perhaps the live-stock industry has been left to shift for itself, as far as the legislators are concerned, because the grain growers are more concentrated in one region. They raise quite a noise when they begin to complain, and it is easily audible in Washington.

The live-stock interests are scattered throughout the western part of the United States and their troubles are not constantly brought before the public. Yet the value of all animals raised in the United States in 1919 was barely behind the value of all cereal grains.

CREDIT AVAILABLE

Important in the economic life of the country as the live-stock industry it, it more than likely is fortunate to have escaped the interference of Congress. In the light of what has happened to the grain growers it is clear that artificial assistance is not required. The government had already gone to the heart of the situation when it obtained legislation to insure an adequate supply of credit. Recognizing the elastic nature given to general credit by the Federal reserve system, this principal was extended to embrace all branches of agriculture. The proper application of credit to agriculture is slowly rejuvenating the invalid cases and bringing something like cheerfulness out of dejection.

The sole exception, however, is the live-stock industry, particularly cattle raising. As R. A. Cooper, member of the Farm Loan Board, said yesterday at a luncheon given by the management of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, the cattle industry was hit the hardest in the post-war depression and has recovered the least. The cattlemen are still wandering in the depths of depression and have had to combat, in addition, the usual troubles of insufficient rains and poor range conditions. No one is quite willing to point the way out, but it is evident that the government is squarely behind the cattle raisers in the matter of credit assistance as its contribution to an ultimate solution.

The Farm Loan Board, through Mr. Cooper and his associate, A. C. Williams, is making this support clear to the producers by describing the operations of the Federal intermediate credit banks. These banks were organized to discount negotiable instruments drawn for agricultural pursuits and for processing live stock. The rediscounting is done for organizations or banks which make the loans to the producer in the first instance. Loans are also made by the intermediate credit banks directly to co-operative associations on notes secured by chattel mortgage on live stock, warehouse receipts, bills of lading, etc. The loans are made up to 75 per cent of the market value of the collateral.

LONG MATURITIES PROVIDED

The instruments accepted by the intermediate credit banks for rediscounting mature in not less than six months or more than three years. This range of maturity affords the cattle raiser plenty of opportunity to finance his requirements provided that the right kind of security is offered. Assurance is generally given of extension if the security remains adequate.

In California these facilities have not been fully utilized, although the State has a Federal intermediate credit bank, located at Berkeley. Partly because of the red tape required, the finance companies specializing in cattle paper have not had frequent recourse to these banks for rediscounting, and moreover, the banks in the State have given adequate support. However, it is understood that the objectionable features in the machinery of rediscounting now have been eliminated and more of an incentive provided for cattle organizations to use this channel.

Cattlemen in this part of the State generally agree that they are in better shape than the producers in other sections of the country. The companies financing their needs, according to one authority, rarely have to accept paper running the limit of three years, but it is a source of satisfaction to know that the facilities of the intermediate credit bank are available. Probably the visit of the Federal Farm Loan Board members will stimulate the formation of more organizations to finance the needs of the cattle industry, since it is plainly evident that the government is willing and anxious to assist the cattlemen.

In offering this aid, however, the government is not singularly guaranteeing a cure for the ills of the industry. It is merely lightening the load until the supply of cattle and the demand for beef are once again adjusted to afford the producer a satisfactory profit.

ARMOUR STOCK OFFERED TODAY

Syndicate of Bankers Buys Family Holdings

Stock Held by Morris Group Also Acquired

Class "A" Common Placed on Dividend Basis

As the culmination of the transaction whereby a syndicate of investment bankers has purchased for approximately $8,000,000 the bulk of the personal holdings of J. Ogden Armour and the stock owned by the Morris family in Armour & Co., an issue of 750,000 shares of Armour & Co. of Illinois Class "A" participating common stock will be offered for public subscription today. The stock is offered at $23 a share, and carries the privilege of subscribing for Class "B" shares at $14 a share.

The syndicate through which the stock will be distributed is headed by Blair & Co., Inc., and includes Hornblower & Weeks, F. B. Keech & Co., A. A. Housman & Co., Pynchon & Co., Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Curtis & Sanger, F. S. Moseley & Co., Mitchell, Hutchins & Co., Inc., A. G. Becker & Co., John Burnham & Co., Inc., Farnum, Winter & Co., Babcock, Rushton & Co., Pearson, Taft & Co., Hunter, Dulin & Co., and Bond & Goodwin & Tucker, Inc.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

The distribution of the stock to the public is the first time that any of the Armour & Co. common stock has been offered. The offering represents part of the issue already outstanding and is not new financing by the company. The Class "A" stock has a par value of $25 and is preferred over Class "B" shares as to cash dividends up to $2 a share in any year before dividends are paid on the Class "B" stock. In addition, after dividends aggregating $2 a share shall have been paid on the Class "B" stock in any year, both classes of stock share equally in any additional dividends paid in that year.

The directors of Armour & Co. have declared two quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share, one payable as of January 2, 1925, to stockholders of record as of that date, and one payable April 1, 1925, to stockholders of record March 14, 1925, thus placing the Class "A" stock on a $2 annual dividend basis.

SALES LARGE

Armour & Co. of Illinois, with its subsidiaries, ranks as one of the largest meat packing concerns in the world, its consolidated net sales for 1924 having been in excess of $800,000,000. The net earnings after all charges for the year ending December 27, 1924, amounted to over $9,000,000, equivalent to $4.50 a share on the Class "A" stock outstanding.

Two years ago when Morris & Co. was sold to Armour & Co., the Morris family took in part payment approximately 425,000 shares of Class "A" stock of Armour & Co., which had an authorized common stock capitalization of $100,000,000 dividend equally into 2,000,000 shares each of Class "A" and Class "B" shares of $25 par value. This stock came from Mr. Armour's holdings and left him with about 975,000 shares.

The banking group which worked out the financial reorganization of Armour & Co. took a five-year option on Mr. Armour's Class "A" stock and also about $1,400,000 of Class "B" stock. They announced last week that part of the option had been exercised and that approximately 700,000 shares of each issue would be offered for public subscription.

BOND QUCTATIONS

Prices Steadier

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Recovery of stock prices today imparted a firmer tone to bond trading and moderate improvement took place in railroad and industrial obligations.

Heavy transactions in the European issue of the New Haven Railroad, which is to be refunded in April, lifted the prices of both the franc and the dollar 7s above par for the first time this year, although the net gains were only fractional. Southwestern rail liens shared in the revival of interest in stocks of these carriers, advances of a point or more being registered by Missouri Pacific 4s, "Katy" adjustment 5s and Frisco adjustment and income 6s.

The continued upward trend of crude-oil prices was reflected in renewed accumulation of oil-company bonds. Sinclair and Skelly issues rallied 1 to 3 points and Pan-American 6's were active at higher levels.

Increased buying of Virginia-Carolina obligations was attributed to the improvement in the company's position as a result of the sale of subsidiary properties. More than $16,000,000, it is estimated, will be raised through disposal of the Southern Cotton Oil Company and the company's German potash holdings.

With the bulk of new financing taking the form of stock offerings, interest appeared to be waning in new bond flotations, although local bankers will bid for a $9,000,000 city of Quebec issue this week.

[Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, and the total sales of each issue. These quotations are received over Associated Press wires, and to scientific translation the closing is entitled when it is the same as the high, low or last, or closer to the high.]

MILLS HAVE DEFICIT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The annual report of the American Wool Company for 1924, made public today, shows a deficit of $11,940,527 after dividend requirements, in contrast to surplus of $7,85... 379 the year before. The Shawsheen Mills and the Webster Mills are not included in the compilation.

NEW YORK CURB

Utilities Gain

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Sharp gains in the public utility issues featured today's curb market, which showed a marked improvement in tone. Lehigh Power Securities, which sold as low as 86 yesterday, was run up to 100 for a net gain of 8 points and Electric Bond and Share lunched 6½, at almost a low of 34% the day before. American Light and Traction, American Gas and Electric, American Power and Light, Commonwealth Power and Middle West Utilities showed net gains of 2% to 3 points.

Buying of the oils was influenced by the announcement of crude oil price increases and favorable dividend announcements, net gains of 1 to 4 points being registered by Chief Serving common, Continental Oil, Humble, Imperial of Canada, Ohio Oil, Standard Oil of Indiana and Kentucky, and Vacuum.

With the exception of Hazeltine, which advanced more than 2 points to 95¾, and Liberty Radio Chain Stores, which held around its record high level, there was little of interest in the radio group. Heavy buying of United Profit Sharing and Happiness Candy "A" stock, each of which closed about a point higher, featured the industrial list.

Following are the closing quotations on the New York Curb Market, furnished by Logan & Bryan, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 626 South Spring street:

Favorable News Promotes New Buying

Shell Union Increases Rate; Wool Report Poor

Baldwin Boosted by Strong Pool Support

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Stock prices rallied sharply in today's market, net gains of 1 to 5 1-2 points being scattered throughout the list at the close. The buying embraced practically all groups of stocks although total sales were well below those of the first two days of the week.

Speculators for the advance had distributed large buying orders throughout the market at the opening, the execution of which prompted aggressive short coverings by bear traders who had sold stocks freely earlier in the week. Commission house brokers also reported that the swift rebound here had revived public confidence and led to a resumption of pool operations in a number of specialties.

Business news was largely constructive in character. It included a sharp increase in car loadings, favorable weekly steel trade reviews, declaration of a stock dividend by the Gulf States Steel Company, an increase of from $1 to $1.40 in the annual rate of the Shell-Union Oil Company, a resumption of dividend payments on Armour Class "A" and an initial dividend in the new Pennock Oil Company stocks.

WOOL SHOWS LOSSES

The only unfavorable item was the publication of the annual report of the American Wool Company for 1924, showing a deficit of nearly $12,000,000 after the payment of dividends, contrasted with a surplus of about $740,000 the preceding year. While the report was not published until after the market closed, Wall Street apparently had anticipated it because the stock was under pressure all day, touching a new low for the year at 48 3-8, and then rallying to 50 for a net loss of 3 1-4 on the day.

Baldwin was the outstanding feature of the industrial group, closing more than 5 points higher at 126 after having sold as low as 124 1-4 yesterday. U. S. Steel closed 1 1-2 points higher at 124 3-4, and American Can showed a net gain of 1 1-4 at 171 1-2. American Smelting and Refining, General Petroleum, Mack Trucks, Universal Pipe and U. S. Rubber were among the other standard issues to close 2 or more points above yesterday's final figures.

GAINS DISTRIBUTED

Commercial Solvents "A" and "B" scored 12 and 18 3-4 points respectively. Postum Cereal jumped 3 points to 107 in further reflection of the directors' decision to retire the preferred stock. Net gains of 4 to 6 points were recorded by California Packing, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Air Reduction, Atlantic Refining, International Business Machine, International Telephone and Nash Motors.

Railroad shares gave a remarkable demonstration of group strength. Colorado and Southern was run up nearly 6 1-2 points to a new top at 59 and then eased to 57, while net gains of 2 points or more were recorded by Rock Island, Norfolk and Western, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Frisco common, St. Louis, Southwestern, Union Pacific, Chicago Great Western preferred, Lackawanna, Gulf Mobile and Northern preferred, Kansas City Southern and Western Pacific preferred.

Call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent. The time money market continued firm with 3 3-4 per cent, the ruling rate for 60 to 90-day loans, and 4 per cent for the longer maturities. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates turned reactionary. Demand sterling dropped nearly a point to $4.75, and French francs broke about 6 points to around 5.22 cents.

REPUBLIC OF POLAND

External Sinking Fund 8's

The financial and economic progress of Poland constitutes an outstanding achievement amongst European nations since the war.

1. The creation of a stable currency with a reserve of 65% gold and gold securities;
2. A balanced budget—in 1924 total Government receipts exceeding total expenditures by $14,282,000;
3. A normal surplus of exports over imports;
4. A Government-owned railroad system of 14,000 miles showing in 1924 an excess of receipts over operating expenses;
5. The funding of the Government's debt to the United States and all other countries.
6. The unit of currency is selling on a parity of exchange with the U. S. dollar.

The sinking will redeem the entire issue by maturity at 105, which will give a minimum yield of 8.53%.

TIMBER

. . . a world-wide necessity

Partnership in more than two billion feet of the best soft wood timber on the American continent . . . acquired at $1.50 per 1000 feet, which is three to four times less than cost of timber of similar value in Oregon and Washington. There is increased profit in this favorable purchase.

Ownership in 108 square miles of timber that border on deep sea water, so that costs of logging and reaching the markets will be the minimum. Location means added profit for shareholders.

Participation in annual net profits estimated to reach $1,271,000 . . . more than nine times the Preferred dividend requirements and equal to 56.5% return on Common shares.

More deep oil sands were found by the Union Oil Company in the Rosecrans field yesterday, the Gordon No. 1, southern outpost of the field, finding showings described as rich saturated sand at 6484 feet.

The Gordon has had other good showings at shallower depths, the core barrel taking out oil sand at about 5400 feet, at about 6200 feet, and at the present depth. The shallower showings were not extensive enough to warrant a test in the opinion of Union officials. A string of eight-inch casing was set at 5500 feet to protect the hole, but no production test was made at that depth.

In its Zins well in the eastern part of the field the Union found good sand at about 5700 feet, and set a world's record string of eight-inch casing at 5692 feet. In its Trust No. 1, the sand was found at 5775 feet, these wells, with the General Petroleum Corporation's Amestoy, which found the sand at 6666 feet, being the four deepest projects to find oil sand in Rosecrans, the Amestoy being the deepest in the State.

Newlin Well Spuds

The Union Oil Company yesterday spudded in its Newlin wildcat well at Ocean Park Heights, and made fifty feet of twenty-four-inch hole, according to official reports.

The Newlin well is attracting as much attention as any exploratory project in the State. The Ocean Park Heights field is said by geologists to present the excellent evidence of probable production, and most of the large companies, and several smaller ones have acquired acreage in the vicinity of the Newlin well.

To Set Casing

The Pan-American Petroleum Company will make a test of showings in its Jesrum well in the Rideout Heights district, and is reaming to set six-inch casing at 4875 feet. This well was drilled to 4446 feet, at which point a rich oil sand was found, it is said.

Use Cable Tools

The Temescal Petroleum Corporation's No. 2 well on the Temescal ranch, near Piru, is drilling ahead at 178 feet, according to drillers. Cable tools are being used in drilling this hole, which probably will be put down to about 1800 or 1900 feet.

Temescal No. 1, as the B. & L. discovery well in this district has been renamed, has not been finally completed, and officially is off production, it is said. This well found commercial oil sand at about 1850 feet, capable of producing about 300 barrels a day, the product being reported as paraffine base oil. The Temescal corporation was formed by E. L. Doheny, to exploit the Temescal ranch, comprising about 10,000 acres, owned by Doheny.

Production Drops

National daily production for the week ending the 7th inst., dropped 11,700 barrels, according to estimates of the American Petroleum Institute, released yesterday. Total daily output for the period was 1,941,600 barrels, as compared with 1,953,300 barrels for the preceding week.

California's daily production declined 1300 barrels for the same period, the institute estimates, registering 598,500 barrels, against 596,800 barrels for the week ending January 31.

Oklahoma, ranking next to California as a producing State, declined 750 barrels a day, from 479,700 barrels to 478,950 barrels.

Oil Shipments

Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports received a total of 2,425,000 barrels of crude from California during the month of January, according to estimates of the American Petroleum Institute. This was a decline from 2,766,000 barrels for the month of December.

Receipts of California oil for the week ending the 7th inst., showed a marked increase over receipts for the previous week, totaling 559,000 barrels, against 377,000 barrels for the week previous.

Total imports of petroleum, including crude and refined oils, at all United States ports for January, aggregated 7,280,000 barrels, against 6,567,000 barrels for the month of December, an increase of nearly 1,000,000 barrels. For the week ending the 7th inst., oil imports at all United States ports totaled 1,799,000 barrels, against 1,935,000 barrels for the preceding week.

Official Report

Oil-field operations reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ending the 14th inst., show eighteen new wells started, as compared with nineteen during the previous week. Of the eighteen notices to drill filed this week, four were for wells in the Inglewood field; three in the Rosecrans field, one each in the Long Beach, Torrance, Brea-Olinda and Coyote Hills fields, one in Los Angeles county, one in the Cat Canyon field, four in the fields of Kern county and one in the Coalinga field. The total new wells this year is 122, as compared with 219 at the same date last year.

Tests for water shut-off this week numbered twenty-three, as compared with twenty-nine, during the previous week. Yearly total to date, 176; total to same date last year, 174.

Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered fourteen, as compared with nine during the previous week. Total to date this year numbered 110; total to same date last year, eighty-four.

Abandonments this week numbered nine, as compared with five during the preceding week. Total to date this year, sixty; total to same date last year, sixty-one.

BAD CHECKS

The forgery detail of the Los Angeles police department detective bureau has issued the following bulletin on bad-check writing:

"A man using the name of R. E. Barnes has been issuing a number of worthless checks, drawn on the Bank of America of Long Angeles, and signed Bush Electric Corporation, Charles H. Bush, president, 1205 West Sixth street. This man asserts that he is a salesman for the company, although officials of the concern say that he is not employed there. Across the left-hand edge of his checks appears the name, H. H. Reuse, secretary.

"Following is a description of Barnes: American, reddish hair, hazel eyes, 5 ft. 8 in. tall; weighs 150 pounds; 32 years of age; medium build; smooth shaven, ruddy complexion."

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE: Today's small supply was cleaned up readily on generally a steady to strong basis. However, some spots on both steers and the stock cow division were higher. Two loads of good 1221-pound steers topped for the day at $.9.0. Other steer offerings were mostly common and medium. Light weights that cleared from $.65 to 8.65, a car lot of 790-pound Utah steers going over to a feeder buyer at the lower figure.

Fat she stock offerings sold mostly in odd head and small lots, a good portion of these being dairy types. The bulk of fat she stock went over from 5.00 to 6.00. Canners and cutters in a small way cleared from 2.00 to 3.50. Bulls sold rather actively on a steady to strong basis. The bulk, mostly the better kinds of beefy bologna, turned from 4.00 to 4.65.

CALVES: Today's calf offerings were mostly holdovers that arrived too late for yesterday's market. These met active demand at fully steady prices, and a good clearance was made. A fewer string of 280 to 290-pound Texas calves cleared for 7.25, while a small bunch of common 150-pound California calves made 7.50, although odd head of milk calves sold upward to 10.50 and above. Very common calves and heavies turned largely from 5.00 to 6.00.

HOGS: Demand was not nearly active for today's moderate run, estimated at 1300, and only a partial clearance had been made at a late hour. Prices were generally on a steady to strong basis. Today's practical top was 12.65, paid for a load of choice 201-pound Nebraskas. However, two loads of 170 to 191-pound Colorado butchers cleared for 12.70, although these were weighed without the customary 5%. Mixed butchers turned largely from 12.35 to 12.50. Light lights sold mostly from 12.00 to 12.15, while a part load averaging 132 pounds made 11.65. A small lot of rough 332-pound California packing sows made 9.25. However, smooth packing sows are quotable from 10.25 to 10.50.

SHEEP: Nothing was offered in the ovine division and, in the general opinion of the trade, choice handy weight vealed lambs are quotable from 17.00 to 17.50, with choice light weight ewes from 9.75 to 10.25.

WHO'S WHO

George H. Woodruff, a member of the law firm of Woodruff and Shoemaker, at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Great Republic Life Insurance Company, was elected a member of the board and third vice-president.

Other officers who were re-elected are: A. Otis Birch, president; W. H. Savage, first vice-president; J. O. Smith, second vice-president; F. B. Olds, secretary and treasurer; Harry M. Brandel, M.D., medical director. The board of directors includes the officers named and L. E. Smith of Orange and D. C. Williams of Santa Barbara.

Efforts of eastern publications to deprecate Los Angeles and Southern California find little basis for fact, according to W. A. Bruning, vice-president of the State Bank of Belvidere (Neb.) yesterday, while a business visitor to the principal office of the Hellman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank.

Mr. Bruning visited Los Angeles about fourteen years ago. The growth here since then was declared by him to be the most amazing thing he has witnessed in his experience. "People are pouring into the Southland in steady streams," he said.

H. B. Heim, former bank examiner for the Los Angeles Clearing-house Association and identified with banking in Los Angeles for over twelve years, has been made assistant to the president of the United States National Bank. The announcement was made yesterday by President Perry A. Weidner.

W. B. Rorick has been elected a director of the Citizens' Bond and Mortgage Company of California. He was general manager of the American Laundries Company for ten years and is active in business affairs in this city.

NO CITIZENSHIP FOR WAR-TIME SLACKER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18. — When Uncle Sam was raising an army under the selective draft during the late war, Visko Petrasich, a native of Austria, residing here, claimed exemption from military service on the ground that he was not a naturalized citizen. In availing himself of this privilege he forgot that some day he might want to become a citizen of the United States. When Petrasich appeared with other foreigners before Superior Judge C. N. Andrews to request citizenship his petition was denied.

CHINESE IS SUICIDE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Feb. 18.—Without awakening his two cellmates, Wung Mook, a Chinese cook, committed suicide in the County Jail by hanging himself to a clothes hook. A short length of cord had served, while the drop was obtained by kicking away a roll of blankets. Mook, who had been employed by a Los Angeles contractor on the new Southern Pacific grade near Picacho, was to have been deported as unlawfully within the United States.

"TODAY"
Is the last day that you can purchase "LIGHTNING" gasoline at 18½ cents a gallon, because tomorrow morning we dish it out at 21½ cents.
If you have already tried it once, we are not afraid of losing your business.
If you have not tried "LIGHTNING" yet, you are not doing yourself or your motor justice.
Just bear this in mind, that "LIGHTNING" is the result of nearly a year and a half of experimental work by one of the cleverest petroleum engineers of the world, in an attempt to produce a motor fuel superior to any gasoline ever marketed up to this time, "and he has."
While the process used in producing "LIGHTNING" is much more costly to us than ordinary gasoline, and while we must charge you a slight increase over the price of old method gas, we are working on the theory that the best in any product is none too good for the American people, and that you will patronize "SUPERIOR QUALITY" if you can be shown.
I as as sure as I am sure of my own name, that "LIGHTNING" will give you 35% more value than any other gasoline you have ever used, and on top of that, will save you many a garage bill on your motor.
"All I ask you to do is try it once and you be the judge."

LEWIS CASE CREDITORS TO GATHER

Date for Meeting of 9000 Subscribers to Realty Schemes to be Set Today

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 18.—The date for the meeting of the 9000 creditors of E. G. Lewis, bankrupt promoter of Atascadero, Palos Verdes and University City will be set tomorrow upon the arrival in Santa Barbara of A. L. Rutherford, receiver, Commissioner Butcher announced this afternoon. At this meeting to be held in Atascadero early in march, a trustee will be elected. Rutherford is expected to arrive in Santa Barbara late tonight with a complete mailing list of the Lewis creditors in all corners of the globe.

While the University City creditors have filed no claims here, there are 400 from the Regents' Mercantile Company of St. Louis already accepted by the attorney for creditors, Oscar Willetts said. With assets listed at $22,000,000, most of which are in the nature of unliquidated claims of questionable nature, the list of liabilities is fast approaching the $10,000,000 mark, Butcher said today. It is thought doubtful by the commissioner whether or not Lewis's assets will exceed $5,000,000 when the final accounting is made.

The largest individual claim by Atascadero investors was filed today by Frank B. Usher of Wisconsin who presented two highly embossed certificates of membership in the Commonwealth Club of Atascadero with notes and other Lewis securities of $21,000.

Butcher believes that approximately 6000 investors in the St. Louis projects of Lewis will file within a few days. A study of the claims submitted to the commissioner reveals that the bankrupt promoter borrowed upward of $6,000,000 by the mail route mostly in small sums.

According to word received here, Lewis is in Atascadero, San Luis Obispo county, busily engaged in raising a defense fund to fight bankruptcy litigation. One by one, however, residents of his colony in that place are moving away until today, records show, approximately half the property he sold ten years ago for homes, business sites and orchards is being advertised for sale for delinquent taxes.

Voters' Rights Usurped, Says Gov. Ritchie

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Nine of those personal and property rights which the Constitution aimed especially to guarantee, have been usurped by the Federal government in the last decade, Gov. Albert C. Hitchie of Maryland declared tonight at the annual session of the Maryland Society of New York.

He cited the income tax and the inheritance tax as violations of the Constitution which gave the government "complete, arbitrary and despotic power" over the citizen's income.

His list of examples of violations of the bill of rights was headed by the prohibition amendment.

CRYER SAYS PARROT TO ADVISE HIM

Mayor Asserts "Cabinet" to be Continued Unless Found "Dishonorable"

Mayor Cryer yesterday served public notice that he intended to seek and listen to the advice of Kent Parrot, political boss, as long as the latter does not advise him to do anything that was "dishonorable."

The declaration in regard to his "under-cover" cabinet was made by the Mayor in an address yesterday noon before the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce on the provisions of the new city charter.

In the course of this address, he took occasion to explain that he was not dominated by Parrot or his secretary but that they were merely his good friends and that he intended to continue seeking their advice as long as they remained honorable. He would follow this policy particularly in the case of Parrot, he declared.

Mayor Cryer also took occasion to defend Chief of Police Heath as an "able, honest and efficient" police executive whom he had saved to the department at the time of Heath's memorable mix-up with former Chief Oaks. He added that the attacks on himself, Heath and Parrot emanated from the "iniquitous influences" seeking to oust them because they could not control them.

The new charter, Mayor Cryer said, would give the city a far more efficient government than the old one, though under its provisions the cost of running the city would be higher. He took a lion's share of the credit for the educational campaign to bring before the public the shortcomings of the old charter and added that his four years of study and experience of the new charter would make him more valuable to the city as Mayor than any other one man. He announced, however, that his "hat was not yet in the ring," but that he would make his decision as to whether or not he would seek re-election in the near future.

NEW MODES TURN TO COLOR

Witchery of Lines and Fabrics Add Fascination to Milady's Habiliments This Season

BY OLIVE GRAY

Contradictory: This is the term one might well apply to the new season's fashions. The straight, slim silhouette stands boldly forth upon the horizon of feminine attire; but that straight line is modified by pleats, by plaits, godets, insets, flounces, frills and ruffles.

Simplicity is the key-note in dress, we say, but it is sophisticated simplicity, attained through much knowing elaboration.

The ensemble prevails, we may declare; but there are the separate frocks and gowns and coats, to set at naught our declaration. There is no waist-line, we decide; but, we find a waist line lowered to a point above the knees, its presence indicated by flounces, flares or godets, insidiously inset.

Scarcely has a fact been proved, ere that "but" appears, controverting our conclusions. All this proclaims the fashions distinctly feminine, we say, when at once contradiction is a conceded feminine privilege; but yet—again—we must observe the boyish form still evidenced.

One safe, certain statement we may make: The new modes are rife with witchery in fabric, line and coloring. Never, in the history of dress, have all habiliments been so fraught with fascination; never compounded with allure so indisputable. Variety in weave has much to do with this. Color has still more. Artistry in fabrication, boldness in design, freedom from tradition, and the influence of many nationalities in the creation of materials, all have assisted in bringing this about.

Seasons ago, a certain weave in silk, in wool, in cotton was the choice of Madame la Mode; or a certain color prevailed throughout the realm of dress. Today, all fabrics contribute of their excellence, all colors and all shades of color are in favor.

With so much to draw upon, we may expect a period of feminine loveliness and individuality in attire, such as the years have never witnessed. Whatsoever a woman's distinctive style, her meter, she may so clothe herself as to emphasize this characteristic and still be in the current mode.

Passing along the downtown shopping district where the new season's modes are on display, she may select that suited to her lines and to her pocketbook, knowing that her selection is from among the best the world affords and that she will be attired correctly, while at the same time utilizing her own especial taste in dress.

THE DRESS

The dress, per se, distinctive of femininity, takes first place in consideration of a woman's wardrobe. While lines remain practically unchanged, nothing radical having happened to the silhouette over night, there is a subtle change in that a movement to the front is recognized in those garments which subtly foreswear the straight up-and-down. Pleated apron fronts, let-in panels, plisse, sashes broad or narrow, tied in front; flounces cut circular or gathered, set at the front of the skirt; jabots extending down the length of frocks, either from chin to hem or beginning at the side or under arm; godets along the front of the skirt, their roots sprouting from a point at a very lowered waist line or at the knee. Thus is the forward movement brought to bear. The result, a maintained straight and narrow silhouette, requiring skill and artistry to acquire, does not in any way destroy the lines for several seasons approved. The change, so subtle, is more a feeling than a fact.

The one-piece dress will hold high place; the two-piece dress or suit is somewhat new in its development; the ensemble or three-piece suit is strong as ever; but all of these take on novel features in trimming and fabric development.

Soft fabrics still hold vogue, in silks, wools and cottons, and while color has a broader sway than in couturial history.

Laces, more popular than ever, find themselves dyed to match the fabric of the dress which they adorn and frequently are tinctured with metallic gold or silver. Scarcely a weave of modern looms or pillow work that does not find favor as a trimming for dresses, gowns and wraps. Often lace flounces are so applied by means of self-toned embroidery, as to seem an integral part of the gown. Occasionally a lace dress, glimpsed beneath an ensemble coat, allies itself thereto by means of a matching collar and cuffs of lace. Afternoon and evening gowns of lace receive a softened effect by means of dye, or are tinted by the colorful underslip. One adorably quaint afternoon gown of black lace set upon a taffeta bodice, had festoons of deep blue ribbon underneath the droop flounce, each drooping group of ribbon strands held in place by a prim bouquet of hand-made ribbon flowers.

Waistlines, on such gowns are sometimes so lowered as to be lost to sight, in that they appear but slightly above the knee, or fully half way between the spot where the normal waistline used to be, and the knee. As skirts become shorter and still shorter, that waistline will become even more indeterminate, or wholly absent. Godets and circular flounces are shown upon dresses of many kinds. One pictured is of satin, than which there is no material more in the season's mode, the weave being soft and pliable, whether surfaced smoothly or with a somewhat rough or crepe effect.

A novel note in the dinner gown is the emphasized back opening often shaped in a deep V, the somewhat startling aperture sometimes bridged by strands of velvet ribbon in pastel tones, as noted in the handsome model in our sketch. Ribbon, in many instances, serves to form the corsage bouquet, in the shape of a huge swirling rosette, centered by flower stamens and having many ribbon streamers. Such adornments usually are in the color or in the tone of the dress, or are used to bring out the undertint of the slip beneath a lacy overdress.

The strictly tailored dress, or coat, or suit, is far removed from old-time ideas of tailoring; is innocent of buckramed bust and ingrowing waistline—yielding rather to the straight and narrow way of all garb feminine.

ORANGE EXHIBIT OPENS TONIGHT

Fifteenth National Show to Occupy New Building

Gov. Richardson Will Take Part in Ceremonies

California's greatest midwinter event, the Fifteenth National Orange Show, will open in San Bernardino tonight for its eleven-days' homage to King Orange. Fully 30,000 persons are expected to be in attendance at the formal opening.

The great exposition of the orange is ready for the throngs that will journey to San Bernardino. The finishing touches were put on yesterday and an inspection last night by orange show executives brought forth the announcement that the Fifteenth anniversary exposition surpasses in beauty and in magnitude all former shows.

Gov. Richardson will deliver the principal address at the ceremonies tonight. This is the third successive time that Gov. Richardson has been called upon to open the show. With him will be a number of State executives as well as city and county officials of many sections.

ELABORATE CEREMONIES

The ceremonies will be the most elaborate in years due to the fact that the orange show is to be presented for the first time in its own permanent building. This great structure has been designed for exposition purposes only and its immensity and the beauty of the interior will be a revelation to the visitors to the show.

For the next eleven days San Bernardino expects to entertain 300,000 visitors. Last year's attendance was 250,000. The orange show has always been a harbinger of rain but even rain will not seriously interfere with the attendance for the advance ticket sale through the distribution of family tickets insures an attendance of at least 100,000 persons.

There are eighteen feature displays of wonderful beauty. There are hundreds of exhibits in the by-products department, addition hundreds in the industrial and automobile sections, a department of citrus education, an amusement section. And there are 1500 separate citrus fruit specimens from the citrus experiment station at Riverside that the public never finds in the markets.

The feature exhibitors are San Diego, Fontana, Hemet-San Jacinto, Lindsay, Ontario-Upland, Elephant Orchards, Mutual Orange Distributors, Santa Monica, Fresno, Colton, San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce, Randolph Marketing Company, Pasadena, Riverside, Redlands, Pomona, Orange County and Pacific Electric Company.

The setting for the exposition is Venetian and the orange show officials insist that there has never been an exposition anywhere that will even closely rival the orange show for its decorations. The bright Venetian hangings, panels, lights, millions of oranges in rack displays, features that have a mechanical motion, music, song and gayety make a scene that is marvelously beautiful, it is declared.

Each day there are special features with bands, orchestras, singers and dancers from the main stage. Tomorrow the Southern California Editorial Association will be guests of the show. Sunday a troupe of Indians from New Mexico will present tribal dances. The California Citrus Growers' Convention will be held during the show. Monday being a legal holiday hundreds of members of Lions' Clubs in the south will observe the day with the San Bernardino Lions' Club and later at the show.

NEW SHIELD TO PROTECT POLICEMEN

A bullet-proof shield, made of heavy steel, has been constructed by Capt. Plummer, head of the Lincoln Heights division, for use of the police department in approaching criminals at bay.

The shield is eight feet high and will shelter two officers, who can fire through loopholes. It is mounted on rollers, but has handles also, so it can be carried.

At Central Police Station yesterday it was said there had been many cases in which such a shield would have been found useful. It could be wheeled up close to a house in which criminals had taken refuge, it was said, and used as a cover from which officers could, without exposing themselves to fire, throw tear-gas bombs.

It would have been useful, it was said, in the capture of Dale Forbes, a bank bandit, at Arcadia. Forbes had intrenched himself in an armored automobile, surrounded by officers, who were forced to rush the car. Forbes shot and killed a deputy sheriff and was himself killed by a shot from the revolver of former Deputy Sheriff Anderson. Forbes's sweetheart, Marie Malone, was also shot and killed in the exchange of shots.

TELLEGENS PLANNING HOME

Actor and Family to Occupy House in Hollywood, Says Wife; Both Sought Secrecy

With the publication of the story of his secret marriage to Isabel Craven Dilworth, Lou Tellegen, actor, will give up the separate establishment he has maintained for the past year and live with his wife and baby son, Rexford, it was declared by Mrs. Tellegen yesterday at her home, 1944 Franklin Circle, Hollywood.

That she and Tellegen feared the possible effect on their professional careers was given by Mrs. Tellegen as the reason why she and the actor have never acknowledged the marriage which took place on December 17, 1923. Mrs. Tellegen is known on the stage as Nina Romano and Elizabeth Alden, and has appeared opposite her husband in several parts.

"Lou has been living at 1765 Vista Del Mar, while I have lived here," Mrs. Tellegen stated. "He will move in with me as soon as he gets back from a short trip out of town. I expect him back today."

Rexford Tellegen, eight months of age, was born in Jacksonville, Fla., while Tellegen was touring in a play, Mrs. Tellegen said. She declared Tellegen arrived two weeks later to see his son.

"I met Lou about six months after the divorce action had started between him and Geraldine Farrar. He offered me the feminine lead in 'Blind Youth.' Later I played in 'Don Juan,'" Mrs. Tellegen said.

She declared she came to Los Angeles last February and lived in Beverly Hills for a while, moving to Hollywood later.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dale Dilworth, her parents, who live in Philadelphia, wanted her to announce her marriage to Tellegen as soon as it occurred, Mrs. Tellegen said, but she and her husband decided not to do so. The Dilworths may come to the Coast at an early date, she declared.

A dispatch from Philadelphia last night gave the information that Mrs. Tellegen's father is president of the Salem Glass Works at Salem, N. J., and that the Dilworth family is an old and well-known family in Salem county, New Jersey, where its founders acquired a fortune in the glass-manufacturing business.

"I liked our secret marriage very much; the publicity of the affair

SHIPPERS WILL MEET CARRIERS

Three Hundred to Gather in Los Angeles to Ask for Better Service

More than 300 shippers of California products will meet in Los Angeles tomorrow to tell their distribution needs to representatives of all the public carriers serving this State and Coast. Products for which transportation needs will be discussed will include fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, grain, hay, live stock, poultry, dairy products, nuts, sugar, wool, hides, lumber, petroleum, cement, cotton, fish and manufactured goods.

The shippers from every section of the State, will personally come into contact with the managers, superintendents, traffic managers, freight experts and divisional and local agents of some fifteen transportation corporations including the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Western Pacific, Union Pacific, Northwestern Pacific, Nevada Northern, Sacramento Northern, Pacific Electric, San Diego and Arizona and Central California Traction.

This get-together assembly will be the third conference of the Pacific Coast Regional Advisory Board and the meeting place will be at the Biltmore Hotel, the session convening at 10 o'clock and continuing throughout the day. Charles E. Virden, director of the California Development Association, will preside and Norman H. Sloane, general manager of the association, will act as general secretary. Shippers also will be in attendance from other Pacific Coast States.

PROTEST HUNTER PARADISE

Clubwomen Object to Sportsman's Club Selling Memberships; Cruelty to Animals Cited

A dozen clubwomen and others interested in the prevention of cruelty to animals lodged a vigorous protest before the State Corporation Department yesterday against the granting of an application of the Pacific Coast Sportsmen's Club for permission to sell $4,000,000 in memberships to promote a 50,000-acre hunters' paradise in Southern California.

Mrs. Rosamonde Wright, of the American Animal Defense League declared that the plan of the club to import $900,000 worth of wild animals and fowl to a fenced-in preserve between the Tehachapi and Caliente, would be inhuman and would be a backward step seriously affecting the morals of the State.

Her protest was echoed by R. S. (Cupid) Sparks, former City Councilman and president of the Los Angeles branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mrs. B. A. Johnson, and others. Mrs. Johnson declared that 150,000 clubwomen in California are watching the progress of the plan and are prepared to sign a petition making such a hunters' preserve against the law.

I. S. Horn, promoter of the project, explained the plans in detail and denied that it would be needlessly inhuman. It is planned, he said, to restrict killing of wild animals to one-half of the limit allowed by the State. Ten per cent of the increase in the animals on the preserve, he explained, is to be used to restock preserves throughout the United States.

Denying that wholesale slaughter of animals trapped in the fenced-in preserve would follow, Roland H. Hill, cattleman, said the character of the country is such that it would afford a natural protection to animals and that hunting in the preserve would be sport rather than slaughter.

Edwin Hedderly, Assistant State Fish and Game Commissioner, said the proposed preserve is well adapted to the scheme. He said he saw no objection to it and predicted that plans of this sort will

by Harry Carr

HAVING run all winter, every winter, for fourteen years, it looks as though John McGroarty's Mission Play might turn out to be a success after all.

There are a number of theatrical producers who must gnaw their nails down to the quick whenever they hear of the Mission Play. They all turned it down cold.

One of them was a personal friend of McGroarty's. When he learned that John was determined to put the play on at his own expense he sent a hurried message to the author's family; he begged them to forcibly restrain him from this folly.

A DRAMATIC DEVICE

The scene where the good mission padres are reporting to Fra Junipero Serra as to their flocks and herds—that's my favorite scene of the Mission Play.

McGroarty was one of the first dramatists to realize the dramatic power of lists of things—the drama of the catalogue. Many others have since seized upon that device.

Much of the charm of "The Life and Letters of Peter Whiffle" depended upon lists of enticing objects. Mary MacLane of Butte, Mont., was the joke of a nation not at that time prepared for such breathless frankness. But she could really write. And she, better than anyone else, knew the power and force of writing long lists of things.

CHINESE POETRY

Moon Quan, the charming young Chinese poet, tells me that this is the principle of Chinese poetry. They leave the words out and just list the poetic facts.

As, for instance, the words: "A moon—dark lake—high tower—an imprisoned girl—brave lover—shadows—a wicked jailer hiding—his long sharp sword . . ."

What's the use of more words?

NAMING HORSES

Every time there is a horse show I am always impressed by the interesting—if somewhat extraordinary—names they give the horses.

Human babies are always named after somebody's aunt, but the names they give horses seem to suggest things that happened when they were naming the baby colt.

I'd like to know why Weathervane was so named, what Sohan Star signifies, and to whom Netherhall's Pride refers. Irving Hellman's horse, Woodcliff Surprise, piques my curiosity. I don't know who St. Mesrob was, but it is a delightful name for a horse.

A HUNCH

A young gentleman of my acquaintance, Mr. Raymond Griffith, the actor, reaped illgotten gains from the name of a horse.

He was in England and wanted to go to the races at Newmarket. But he didn't know one horse from another. He observed that one of the horses bore the name Wet Kiss.

"Ah," he reflected, "a wet kiss would certainly show." So he played the nag to show—ter third place—and cashed in on a forty-to-one shot.

LOST LOVE STORIES

The way of a man with a maid in fiction and drama has become too sophisticated. That may be well enough for Europe, but I don't believe that the real people of America like it.

Trying to reduce romance to pathology and biology is the bunk.

Freud may have been—as they say in "The Seventh Heaven"—a very remarkable fellow; but a laboratory isn't the best place to write a love story.

Council Sells Laurel Canyon Water Bonds

The City Council, with two members voting no, yesterday sold to the Anglo-London-Paris Company $1,300,000 of water bonds for service lines and a distributing system in the Laurel Canyon-Mulholland Highway district of 10,000 acres.

Their bid was a premium of $1130, 5½ per cent interest on early maturities and 5 per cent on later ones. There were five bidders. Councilman Mushet voted no on the ground that an error had been made in the advertisement and the issue should be readvertised. Councilman Mallard voted no, saying he opposed all split bids.

lovelinesm, until they vie with dresses in effect, being beaded, of lace, of chiffon, plain or printed — the latter a salient note in the season's favored fabrics. Skirts worn with such tunics are negligible, being only slightly visible, and may be either in a matching tone, or black or white, beige or of any neutral tint.

Blouses, of the more dressy sort, may be classed with tunics, the variance in length forming the main difference. Sport blouses, of course, come under a different head; being more substantial, plainer, and as a rule quite short. These, in order to distinguish them are often termed jumpers, especially when designed for sports wear.

Also, there are the jumper dresses, scarcely to be distinguished from the skirt and blouse, in their middyish effect. Some of these have the suspendered or shoulder-strapped effect, the shirt or blouse of cotton, silk or crepe, appearing in the top opening and as sleeves.

ENSEMBLES

The ensembles, consisting of dress and coat, are most often fashioned from soft woolen weaves as to top garment, and in the fascinating new figured silks for the dress beneath. The silk, in this case, becomes either the entire lining of the coat, or in the facing for the overturned revers. The same silk may appear as pocket facing, scarf and upon the sleeves in the shape of cuffs or a flat band applied. Another means of attaining to the ensemble is that of panelling the front of the dress in silk or other fabric, to match the lining and lapels of the coat. Or, again, bands of the coat material may be applied to the skirt of the underdress. In fact much ingenuity may be exercised in constructing the ensemble, since the mode allows much latitude.

The separate coat for spring does not far depart from that of winter; and in fact the retention of fur, for bands along the narrow skirt and as collaring, makes it difficult to know whether the enveloping garment belongs to the passing or the forthcoming season. Many of the furs, thus put to use, are of the light-colored, long-haired peltry, often toning in harmony with the fabric of the wrap.

MILLINERY

The persistent prediction of large hats seems on the verge of fulfillment, quite emphatically, if one may judge by the beauty and the flattering lines of those now shown in the most exclusive shops. But, even so, small hats will hold a place, in every woman's wardrobe, so convenient are they—so practical, so generally becoming.

Crowns are higher, whether of the rounded, pinched-in shape, or square. Yet, even here, there is an exception; many of the pictorial shapes having rather low, almost squat and humbly rounded crowns, the size of which seems to augment, as the brim expands.

Flowers are in better use than for several seasons past, new methods of posing them wielding charm. Either flatly applied to crown or brim, or outstanding in great bouquets, flowers of somewhat exaggerated proportions take on the coloring of nature, blending with the tone of the hat or contrasting vividly therewith. A new combination is brown with mauve, or thistledown—extremely satisfactory.

Fine weaves in straw, especially those from Italy, vie with fabric in millinery creations, while colors are as varied and brilliant as are those in dresses and in wraps. Malina, laid on layer after layer, forms some of the more dressy picture shapes, these being trimmed in hand-made flowers, likewise of malina. The big roses upon one pictured by our artist, are of malina, beige in tone like the hat which they have chosen to adorn. Edge are here touched with metallic gold; as is frequently the case with laces, malines and chiffons, used in couture and in millinery.

Sports hats and those for street, draw upon many realms for both shape and trimmings; never, however, forgetting the rule that simplicity must be attained, at whatsoever cost of self restraint. For example, a hat employing bolts of ribbon in its construction, or having panels formed from multitudes of tiny flowers, must appear to be unconscious of any lavishness, seeming at conclusion to be a simple shape, quite innocent of extravagance. The close application of flower petals, leaves and even feathered motifs, help toward this attainment. Birds' heads and breasts, upon some exclusive models, stick so tightly to the shape, that a second look is needed to make certain they were not woven with the fabric or the straw. Happily, such feathery addenda are of the made-up kind, rather than the feathered songsters. Colors in millinery are vivid, as those of dress, or in neutral tones of beige, sand, bisque—and of course in black and also white. Straw and felt consort happily, especially in sports hats, while fabrics of many kinds find welcome use.

One may choose a hat to match the tone of the ensemble, to strike a note in unison with scarf and vest; to match the hosiery and the shoes; or to top a somber costume with a vital color note.

SPORTS WEAR

California, with her great outdoors, is the region par excellence, of sports attire and in fact it was California which created this garb and she that has introduced to the world at large original creations along this line. One might say that sports wear exercises an influence upon all attire here; since the line of demarcation between formal and sports wear has become almost obliterated by reason of the outdoor life here engaged in. Country club costumes, donned for sports and continued throughout the dinner hour and during the dance, have done much to dim the line between these modes. It must be remembered, too, that ours is an outdoor city; and even upon the street, sports wear is permissible.

One's first thought, in relation to sports wear is that of the sweater. No woman can possess so many of these garments, that she may not be tempted to buy one more. Distractingly lovely in color and in weave are the season's sweaters, and so varied as to appeal to every taste. Little marks distinguishing these garments for various occasions, lie in shape, in the length, in coloring and especially in their fastening. Rivalling the straight front fastening, is that buttoning from chin to a low waistline, upon the left side. The high-military collar is a new note. The weight and material must be considered in selecting sweaters for varying occasions. Silk, mixed silk and wool, all wool, mohair, mohair and silk—these in many differing weights and weaves are to be had, while colors are as numerous as are those of field flowers or garden blossoms.

SKIRTS

Skirts, for wear with sweaters, may be of any chosen fabric and almost any favored cut. Pleated skirts of crepe or sports silk, in popular weaves, skirts of wool or of mixed silk and wool, also may be chosen. In fact, the skirt for general wear or for sports may be as varied as the sweater, jumper or blouse accompanying it.

The sports jumper, or Hannish shirt, a late comer in the field, is of flannel in convincing plaids, mannishly pocketed and completed at a lowered waistline and at cuffs, by knitted bands, serving to keep out chill, and also making for comfortable movement.

Sports dresses may be of silk, of crepe in any popular weave; of cotton in the new colorings, plain or striped or of wool—fine or coarsely woven flannel being still a favorite. The sports touch—distinguishing this dress from that for more formal wear—is more to be felt than defined, consisting as it does in a certain informality at neck, waistline and in sleeves, or proclaiming itself by a tie, a scarf, a well-placed pocket or belt. This little dress does its valiant share in blotting the line between informal and formal attire.

JEWELRY

The same hairline observable between the informal and formal in clothes, is noticeable in jewelry.

With the sports costume has come into prominence the dashing jewelry constructed from semi-precious, or not at all, precious stones. Enamels, quaint reproductions of antiques, beads, chains, medallions, sautoirs, bracelets, rings, all lend savor to the sports costume, and this without any minimizing the value of genuine gems.

To don sports jewelry for formal wear would be as certain an anachronism as to wear sports shoes with an evening gown, and not in many years has the genuine gem found more wonderful expression than through the jewelsmiths of now. In fact, it is doubtful if ever, were there creations more artful than those created through the use of platinum and by pavling rare stones with flashing diamonds, to bring out their beauty. Appreciation of jewel artistry is ever growing, and those who can secure such treasures, consider them beyond all price. Los Angeles has, among her jewelers, some of the world's most famous gemsmiths, and orders from other cities and even from other countries for the creations of this craft.

GARMENTS IN TIME

While, in lingerie, there is nothing strikingly new, elaboration along lines established continues to employ much ingenuity—the application of laces, hand-made flowers and bouquets, and hand embroidery to silken underthings, both woven and by-the-yardage, create distinction. Scarcely a colior popular for outer attire, but finds favor in lingerie. In fact, many women make it a point to match the costume throughout in color.

Negligees may be divided into two families—the gown and the pajama lounging suit. Here — perhaps more than in any realm of feminine dress, may individuality be exercised, the choice ranging into the realms of the bizarre, if such be the inclination. The fluffy-ruffles woman will, in the intimacy of the boudoir or bedroom, befluff and beruffle herself to the limit of her desire; the mannishly inclined will don the plainest of pajamas. Here, also, she who feels constrained to neutral tints for public appearance may indulge colorful whims ad libitum. Here, as perhaps nowhere else, the Chinese influence is noticeable; fabrics, colors and lavishness of embroidery being widely applied.

FURS

Furs, which as I have before remarked, might well be likened to the jewels of a costume, are never far out of vogue and, with their ever-increasing beauty and ingenuity of design form an important part of a modish woman's possessions.

Coats, long, short and medium are as much in demand as ever, while, with the advent of spring and summer, the wrap for wear with lighter costumes—the choker, scarf and shawl will find increasing favor.

HOSIERY

As varied as are their uses, stockings come in every weight, color and weave. The modish woman, in fact, must provide herself with as many stockings as she has gowns. Those of chiffon weight and delicate coloring for wear with street, afternoon and evening clothes; heavier ones for country club attire; sports hose for the links. Hose of silk, of wool, of cotton and mixtures of two in one. Colors to match, colors to contrast with the costume. Flesh, nude, sand, beige, gray to wear with black satin pumps; delicate pastel tones matching dainty afternoon and evening gowns; or those of gold or silver for the slippers, when contrast in footwear is desired. A novel note is provided in the French, or open-work clocking on the side of finest chiffon hosiery. Silken clocks, or none at all, for the heavier wear.

SHOES

In shoes, variety is the watchword, as in hosiery, personal choice is broad, since the day is past when the long narrow foot must don the short vamp, even though unfitted for it, or the short, broad foot must make itself appear the reverse. Not only is there permitted choice in leathers, colors, fabrics, trim, but one may select and adhere to the last best suited to one's foot. The same is true with regard to heels—but within more restricted lines. One may select for street wear from a variety of moderately high heels — Cuban, military, sports, Louis, baby Louis, castanettes, being reserved for the more elaborate attire. Probably first choice in leathers for street is light tan calf, in pump or oxford; although black patent, with various trims, shares favor. To combine black and tan, either in the shoe itself or in its trimmings, is a present fad. White in lasts and trims to suit the occasion, will hold a field its own for summer. A differing note of the season is that of placing the trimming — rosettes, buckles, buttons, on one side and rather low, a coquettish mode.

HAND-BAGS

Hand-bags, like all other accessories of dress, should be selected with reference to the occasion. With tailored costumes, bags should be of leather, of which there are many new versions, extending from the large vanity box —waning in popularity, to our regret—to the small envelope, the large flat purse, the sack de jour and other forms of practical leather hand-carriers.

More dressy are the bags, purses and varieties of fabric, more or less embellished with embroidery, enamels, insets of tapestry or painting. Scarcely a weave that has not been employed in the creation of such bags and purses; scarcely a means of decoration overlooked.

Bead bags, gems of artistry, never pass from favor and the newer imports, fashioned from washable and hence most durable beads, are more lovely than ever and as practical as their less beautiful sisters.

Quaint vanity cases, enamelled, oddly shaped, unusual in shape and in embellishment, are used in conjunction with larger bags, or are carried alone.

Mesh bags of gold, silver or enamel, come forth in novel shapes, taking a place all their own along Milady's accessories.

NECKWEAR

Not within remembrance has neckwear covered so broad a field as to materials or shapes as now. Varied to fit the occasion as unmistakable as are hats, dresses or shoes, neckwear may be of the type most severe in fabric and cut—boyish to a degree, or femininely frilled. Here, again, lace is predominant, a new note being the application of colored embroidery upon the lacey surface of collars, vestees and cuffs.

Cravats, adding to the generally colorful effect of dress, consort with the boyish, round collared shirts and blouses; while whole chapters might be written anent the scarf. This accessory, both as a scarf per se and in the form of the neckerchief, simply will not be relegated, continuously devising new means of endearing itself. Recent showing makes it difficult to distinguish whether the neckerchief is neckwear, or an accessory of the skirt, so long, so flowing, so almost overwhelming are the gloriously printed ones. Worn stock-fashion, or wound roguishly around the neck, these kerchiefs admit of much distinction in choice and in placement.

GLOVES

While gloves depict no radical change from the previous season, some features are emphasized, others eliminated. The gauntlette, overturned or flat, is still with us for wear with sleeves long, short, medium and none at all. Embellishment of such cuffs is more than ever ornate and ranges through a volume of differing embroidery, stitches, braiding, leather cut-work, etc. The long glove will be more and more sought for, especially that in suede. Not every woman can becomingly wear the short glove with the sleeveless dress. Fabric gloves will continue in favor, but a return to the glace kid is predicted, also. Pastel tones, beige, grey, sand and other neutral shades, vie with browns and decided colors to match or contrast with the costume, the shoes, hosiery or hat.

VEILS

The return of the veil is heralded and in fact is already conceded, in the adoption of the domino of many differing tints and meshes, often touched with metallic thread embroidery, this becoming little veil blazes the way for others of its type and it is whispered that a veiled epoch is advancing upon us. Lace popularity, in millinery as in dress, is certain to bring about such an era. There is no denying that a smart veil of becoming color, adds to the charm of almost any face.

TRIMMINGS

Trimmings, for clothes and millinery, never were so widely diversified; never so ingeniously applied. Self-trimmed frocks and hats with trimming evoluted from out their own fabric, whether of straw or fabric, felt or lace or tule, afford unlimited choice.

Embroideries, both in yardage and in handwork applied, rich braided bands, laces dyed and wrought upon with threads of metallic gold and silver, trimming to match the gown or hat, or forming vivid contrasts; but—ayre there's the rub—an application restrained, distinctive, requiring genius in posing or applying, since that so-difference is what constitutes effectiveness. A tendency there is to centralize a trimming in a single place, rather than to distribute it. A blazon of rich embroidery forming a single pocket, upon a gown; or a bright motif singularly put; these are high notes in the trimming of the season. Ribbon, fringed, fluted, pleated, plaited, fashioned into ruching, flounces petalized with huge outstanding flowers, closely set; shirring, smocking, gathers—all affording fullness, yet concealing it—keynote the new in dresses and in wraps.

COLORS

The solar spectrum itself seems to have contributed of its treasures toward the garmenting of the new season. Scarcely may one say that any single color predominates, for just as blue looms large—that blue of ocean, ever changing, ever new—out comes green, the green of all outdoors, with variations of leaf, grass, branch and mosses; then is the world of flowers rifled of its changing tints—rose, violet, yellow, red. Each color contributes of its every shade and tone, brightened, softened, commingled with other colors to form other tints. Shadowy black and snowy white and their combinations, where each predominates, neutral tints, beige, sand, gray, glide into view and the world couturial may mix its palette as it will.

FABRICS

Equally lavish, equally diversified, is the array of warp and woof. Weaves soft and pliable fashioned from silk, from wool, from cotton and from admixing these, each and all find favor in the creation of habiliments for the new season.

Materials smooth of surface, yardage under many names presenting colors plain, flowered, plaided, dotted, spotted. Even geometry is robbed of terrors as we look upon the silken prints, squared, circled, oblonged, zigzagged at angles acute and right.

CORSETS

Long famous for its absence, the corset has made its reappearance; but, oh, what a chastened and different corset from that of former times! The new corset, yielding gracefully to the uncorsetted mode, deferring respectfully to the boyish form, comes forth innocent of stiffness, molding the shape insidiously, diplomatically, gently, by means of elastic, rubber, webbing. The veriest protestant against confinement of diahpragm and vital organs, could find little fault with the present corset, which, at most, does but assist in lending help to promote an appearance of slimness, where the quality is most to be desired. Taking cue from the long-since adopted spots corset, the corset of today makes a point of assisting rather than of hindering freedom of movement, while at the same time advancing the beauty of the feminine form.

FADS

Handkerchiefs, prominent as ever, among accessories, come in every material and im-material from linen to lace and chiffon; from plain white to black and ranging through the color scale in tones of every shade. A recently developed fad is that of matching the jabot and the cuffs, with a handkerchief tucked into a diminutive pocket in skirt or waist. Printed fabrics, lacey fabrics, fabrics of finely woven tissue, plain or hemstitched, drawn-worked, lace-edged, picotted, tatted—all are shown in the new season's 'kerchiefry.

A Country Club Ensemble and an Afternoon Dress

New Fads Figure in Accessories

No. 1 of the costumes shows an adherence to the pencil-straight silhouette, an ensemble, for street or country club, chooses foulard silk for its sleeveless dress, smooth-surfaced wool as coat, foulard for lapels. The peak-crowned hat has a flare for feathers at the back. (2.) The extreme in side godets confers chic upon a chiffon taffeta dress with rose ruching to add fullness below the knee. A lace vestee fastens with a brooch. (3.) Flounced in dyed lace tinctured with metallic gold, an afternoon dress of satin features the deep V-back, the aperture bridged with velvet ribbons. Festoons of narrower ribbons are glimpsed beneath the flounce. The pictorial hat of maline in beige is flowered of self-material. Figure (A) of the accessories reveals the glory in the fad for scintillant animal ornaments. A little dog, kenneled upon a vanity case, barks forth his joy in brilliants. (B) The cross-word puzzle is extended into jewelry by the bracelet whereon numbers are worked out in enameling, black and white. (C) A lavishly jeweled vanity, with gold chain tassel, presents novelty in the attached filigree lip-stick. (D) A choker in many strands, fastens at the front, by means of a gem-set clasp, brooch-like in proportions. (E) The handbag of lizard skin, grass green, trims itself in black patent leather. Novel is the side handle, a shaped strap. (G) Earrings go to great lengths by means of golden chains, jewels or enamels.

Piggly Wiggly Girls Will Entertain During the Evening

Director of the American Association of Engineers and president of the second district of the A.A.E. spoke on the subject of great engineers of the United States, beginning with George Washington. Upon conclusion of his address, he introduced William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Bureau of Water Works and Supplies of Los Angeles, who also delivered a brief talk.

The afternoon program given through the courtesy of the Pacific States Electric Company, presented the talented Knox family, Harry Knox, flutist; his 15-year-old son John, violinist, and Mrs. Knox, pianist; Ben McLaughlin, tenor; Mackie's Queen's Hawaiians, and Hatch Graham. These were all KHJ favorites and a very pleasant hour was spent by our family listening-in. It is rather an exception to have a child follow in the footsteps of a talented father. Yet this is what the Knox family presents. Master John Knox, who is a pupil of Jules Lepske, played as solos yesterday, Kreisler's "Tambourin Chinois" and "Adoration," by Borowski, in a fashion that was astonishing for so young a student. His tone is full and he already possesses a good technique and knowledge of what constitutes good musicianship. We hope to be very proud of him some day!

The "Children's Hour" presented a group of gifted children, Dick Winslow, screen juvenile; Edna Latch, 11-year-old pianist; Mickie McBan, screen juvenile. Marshall Stedman, poet and dramatic instructor, also appeared with three of his talented pupils, Nona Clapp, Glenda Timbrook and Betty Jane Bierce. Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog delivered his daily tales of American history.

The noon program presented the Friar's Inn Orchestra, under the direction of Kenneth Morse. Fred C. McNabb of the Aggeler & Musser Seed Company, delivered another instructive set of rules to guide his large family of gardeners, who may be interested to know that in this Sunday's issue of The Times, they will find a human interest story regarding Fred C. McNabb's splendid influence upon education by radio.

Speaking of notices the KHJ studio wishes to announce that a de luxe program will be presented on the 23rd inst., by one of the most fascinating patrons we have yet acquired—the famous Hasen T. Titus Fruit Cake Company of California. Hasen J. Titus is a unique figure in the commercial world. Instead of working with pen, brush or chisel he has chosen as his medium the choicest of nature's fruits, and guided by a high ideal of service, he has produced a creation, which he sincerely deems worthy to be passed down through the corridors of time. Mr. Titus has taken up radio programs with the same zeal and vision that guides him in his chosen work. The arrangements for the 23rd inst., are in the hands of J. Howard Johnson and our family is promised an unforgettable evening. Many choice prizes will be given over the air, so be sure to stay at home.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

12:30 to 1:30 p.m.—The noon program will present Selwyn L. Harris, tenor; Les Roscoe, pianist, and Louis F. Klein, harmonica and autoharp.

2:30 to 3:30 p.m.—Program through the courtesy of the Pacific States Electric Company, will present the Arion Trio, Maude Dickens Womersley, reader, who will give a children's program made up of poems by James Whitcomb Riley, and Leontine Redon, mezzo-soprano.

6 to 6:30 p.m.—Art Hickman's Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Edward Fitzpatrick, playing in the main dining-room of the Biltmore Hotel.

6:30 to 7:30 p.m.—The children's hour, presenting Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog in his story of American history; Dickie Brandon and Sunny Jane Hughes, screen juveniles; Phyllis Louise Jones, 6-year-old reader, and Francis V. Earnest, Jr., 7-year-old reader, pupils of Carter Weaver; Annie Fisher, 10-year-old violinist, and Mary Gertrude Gallagher, 4-year-old reader.

7:30 p.m.—Harold Swarts of the Otis Art Institute, will give his weekly talk on art.

7:45 p.m.—Dr. Philip M. Lovell will speak on "The Care of the Body."

8 to 9:30 p.m.—Program sponsored by the Merchant Tailors' Association, arranged by Kathryne Thompson, presenting the Burkman Brothers' Hawaiian Quartet, Selwyn L. Harris, tenor; Edward Murphey and Ruth Brainin, Bessie Womer Snell, accompanist.

9:30 to 10 p.m.—The Piggly Wiggly Girls will play, through the courtesy of the Piggly Wiggly stores.

10 to 11 p.m.—Art Hickman's dance orchestra, under the leadership of Earl Burnett, playing in the Supper Room of the Biltmore Hotel.

The Spaniards whipped the Riffs in a battle in Morocco the other day and the dispatches say the attack was a surprise. So was the result. The true story of Morocco is only just emerging from a mass of garbled reports.

THE REAL WORKS
Still, in spite of all the lower casing of the authors and the big typing of the directors, we haven't yet heard that at a motion-picture premiere the house burst into wild applause at the end of the big third reel, with insistent shouts of "Director! Director!"

THE HORSE SHOW
We are an appreciative people. Out at the Ambassador we are giving the horse a show, which will please a multitude of admirers. To give Dobbin an inning—with the seal of fashion upon it—is a gracious concession. Horses are being ruled off Broadway, but they can never be ruled out of the hearts of their human friends.

SLIGHT OPPOSITION
The opposition to the confirmation of Atty.-Gen. Stone to be a Supreme Court Justice proved, when measured in actual votes, to be so slight that the wonder is why so much fuss was made about his case. Mr. Stone was approved by a vote of 71 to 6. The debate over Mr. Stone was not particularly illuminating. In this world there are always those troubling trouble before trouble troubles them.

SNOW COSTS MONEY
Outside the cities of the East the United States Department of Agriculture announces that, in the States east of the Mississippi, 16,000 miles of paved roads had to be cleared of snow this winter, aggregating a depth of from 30 to 132 inches. Fortunate is Southern California in escaping this expense and discomfort. This immunity is one of the prime reasons why so much ground is annually being covered with additional factories, giving employment to hundreds of men.

HIT AND RUN
The community of Los Angeles is too tolerant in its attitude toward the hit-and-run motorist. Of all the reckless practices that came with the advent of the motor car that of injuring people, without a pause by the driver to find out how badly they were hurt, is the most heartless and inexcusable. Yet one hardly ever picks up a newspaper without discovering that this inhuman manner of driving is coming to be a thing of daily occurrence. Where is the thoughtful and brotherly regard which every member of a community should have for his neighbor?

SO MUCH THE BETTER
Congress now suggests an investigation of Secretary Hoover. He is charged with seeking to dominate the Department of Agriculture as well as his own especial division of the public service. If it were true it would not be within the province of the Congressmen to interfere, but there are some who would make it their business, whether or no. Secretary Hoover is an all-'round expert in handling government problems and in the Cabinet family his advice is sought in many fields. If he should dominate the whole government there would be nothing to worry about.

HELPING THE FARMER
Senator Curtis, who is the administration leader in the upper branch of Congress, says that the Senate will give right of way to any measure in the interest of the farmer that the Committee on Agriculture can recommend or agree upon. With wheat and other grains at present prices the farmers, however, realize that natural laws, rather than man-made enactments, determine their prosperity. But if there is anything that Washington can do for the farmers the administration will be on the spot. President Coolidge has a thorough understanding of the problems of the soil.

OUR EFFICIENT NAVY
After all the talk about the inefficiency of the United States Navy and of how, through the "raw deal" imposed upon us at the armament conference, our ships were not adequately equipped for battling with those of other nations, here comes the Scientific American in a long article which would tend to prove that the case is quite otherwise. It is good to know that this old-time, strictly conservative and able authority on such matters is able to give such a satisfactory report of our Navy. It is also reassuring to the friends of the present administration, some of whom have been just a little dubious about the position President Coolidge has taken in refusing to elevate the guns, on the ground that such a proceeding is not sanctioned by the international agreement and also in disapproving the enormous appropriations that have been proposed for new ships and armament.

The Scientific American asserts with much force that we did not get a "raw real" at the conference, but received nearly all we asked for in proportionate naval power, quite sufficient to protect our coasts and to make a splendid showing on the high seas. All true Americans will note with relief that the bugaboo of our "weak Navy" is disposed of by this eminent authority which, after giving a most reassuring array of facts and figures, concludes the argument by declaring that our Navy would not only be able to hold its own in any great conflict that might arise, but that it is superior to that of any other power.

President Coolidge's position with respect to the Navy and its adequacy, though bitterly attacked by political opponents who seek to discredit his judgment and who hold that he is overworking the economy policy, is supported by many other authorities, all of whom assert that none of the arguments brought to bear against his calm view as to our naval needs are valid. These upholders of the President say very frankly that the Democratic Congressmen and others who are seeking to discredit him in this respect are putting forth a lot of propaganda purporting to show that the Navy is little more than worthless junk and that the capital ships are about ready to fall to pieces for lack of the big sums of money necessary for their repair. The naval authorities know, of course, that these stories are untrue, but those of them who are interested in big appropriations let the statements pass unchallenged.

J. Edward Cassidy of New York, an expert who is entitled to be heard in the matter, is strongly against the appropriation of more money than is sufficient to maintain the Navy on its present basis. He has compiled figures which show the enormous amount that has been expended by the Navy Department since the war. His figures are as follows:

1920	629,893,116
1921	644,278,809
1922	456,339,787
1923	322,532,908
1924	294,967,200
Total	$4,357,283,209

Mr. Cassidy says that, in addition to these vast sums, there was more than $200,000,000 "salted away" from war appropriations. And he adds: "If the Navy is nothing more than a bunch of junk after the expenditure of such sums it would appear that no amount of money expended under the same conditions would get us anywhere." He admits that some of our battleships are deficient in speed, an important matter when it comes to war maneuvers, but sees no cause for worry because of this. It would seem from the showing made by the Scientific American that what our ships lack in speed is made up in other vital factors.

In insisting upon his policy of rigid economy President Coolidge is not endangering the nation, as some Congressional looters of the Treasury would have us believe. If possible, he is going to save the taxpayers from their raids.

PET THEORIES PUNCTURED
If statistics prove anything, Mr. J. D. Coleman, a British analyst of uncompromising facts, would seem to be justified in becoming excited over some discoveries he has made in a close study of our American "Who's Who." The average person thumbing the thin leaves of this bulky red volume rarely finds anything to become agitated over, but Mr. Coleman gets a real kick out of having unearthed the fact that our men and women of brains—the ones who have done the big things in this country—to a very great extent have been afforded means for higher education and that very few of them were born on the farm. This, he seems to believe, disposes of our proud boast as to the self-education of our notables as well as of their rustic nativity.

Mr. Coleman's interesting review of his findings in our "Who's Who," published in the London Outlook, shows that, in round numbers, 77 out of every 100 persons who gave educational data attended college and that 64 out of every 100 were college graduates.

This is going to be a hard blow to our biographers. What are they going to do with their old stereotypes, "although he never attended college" and "acquired his early education by home study," and that sort of thing? The biographer's only consolation will be that it was not always thus and that in the good old times our American boast that with the genius college didn't count was proved in innumerable cases.

But the poor old farm! What a terrible knock it gets from this analytic Britisher, who wholly disregards our pet tradition—he calls it "superstition"—that the farm is the best place to be born on if the child is to gain future eminence, and proceeds to show that it isn't anything of the kind. He hands the great bulk of the honors to the city! More biographical stereotypes for the melting pot. More reason for young couples to run away from the country that their children may be born in the brainier Bostons and Baltimores. It is humiliating to our American pride of rustic ancestry, based upon the fact that twenty-eight out of our thirty Presidents were born on farms or in small towns and that only two of them, Roosevelt and Taft, were born in cities, while the fathers of fourteen of them were farmers; but it will have to be borne.

According to Mr. Coleman's figures, the cities contributed six times as many notables to the pages of "Who's Who" as did the farms, while villages contributed nearly nine times as many and suburbs nearly eleven times as many.

Times certainly have changed. The trend to the city during the past thirty or forty years has brought about many surprising results and this reported by the British analyst, which would seem to have a real and scientific and sociological value, is one of them.

To get born right is admittedly an important factor in human life. Herbert Spencer and all the other eminent sociologists agree on that. But, if to be born right is to be born in the city, there are a lot of quietists and ardent country lovers who will say that it would be better not to be born at all. They will say that nearly all our literary great ones, from Chaucer to Shakespeare, from Goldsmith to Browning and Tennyson, from Jane Austen to George Eliot and Thomas Hardy, have been less urban than rustic. They will say that Cromwell, Washington and Lincoln, as well as hundreds of other immortals, were country born and bred.

THE SPIRIT WORLD
Efforts have been made to interest Inventor Edison in devising apparatus by which to communicate with the spirit world. If he could rig up a telephone system to connect by long distance with the New Jerusalem he would cover himself with glory, but it seems unlikely that this will happen. There are devices so delicate that the weight of a pencil dot on a piece of paper can be determined, but there is no known method of trapping the whispers of a human soul.

Prof. Sydney Alruis of Upsala University, in Sweden, has created a delicate instrument called the volometer, which may be used for testing the strength and other properties of the human will. We also have our own lie detector. Dr. Paul Joire of Paris offers another interesting device, the stethometer, which is represented as being a measure of psychic power. Another contrivance, the lastrometer, is supposed to register mental force or "soul energy." There is the ululometer, which was created with the idea of revealing the presence of any energy, living or disembodied.

In addition to all these marvelous mechanisms two Holland savants, Profs. Matla and Van Zeist, have developed a delicate apparatus called the dynamistagraph. They are said by the means of this invention to have induced a departed personality to so record its existence as to demonstrate its subjection to the laws of gravitation. This would come very nearly to registering the human soul.

Prof. Edison now has one of these devices in his laboratory and promises to make some experiments with it. The American people have confidence in this electrical wizard; and they will place more credence in what he reports than in the alleged discoveries of most those who seek contact with the spiritual world.

PENITENTIARY SENTIMENTS

Thus there is an article by No. 38170 entitled "Misunderstood Children Convicts." This man is the "art and feature editor" of the periodical and is quite exceptionally well informed.

He maintains that "disease is the chief agency of sin, along with its ever-attractive 'bride'—hypocrisy." He also has considerable doubt of the advantages of education, which, he says, often merely engenders a "technical craftiness."

There are wit and humor in this publication, too, but the type of article most popular is that pointing a sweet and sentimental moral. Thus we have articles in successive editions by "Bluebeard" Watson, No 33755, on "The Garden Beautiful Within a City of Aching Hearts," in which the author points out the charm and solace of the prison's garden flowers, their symbols of purity and love, and exposes much erudite knowledge of flowers and their culture.

Some criticisms of the motion pictures shown at the prison are sometimes cleverly caustic, but mostly pitifully gratefully flattering.

Many prisoners, both male and female, break out into poetry—so often the solace of unhappy hearts. And "Mother" is the inspiration of more than half of them.

Satire is chiefly expended on the rich and fashionable type of sinner—with caustic allusions to multiple divorcees and millionaire offenders.

The prisoners have produced an illuminating publication from "Ships that ill the winds have blown," to quote a prison poet.

THE SOFT VOICES
The women of America are being urged by George W. Wickersham, who was Attorney-General in the Taft Cabinet, to form a crusade of their own on behalf of the World Court. He says that if the women would read the riot act to Congress action might be speeded and full American participation in a supreme tribunal assured. Of the temper of the women of America there can be no doubt. The vast majority of them not only favor the World Court, but would welcome a closer alignment of our government with the humane business of the League of Nations. It still remains to be seen whether the women can get what they want. They frequently do.

When Prosperity Comes to the Wheat Farmer

Just About It
by James J. Montague

EMOTION

If Percy, the photo-play hero,
When his wife and his children have left,
And a rascally judge, just to pay off a grudge,
Has sent him to prison for theft,
Would murmur: "Well, what does it matter?
I have lost two nice kids and a wife,
And am going to jail; but I'm hearty and hale
And I'll not make a wreck of my life!"
We would smile through our tears at his courage
And pity his terrible plight,
"He's there with the grit," we should freely admit,
"And we hope that he comes out all right!"

But instead he sinks down on the sofa,
Runs his hands through his long, wavy hair,
And you read in his face that this trifling disgrace
Has bowed him with utter despair.
When the jailer steps up with the handcuffs,
He shudders in helpless dismay,
For the limb of the law there's no punch on the jaw,
But a sub-titled "take me away."
And when, in the hoose-gow we see him,
He clutches himself by the throat,
And beats on his chest and tears strips from his vest,
For these heroes just have to emote.

So, when he returns to his freedom,
And his wife and his children come back;
When he's won his long fight and the future shines bright,
That once loomed so gloomily black,
We cry as we watch him: "The quitter!
What right did he have to prevail?
What good will he be, now he's happy and free?
They ought to have kept him in jail!"
But this is the way of all heroes,
They never are given their dues,
They waken our sneers with their piteous tears,
And then win, when we hope they will lose.

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON
"Rolly-Poly"

For the first time last summer, in a country hotel, I ate the delicious old confection called raspberry rolly-poly and learned the origin of this term applied by amiable tormentors to people who may be described as plump or fat.

The original rolly-poly is a cake or pudding which is spread with fruit, rolled into the well-known form of a "jelly roll" and so baked or steamed, if it is of pudding consistency.

Literally, the word means a little fine flour (poly being a derivative of the Latin "pollen," from which we have our "pollen" or "dust" of flowers) which is rolled into a little cake!

It should be said that we intend nothing unedifying to the fat boy—but the truth must be told!

LETTERS TO The Times

The Rock of Ages

WHITTIER, Feb. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am one of many who read the article on "Education" by Alma Whitaker and only agree with her, but will be glad to see their own thoughts expressed. Now the question is: Who has a remedy? As one of the mothers, I should like to offer a suggestion.

Instead of a comparatively few minutes spent in studying the Bible on Sunday, why not have it one of the fundamental studies of our schools, thus doing away with so much ignorance concerning, one might say, the basic laws of life.

There are too many truths in this book to be kept for Sunday teaching alone; facts which we need in every-day life and which young folks need in the preparation for life.

Before we shift the responsibilities of the nation to the shoulders of the young, let's do all in our power to develop good characters as well as physically fit citizens. Young people shrink from religion through false conceptions—not knowing that it is the safest road to peace and happiness. I almost shudder when I think what a converted heathen in our midst would think if he heard the profanity used by men, women and even little children in this highly civilized country.

Personally, I hope to see the day when the one who takes the name of the Creator in vain will be punished as quickly and effectively as the one who dares insult the flag.

Kicks on Phone Rates

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have been a resident of Los Angeles for nearly four years and I have watched and read about matters of local interest championed and in some instances opposed by you and appreciate the great influence a clean, well-edited daily paper has on a community.

So I would ask you to take up the burdens and problems of the people who pay taxes here and endeavor to build up a good, clean city.

I have in mind the unreasonable increase in telephone rates—taking, as I have been told, over $1,000,000 extra out of the pockets of our people each year. I have yet to hear one single argument in favor of an attempt to justify this increase. It appears to me that here is an opportunity for the papers of this city to take up the cause of the people in a way that will result in a restoration of more just and reasonable rates.

In my own case I signed an application for a two-party line at $2.50 per month. I waited a long time for a phone, but finally had one installed on a four-party line—which was billed at $3 per month. On inquiry as to the increase I was told the telephone company had obtained "permission" from some State commission to raise the rates and now I find my bill at $3.50 per month—again an increase authorized by a State commission: an increase in rate of 40 per cent within the past eighteen months.

Don't you think this question sufficiently vital to the people of this city and community for your paper to take up and thoroughly investigate, in defense of the rights of the fellow "who always pays"—the ultimate consumer?

A Disavowal

MONTCLAIR (N. J.) Jan. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Los Angeles Times recently published excerpts from a letter written by Arthur Luria of this town, which appeared early last year in the Montclair Times. Mr. Luria had referred disparagingly to certain features of Southern California, which came under his observation on a visit in 1924. The Montclair Times published Mr. Luria's letter without assuming responsibility for his views or opinions. The sections of his communication which were printed in the Los Angeles Times made it appear that his utterances were those of the Montclair Times, which undoubtedly created a wrong impression among your readers. The editor of the Montclair Times is not competent to give an opinion on the glories of Southern California, not having visited your State. However, if any section of it can compare to Montclair in attractiveness, then the Monclair Times is willing to concede all that is claimed for it by its admirers.

WILSON IN DRAMATIC SCENE

Leaves Stand and Grasps Hand of Man Said to be Defendant in Mail Robbery Case

When Herbert Wilson, life-term prisoner and government witness against three men in the March 3, 1921, mail robbery trial, descended from the stand yesterday afternoon in Federal Judge James's court, he immediately walked to a large, gray-haired man in the rear of the courtroom, shook his hand, and spoke to him while the fifteen guards in the courtroom silenced the whispers of the excited spectators.

David V. Cahill and Maurice Norcop, special assistants to the Attorney-General, stated that the man was Max Newman of New York, a defendant in the present case. Newman resisted removal, was released on bond, and came to Los Angeles too late to be tried with Jack Elerick, Frank Wilson and Joe Bertsche. Wilson has already testified that Max Newman handled some of the bonds stolen in the robberies.

The closing moments of cross-examination by Otto Christensen, attorney for Bertsche, were featured by an attack upon the credibility of the witness. Christensen sought to have Wilson admit that he had told Walter Lips, former deputy sheriff, sentenced for bribery in the Joe Puray case, that he expected clemency from the State and immunity from the government for his testimony. Wilson denied these implications. Lips was released from San Quentin about six months ago.

Mr. Christensen also asked Wilson if he had had correspondence with a newspaper man concerning securing the story of "Bluebeard" Watson, wife-killer, in San Quentin, for which Wilson was to receive political aid instead of money. This Wilson also denied. The name of John Aviado, Filipino journalism student, who was a member of the San Quentin laundry detail, was brought into the case by Mr. Christensen, who asked the witness about the manuscript of "The Pastor of the Elite," written by Wilson while in prison.

Joe Bertsche is a brother of Barney Bertsche, a powerful politician of Chicago. It was learned yesterday. An interesting feature of the matter is that fact that for twelve years the two brothers did not speak, but were reunited in the office of Otto Christensen, attorney for Joe, shortly after his arrest.

"Barney is getting along in years," said Mr. Christensen, "and the arrest of Joe brought home forcibly the fact the brother was in imminent danger. They met in my office and shook hands and then ironed out all their differences."

Barney, the elder brother, is not in Los Angeles now, it is understood, but was here for three months, acting in the interest of the indicted man.

law will attract thousands of wealthy people to the State.

"The bill proposing the repeal of the criminal syndicalism law, which is again before the Legislature, will not be passed if red-blooded, loyal American citizens in the Legislature have anything to say about it," said Mr. Weller.

"The law, as it stands, not only does not harm, but is a protection to all law-abiding citizens. The police departments of the various cities of our beautiful State are well aware of the threats of the I.W.W. to make a raid on California if this protective law is repealed.

RECALLS CHRISTIAN

"I shall never forget the address given by Assemblyman Christian two years ago when a proposal was introduced to repeal the criminal syndicalism law," continued the speaker. "He said, 'When I was fighting at the front, for the ideals of Americanism, there was a band of traitors at home burning our wheat fields and forests, stabbing in the back the men who had gone to France to protect the institutions of freedom. We owe it to our comrades, whose bodies lie cold and still in graves in foreign soil, to be as courageous in time of peace as we tried to be in war."

Hon. Frank Merriam of Long Beach, Speaker of the State Assembly, spoke briefly on "What is Going on at Sacramento," saying among other things that, so far as he can see, there is no hope for reapportionment of Senators and Assemblymen, according to population of the various districts, which the State constitution provides shall follow every national census.

"Members of the Legislature from San Francisco admit that we have the constitution with us, but they say they have the votes and they make no apologies for their refusal to abide by the constitution," said Mr. Merriam.

BLEDSOE TO RUN FOR MAYORALTY

I am elected I shall ask the biggest men and women in Los Angeles to help me serve the community. I am undertaking this candidacy only because I am convinced that this service will be freely and cheerfully given, even at some personal sacrifice."

Judge Bledsoe disclaimed any political aspirations or ambitions in connection with his decision to enter the Mayoralty contest.

NO POLITICAL MOTIVES

"I am going into this with the determination," he said, "of spending four strenuous years as Mayor of Los Angeles—giving the best that is in me to the community and its citizens. I entertain no thought of political preferment and my engaging in this candidacy is without expectation or hope of profiting in a political way."

Ratification by the Nonpartisan Association of its nominating committee's recommendations will be followed by a detailed statement from Judge Bledsoe, it is said, of his platform, which, he indicated yesterday, will emphasize conservation of the city's water resources and supply, harbor development, and a solution of the city's traffic and transportation problems.

The judge, who has been on the Federal bench here for more than ten years and who was thrice elected Superior judge of San Bernardino county, has been an outstanding figure in the community of Los Angeles and in Southern California for more than two decades. He was first elected to the bench in 1906 and, at 36, was one of the youngest Superior Court judges in California.

His marked ability as a public speaker and his fearlessness in championing principles in which he believed brought him early into prominence and, within recent years, he has been identified as a leader in virtually every important movement for civic betterment here. Judge Bledsoe is a former student of Stanford University and is Past Grand Commander of Knights Templar of California.

ALLAN WITHDRAWS

The statement of Councilman Allan yesterday that he was prepared to throw his entire strength behind Judge Bledsoe in the event the latter made the race for Mayor came as somewhat of a surprise at the City Hall, where the petition to the jurist to enter the race and his acceptance formed the chief topic of interest.

In his statement, Councilman Allan declared that Judge Bledsoe is the ideal type for the post of Mayor and represents all that is best in the community. These reasons, he said, would prompt him to abandon all idea of making the race on a law-enforcement platform and to throw his support to Judge Bledsoe in the event the latter became a candidate.

Councilman Allan had been frequently mentioned as a prospective candidate for Mayor on a platform of stringent law enforcement, but his announcement yesterday in support of Judge Bledsoe served to spike the rumors of his candidacy. He stated, however, that he would be a candidate for the City Council to succeed himself from District No. 3, which is the Hollywood district. In the last election, Mr. Allan polled the highest vote of any of the Councilmen.

Councilman Miles S. Gregory, who announced his candidacy for Mayor recently, stated that he was in the race to the end and that Judge Bledsoe's acceptance of the petition that he enter the mayoralty race would make absolutely no difference to him.

Mayor Cryer had little to say. Judge Bledsoe is a high type of man, he stated, and if the voters saw fit to place him in the Mayor's chair it would be all right with him.

BLUE SERGE SAVED

Doctor Says He Has Fluid to Remove Shine

An astounding announcement was made here yesterday by Dr. Jason Rittgen, a native of Cologne on the Rhine, Germany, who is now located in this city. Dr. Rittgen announces he has invented a process that will take the shine off trousers and soon will start a factory here to commercialize the idea. Rittgen's antishine is a chemical that merely needs to be applied where it will do the most good.

his secretary and interpreter (for the doctor does not speak English,) Harry K. Fink of this city. The inventor is no academician but a practical man whose word must be taken; in fact, he has been a tailor for the greater part of his life and as such knows the menace of shine to blue serge and other fabrics.

"It has taken Dr. Rittgen fourteen years to complete his process," says Mr. Fink." Imagine right in our midst is a man who did not invent airships, gunpowder or TNT, which have little interest for our vast majority of people, but Dr. Rittgen's method perhaps will be close to the hearts of over 100,000,000 Americans! The world and especially our 2,000,000 cleaners, dyers and tailors will, for the first time in history, be able to successfully master the archenemy shine. The bane of their existence, as Dr. Hubbard of Washington puts it, will be removed and a new era in clothing begun if Dr. Rittgen puts his process before the world!"

After this statement (Dr. Rittgen continually nodded his head as if he understood every word of it,) the distinguished German inventor left and as he turned to go, it was observed that the seat of his trousers (for he wore a short coat, now in mode,) shone like the reflector of an electric heater. But Dr. Rittgen, like most men of scientific research, is so careless about his personal appearance that during his researches it never occurred to him to try his shine remover on his own wardrobe.

She declared she has done small bits in two motion pictures, "Daddy Goes a-Hunting" and "The Merry Widow," but these were mostly for try-outs to see how she would screen. Her ambition is to continue in the films, she said.

"I know my people will be glad the secret is out. They have been after me to announce the marriage all along," Mrs. Tellegen declared.

Roger Marchetti, attorney, declared yesterday that the Tellegens have maintained separate residences all along. "I would like to press the point that Mrs. Tellegen did not meet her husband until many months after the filing of the divorce action between him and Geraldine Farrar," he said.

The couple were married on the day after the divorce decree of Geraldine Farrar became final.

In Chicago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dilworth, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Tellegen, said they had known about the marriage all along.

"It's easy to see how it happened, too," Mrs. Dilworth said. "My niece is tall, reaching Mr. Tellegen's shoulder, which, as you know, is of considerable height. They look so well together. Miss Farrar was—or—rather short."

TWO TO DEBATE ON EVOLUTION

Dr. Riley, Prof. Linsley to Clash Here Monday

Former Hits Instruction on Subject in Schools

Audience Will be Asked to Vote on Question

"Evolution as taught in the public schools of California is unscientific, unscriptural and anti-Christian," declares Rev. W. B. Riley, nationally known pioneer fundamentalist, and he has issued a challenge to schoolmen of the State to produce a learned man to meet him in public debate on the subject.

Earl G. Linsley, a professor in the Berkeley Divinity School, professor in the Chabot Observatory of the Berkeley public schools, and sometime professor in Mills College, has accepted the challenge and the two will meet in scholastic battle of fundamentalism and modernism in the 5000-person auditorium of the Bible Institute Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

"The Constitution of the United States prohibits religion from being taught in our public schools," Dr. Riley said, "and so it is not permitted that Christianity be taught there. Yet schoolmen have made a religion of evolution and they are teaching in the public and tax-supported schools of the country a Godless religion, an atheistic religion of the origin of the universe and of man in violation of the Constitution."

FOUNDER OF BODY

Dr. Riley was one of twenty men of national prominence who called the meeting in Philadelphia six years ago at which 6000 persons, some of them from foreign lands, organized the World's Christian Fundamental Association to carry on an international campaign on behalf of the strictly orthodox religion of an inspired Bible, a Jesus Christ, who was the son of a living God and other orthodox tenets and against the encroaching tide of evolution.

He now is executive secretary of the association and is editor of its publication, "Fundamentals in School and Church." He is and has been for twenty-eight years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Minneapolis, which he described as a "seven-days-a-week church, which recently added $1,000,000 worth of new buildings to its plant." He is president of the Bible College there, an institution similar to the Bible Institute here.

CENSURES REPORT

Last September Dr. Riley came here to rest, but he was so stirred by the report of educators whom the State Board of Education appointed to investigate the teaching of evolution in public schools, that he took the platforms against their report, which found, he said, "that teachings in the public schools are not out of harmony with Christianity."

The Berkeley Divinity School in which Mr. Linsley is a professor, is a Baptist theological seminary. Prof. Linsley is president of the California Geographical Club, a fellow of the Royal Geological Society of England, a graduate of the University of California, has done work at Harvard University, has been a professor of geology, was a major during the war in a school in France, and otherwise has distinguished himself in learning.

Prof. Linsley will arrive here Monday for the debate. He will select the chairman of the event. The entire audience will be requested to vote on the question at the conclusion of the debate.

'King of League' to be Observed in Mental Ward

The stenographer had been imprisoned at Beverly Hills since attempting to move into the Swanson home last Sunday. He had offered "official positions" in the modified "League of Nations" to most of the officials of Beverly Hills.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Of more than usual interest to local society in the Southland is the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van der Leck of San Juan Capistrano of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Chonita Van der Leck, to Dr. Hugh O'Neill of St. Andrews, New Brunswick, Can., the ceremony taking place in the Old Mission of San Juan Capistrano, Monday morning at a nuptial mass, Father S. John O'Sullivan officiating. Only members of the immediate family were at the ceremony. Dr. O'Neill is a cousin of Jerome O'Neill of the Santa Margarita Ranch near Oceanside. Following a wedding breakfast Dr. and Mrs. O'Neill are motoring for several days through Southern California before leaving for New York on their way to their home in St. Andrews. This wedding unites two of the oldest and most prominent families of Southern California, the bride's mother, formerly Miss Georgia Mott, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Dillingham Mott (Ascension Sepulveda,) is a sister of John G. Mott of Los Angeles and Ignacio L. Mott of San Francisco. The charming estate of the Van der Lecks in San Juan Capistrano is one of the most interesting, with its long low adobe house, with great gardens and patio at the rear, and almost every week-end of the season finds a merry company of visitors there who are entertained with true old Spanish hospitality. The sister of the bride, Mrs. William Searle Lantz, formerly Miss Viola Van der Leck, whose marriage to Mr. Lantz was one of the events of the late fall of 1923, is still on her honeymoon, and with Mr. Lantz is traveling now in India, after a year in Australia and the Orient.

Afternoon Wedding

One of the charmingly arranged affairs of yesterday was the marriage of Miss Roberta Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ray of 204 South Plymouth Boulevard, to William Ellis Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mills Mills of Pottstown, Pa., the ceremony taking place at 2:30 o'clock in the picturesque little Church of the Angels, Garvanza Way, Rev. Hervey Parke officiating. Mr. Ray gave his daughter into the keeping of the bridegroom at the chancel rail. The bride wore a gown of white satin, made en trains with veil of rose pointe lace, and she carried an arm shower of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Bernice Ray and Miss Mathilda Jane Ray were the bridesmaids, wearing frocks of pastel shades of chiffon with great picture hats, and they carried bouquets of pink rosebuds, delphinium and sprays of maidenhair ferns. The little flower girl, Alice Mills Marrick of Pottstown, wore a dainty frock of mauve chiffon, with wreath of mauve and pink sweet peas on silver ribbon, and she carried a basket of pink sweet peas. Charles Mills of Reading, Pa., brother of the bridegroom, served him as best man, and the ushers were Ray Foote and John Ray. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the decorations were charmingly carried out in spring blossoms and ferns. Mrs. Ray received her guests in a gown of black silk marquisette and heavily embroidered lace. The bride was graduated from St. Catherine's School of Davenport, Iowa, and of Bryn Mawr College. She passed a year in Europe following her graduation. After a wedding trip through California, Mr. and Mrs. Mills will make their home in Pottstown.

NEW FRENCH SHOE STORE HAS OPENING

Slipper Shoppe Aims at Individualizing Fittings of Its Patrons

BY OLIVE GRAY

The opening yesterday of the French Slipper Shoppe at 647 South Flower street is a distinct addition to the coterie of women's specialty shops in this district. The atmosphere of this shop is decidedly French, as the name implies, the interior fitted more like an elegant home than like a commercial habitation. In this intimate little place personal attention is the watchword, Mr. Charles D. Cline, the proprietor, having given much study to foot needs as well as to foot fashions.

Specializing in stage lasts, designed to lend to the foot the best possible appearance, it is the intention also to confer upon the wearer's foot happiness as well. Mr. Cline's ideals for the business are those of so studying the feet of patrons that they will give thanks at every step for comfort in walking as well as for beauty of line and excellence in style. "It is not our wish," said Mr. Cline, "to fit a short-vamped shoe to a long-vamped foot, nor the reverse, for in so doing no satisfaction accrues to the wearer. Individualism should be brought out in footwear quite as much as in gowns or in millinery, we believe," said he.

The exterior as well as the interior of this attractive shop presents the latest ideas in architectural design and decorative effect. The soft taupe tones of the carpets, offset by rich oriental rugs are complemented by draperies of sapphire-blue velours, while the golden tan of walls and ceiling, enlivened with gold, are further enhanced by frieses in sapphire and burgundy. Easy chairs, lounges and foot rests are in French tapestry of pleasing tints, the cases and fixtures in mahogany. Lighting fixtures and grilles are after the style of the Italian Renaissance. The windows are most attractive, displaying upon tasteful stands the latest examples of slippers for all occasions, sports shoes and fine hosiery as well as imported buckles, rosettes and shoe brooches.

Yesterday during the opening hosts of friends offered congratulations, which were received amid a bower of blossoms, scores of such tributes having been sent in as tokens of respect and well-wishing. The French Slipper Shoppe will furnish the footwear for a lavish fashion show at Hotel Vista Del Arroyo Thursday evening.

Wilshire Road Plan Abandoned by City Council

The City Council yesterday formally abandoned the proposal to widen Wilshire Boulevard from Rimpau Boulevard to the city limits to 200 feet. The action followed the action of the Community Development Association in withdrawing support from the project because of the opposition of property owners.

The Community Development Association will pay the expenses of the proceedings to date. It notified the Council that it will try to pick out another street for a major boulevard from the city to the sea, to which there will not be so much opposition.

Sewer Boosters of District Five in Final Drive

District Number Five of the metropolitan sewer project plans to follow in the footsteps of Districts One and Two by voting the bonds next Tuesday for its share of the project's financing.

A "get-to-the-polls" campaign has been instituted throughout the district and corps of workers will be on hand Tuesday to urge the largest vote ever recorded for a bond issue in the district.

Frank D. Parent, president of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the executive campaign committee, is directing District Five's campaign. He has arranged special accommodations and transportation for the commuter voters.

"We know that the district is overwhelmingly in favor of the bonds," said Parent, "but we are not taking any chances with a light vote. This is without doubt one of the most important elections in the history of the district and we want everyone to realize it and vote."

STEAD CAR FOR HOLD-UPS

Police were searching last night for two youths armed with a nickel-plated revolver, who early yesterday held up a garage at 955 West Seventh street to get a car to use in another hold-up. J. Stanton of 955 West Seventh street was the first man held up. When they rolled out one of the cars in his charge, he said, they told him they would return it in two hours. The same pair later drove into a garage at 349 South Flower street and robbed the night manager of $15, then drove on.

The Woman and Her Job

[Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.]

HOW MRS. BUSYBODY HELPS BUSINESS

"Deliver me from the petty tyranny of a small soul invested with a little authority! This exclamation was the first attempt at conversation from the gray-haired woman who occasionally sits at the table in the cafeteria where I frequently dine.

We both had watched the officious "lady manager" doing her stupid best to offend a customer.

A woman had been dining at a near-by table. Her face was familiar; she is there nearly every night. As she finished and snugged her coat about her throat, she was signaled by one of two men whom she seemed to know. They were dining together at a small table that bordered on the main aisle.

As she approached the table, one of the men stood up, then brought a chair, and urged her to be seated. The woman seemed to protest . . . smile and gesture were negative. Then she sat down.

The hour was late . . . approaching seven, and the dining room almost empty. The chair in which the woman sat, while it encroached on the aisle, did not block it . . . there was ample room for others to pass by.

"I shall have to ask you to go and sit at another table . . . you are blocking the aisle," she ordered.

The woman flushed and rose to her feet.

"I am leaving," she answered, turning away.

"Oh, you can sit at another table over there," insisted Mrs. Busybody, too dull-witted to see that the guest had not been dining, and that the place at which she sat was barren of silver, crockery or food.

And then it was that the woman at my table uttered her prayer for deliverance from the dullard who loves to make a show of authority.

The world is full of Mrs. Busybody's family. They do more to injure business than thousands of dollars worth of advertising can build. They are found too often in front offices dealing with the public. Their zeal is mistaken for interest in the welfare of the organization. The employer more often than not fails to realize that the exercise of the petty authority with which they have been empowered is far more precious than winning a customer's good will.

There is an old axiom of the commercial world that should be emblazoned on the walls of every organization.

"Business goes where it is well treated."

However, I am very grateful to this particular Mrs. Busybody . . . you see, she furnished material for a story!

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mrs. D.C.—Since you were enabled to enter one of the beauty parlor training classes, and have no money to pay for private instruction, why not go to the different shops and apply for an apprenticeship? A thorough canvass should result in the kind of training you are looking for.

Dear Dolly.—Candy factories use much unskilled labor, frequently on a piece-work basis . . . that is the girl is paid exactly what she can earn. Chocolate dippers develop skill and the experts receive fair wages. It is not work that is liked as they usually work in a cool room, and some of the girls have told me it is very unhealthy.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

A REST FROM REDUCING

"Dear Dr. Peters: I am sending 10 cents in stamps and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Will you please send me another booklet on 'How to Reduce?' I have worn mine out from handling and would as soon be without a shoe as without your wonderful booklet.

"I weighed 235 (!) to begin with. I now weigh 141, a loss of forty-four pounds, and will reduce to 137. It isn't as easy now as it was at first. I watch your wonderful column closely and know why.—H. C."

One of the reasons it is not easy to reduce after a reduction as large as yours, is that with the decidedly improved appearance that such a loss brings, a part of the incentive to reduce is gone. We are not quite so conscious of ourselves, and every once in a while we have a food debauch and undo in one day what it has taken a week to do.

It is generally considered that after a loss of forty pounds or so, it is better to go on the maintenance diet for two or three weeks and hold the weight. It is not necessary to gain. I have had quite a number of letters from those who have reduced more than forty pounds (one follower reduced 100 pounds) who have not observed that resting period and who have felt no ill effects. However, I believe it is better to discontinue training for a while and then start in the same as you did in the first place—on a three-day liquid or semiliquid diet, not amounting to over 600 to 700 calories a day.

Are you including some good, vigorous exercise in your reducing regime, Mrs. C.? You should. Thank you for writing.

SWOLLEN JOINTS

Mrs. D.: The cause of enlarged and swollen finger joints in many cases is obscure, but you have to consider abscesses at the roots of the teeth, decayed teeth, diseased tonsils, diseased nasal sinuses and other spots of infection in the body which may be supplying infections. You also have to consider autointoxication from absorption of putrefactive products in the intestines, and deficient diets.

We know from experiments on animals that serious membranes (membranes covering joints, lungs, etc.) and mucous membranes can be affected by a diet that is deficient in mineral elements and vitamins. Cases of this type of joint trouble have been cured by going on an exclusive fruit diet, or a combination of fruit at one meal and raw vegetables at another meal, for three or four weeks. After that, a balanced diet not very high in meat protein.

Because the advice has been to cut out all meats and high protein foods, sometimes patients go to the extreme and get too much starch and sugar, which only aggravate the condition. In these cases, the starches and sugars should be cut down and more of the protein foods substituted. Direct sunshine on the joints or some of the therapeutic artificial light, quarts rays, etc., may be helpful. Are you under the care of a physician? You should be.

TIC

Mrs. A. J.: "Tic" is an involuntary twitching of the muscles of the face and neck or arms and shoulders. It differs from chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, in that the movements in this disease are never performed twice the same way, and are continuous, while those afflicted with Tic always perform the same movement in the same way, and they are not continuous.

According to Tics, there is no medication that seems to help Tic but exercises, including relaxation exercises, and special breathing exercises; correct diet and hygienic living, are helps. In many cases psychoanalysis has proven helpful.

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on slimming and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

MANY a good dress goes wrong by accident or hard use during the first semester at boarding-school or college. Simple little frocks of crepe silk or crepe satin or crepe de Chine that one can wear for matinees Saturday, church Sunday and dinner the rest of the week, do not last long and have to be replaced at mid-year. The tunic blouse with a sleeve full at the wrist and a slip narrow at the hem is smart in black, blue, henna or green crepe satin with Georgette or lace in the lower part of the sleeve, or with a tunic of printed crepe de Chine over a plain slip.

Of Interest to Women.

JIM TULLY HEARD

"I have been five years a tramp, five years in jail and I have been a pugilist," Mr. Tully, the realist and lover of realism began. "And I am not ashamed of it. If any one should be ashamed it is society and not I. Club women have enough formalities in their lives. I hate formalities, so do not expect them from me." The speaker touched very briefly upon his early life as an orphan whose very existence was maintained only by fighting.

"I don't know what we are going to do about the social order that allows such things," said Mr. Tully, referring to a terrible atrocity that happened in South Carolina only two years ago, the verity of it vouched for by both himself and Ed Morrell, the ex-convict, whose book on jail conditions has recently been published and who spoke before the Men's City Club recently. "But I have great faith in club women such as you to better conditions." He spoke with gratitude of his own first public appearance three years ago in the same room.

"I think it was this same room, though I was so flustrated I can't be sure. But the reception I received set me on my feet, and the encouragement here proffered me has made it possible for me to write. This is another function for your club—to clear the path and even make the trail for the young writer."

ACTOR ON PROGRAM

He concluded with a plea for the women to work against the system whereby the labor of prisoners is bought and sold by contract with no benefit either to the prisoner or his family. Mr. Tully's young bride was another guest of the club.

The third speaker at luncheon was William J. Kelly, the first actor to play in the West the role of Ben Hur. He appeared at the Mason Operahouse twenty years ago and is now playing the same role. He gave dramatically scenes from Ben Hur and responded with a comedy sketch "At the Telephone."

The symposium of books and plays was preceded by the regular session of the books department with Mrs. Jack Vallehy, curator, in charge and yesterday, the chief speaker was Mrs. Vallehy on "Romance and Realism." Mrs. Vallehy is a college woman, young, vivacious and attractive, who has been a great reader, as is evident from her talks throughout the year in the book department of Ebell. She is a discriminating critic of the latest and best in literature.

The other speakers were Miss Gertrude Darlow, who spoke on the life and works of Thomas Hardy, and Mrs. W. J. Davidson, whose subject was "The Best in Current Magazines."

MacDowell Club

A musical program, followed by a one-act play, was presented at the birthday benefit given by the MacDowell Club Wednesday evening at the clubhouse on Western avenue.

The program opened with several solos rendered by Winifred Hooke, pianist, her selections including compositions by Scriabine and Debussy. Max Danner, violinist, offered a group of three numbers, which included his own arrangement of the Chaminade "Air for G String," the Tor Aulin "Idyll," and a brilliant performance of the "Gypsy Airs," by De Sarasate.

Estelle Heartt Dreyfus rendered two groups of songs, including the Julian Aguirre "Caminito," in which her low tones were particularly good. Her rich contralto voice displays much power, and her singing also evinces a great deal of dramatic ability. Among her other numbers, the Alvares "La Partida," (son of the exile,) deserves special mention.

"Hyacinths," a one-act play by Tacie May Hanna, was presented by the school of speech of the University of Southern California, and the characters were impersonated by Lucille Knapp, Nevin Packard and Clare Kaufer, in the respective roles of Mrs. Brown, her elder daughter, Jane, and her younger daughter, Lucile.

The story is one with a throbbing heart appeal, the theme being expressed in an old Persian proverb, "If I had but two loaves, I would sell one and buy white hyacinths to feed my soul." Underneath the noble sacrifice of the elder daughter one glimpses the tragedy of a starved soul, which is poignantly revealed in the words, "One cannot live forever on the promises of a banquet—there must be little food." The contrast of characters in the play is cleverly drawn, and was vividly brought out in the Wednesday evening's performance.

Friday Morning Club

Friday will be a day of celebrities for the Friday Morning Club. Appearing at luncheon will be Dr. J. A. B. Sherer, who has been traveling extensively in the Orient and has written several interesting books, besides making a study of Buddhaism, and in addition is doing much to promote an international understanding of Japan. One of his recent books is "The Story of Cotton."

Mrs. Abiko, a Japanese woman, educated in this country and living in San Francisco, who, in 1900, founded a training school for teachers in English, in Tokio, also will be a speaker. Mme. Abiko and her sister were companions to the Empress.

At the morning program John Collier will speak on "The Oldest Civilization and the Youngest. Our Indians of the Southwest" and Chief Yowlache, a full-blooded Yakima Indian, will sing.

Father's Night

Judge Charles S. Crail will speak on "The Ideal American Home" at the Florence-avenue P.T.A. meeting tomorrow evening, when the association will observe "Father's Night." Following the invocation given by Rev. James E. Ferris, a musical program will be given featuring Joseph M. Schlitz, Miss Dorothy M. Cuff, Miss Leona M. Wilbur, the school glee club and orchestra.

Appearing Before Clubs

Aline Barrett Greenwood, who spoke at the Beverly Hills Woman's Club Tuesday and at the Pasadena Shakespeare Club yesterday, will deliver an address at the Ambassador Theater today, and on Friday at the Ebell Club of Long Beach. Miss Greenwood reviews art, music, literature, drama and current events.

Sorority Party

A bridge and mah jongg party will be given by the alumnae chapter of the Mu Phi Upsilon sorority on the 24th inst., at the Hollywood Woman's Club. Proceeds will be used for the charities benefited by the sorority—the Los Angeles Music Settlement and the Hollywood Bowl. Mrs. Frank Compton, Miss Idyll Fagg and Mrs. E. F. Kraemer are in charge of the arrangements.

Plays Presented

Lively interest follows the presentation of playlets by the Community Players of Beverly Hills, yesterday and today, at the Hawthorne School auditorium on Rexford Drive. The work is being sponsored by the Beverly Hills Woman's Club.

"The Lights of Happyland," by Marion Short, is a cleverly written sketch concerning the joys and sorrows of youth. The players are, Ethel Guy, Minard La Fever, Virginia Lee Clark and Helen Warfield Wenger. Mrs. John Osgood Wiley directed the production.

The rollicking burlesque, "So This is Paris Green," is a satire on the French type of play on the Parisian underworld. Irene Hunt Weyman, George Seigmann and Edgar Donley will be featured in this playlet.

Mrs. Randolph Carter will direct the third sketch, "Where But in America," by Oscar Wolff. Carl Levinson, Mary Shannon and Betty Kirby are in the cast.

W.C.T.U.

The Los Angeles Federation W.C.T.U. met in the Temperance Temple yesterday for the monthly all-day meeting. A business meeting was conducted in the morning and a round-table discussion on legislative matters in the afternoon.

Picture Display

The Garfield Study Club of Sierra Park, which is meeting this afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Maud Butler, 5200 Oakland street, is to have an interesting display of pictures of the wild flowers of California by L. E. Martindale.

PLANS MADE FOR SEEDING OF CANYON

Five Thousand of City's Teachers to Participate; Children Assist

More than thirty pounds of wild flower seeds and, in addition, a large quantity of seeds for various shrubs will be scattered over the hillsides in Vermont Canyon at Griffith Park, at the floral service to be conducted next Saturday by teachers of the Los Angeles city schools.

William R. Tanner, president of the High School Teacher's Association said yesterday that approximately 5000 teachers are expected to take part in the ceremony starting at 2 p.m.

California poppies, painter's brush, wild peonies, lupin, gentian, black eggs, sumac and greasewood are among the varieties of seeds to be scattered, the flowers alone numbering more than twenty distinct species. Kindergarten children at some of the schools have assisted in filling envelopes with seed for distribution, as a part of their nature study work.

There will be games and contests under the direction of members of the school playground and physical education staff and a complete program concluding with a campfire in the early evening.

ARCHITECTS WILL PASS ON EXHIBITS

Chicago Alumni to Honor Stagg and Dean Tufts

Two outstanding figures of the University of Chicago, James F. Tufts, vice-president and dean of faculties, and Alonzo A. Stagg, famous football coach, will be guests of honor and principal speakers at a banquet of the University of Chicago Alumni Association Friday at 6 p.m., at the Elite.

They are visiting important cities of the country conferring with Chicago alumni on development of the program of the university. They will remain here until Monday. Dr. Tufts has been on the faculty of the university since it was founded and also has acted as arbitrator in the Chicago clothing trade disputes. Coach Stagg has been with the university for thirty years. The two visitors will seek co-operation of the university's alumni here in the $17,500,000 endowment campaign.

TO CELEBRATE IN SNOW

A group of the Sierra Club and their friends are planning to celebrate Washington's Birthday in the snow at Seeley Flats, one of the Los Angeles municipal camps. One contingent will leave at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, via Pacific Electric, and some who are unable to get away at that time will go up at noon Saturday. A three-piece orchestra will furnish music for a dance Saturday night. Arrangements are in charge of the playground department, 156 North Spring street, MEtropolitan 5206, Station 36.

F. Crick, vice-president; A. E. De Santis, secretary and Joseph M. Lyons, treasurer.

It was decided that members of the club should inform residents of Niagara county of true conditions in Southern California and that an information bureau should be established at 443 Citizens National Bank Building, the headquarters of the club.

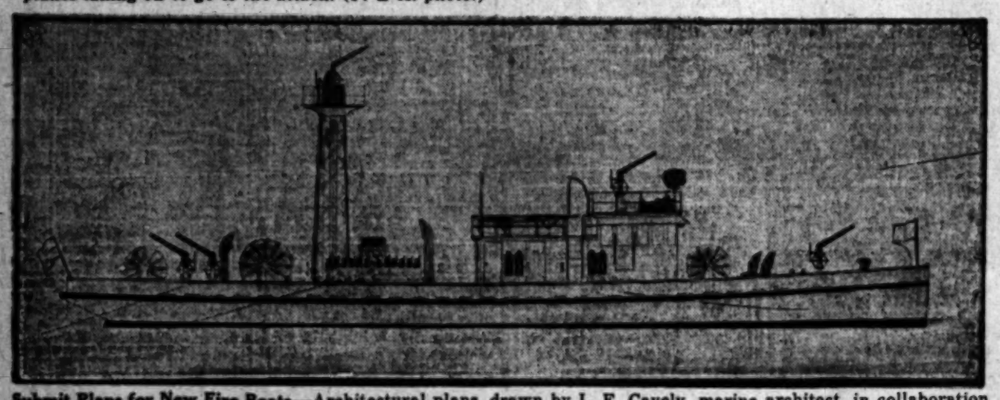
Fleet Air Attack Corroborates Brig.-Gen. Mitchell

"Brig-Gen. Mitchell Was Absolutely Correct"—This was the verdict of naval officers yesterday following a remarkable demonstration of the effectiveness of an air attack in naval warfare in which the Navy Bombing Squadron [illegible] participated at Los Angeles Harbor. Firing aerial bombs at a height of 7200 feet, 1200 feet above the range of the most modern of antiaircraft guns, and under unfavorable conditions of visibility, the squadron theoretically sank the ocean's surface a dreadnaught, their target. Photo at left shows three of the bombs striking almost simultaneously within a small area. Arrow indicates target 20x5 feet. Center, Admiral Coontz watching attack. Right, planes taking off to go to the attack. (P. & A. photo.)



Submit Plans for New Fire Boats—Architectural plans, drawn by L. E. Cavely, marine architect, in collaboration with Fire Chief Scott, for the two new fireboats which are to form the backbone of the fire-fighting facilities at the harbor, were completed yesterday. DREAM CAME TRUE

MONTE BLUE ALWAYS WANTED TO BE ENGINEER

By Grace Kingsley

When Monte Blue was a small boy, he in common with other little boys, used to play engineer and dream of being an engineer when he grew up. Also he really once was a fireman. Now he is on the verge of realizing his pet ambition.

According to J. L. Warner, the star is to be featured by the Warner Brothers in a big railroad drama of the outdoors in which he will play the role of an engineer.

In keeping with the recent announcement by Warner Brothers when the star was re-signed for this season, that Monte would soon be featured in stories in which he is well fitted by his past life and training, "The Limited Mail" is to be his first picture. The story is taken from the stage play by Elmer Vance, and is being prepared for the screen by Darryl Francis Zannuck. It is said to be a particularly virile railroad story which begins in the pioneer days of Wyoming and carries through the modern railroad days.

What is an odd coincidence is that Monte Blue was once a cowboy in Wyoming where the early sequence of the story is laid, and that he was once a fireman on the B. and O. Railroad in the East where the modern version is told. Certainly no better role and locales could have been selected for a Blue outdoors opus. The star can put his early technical training to excellent use in investing this picture with realism.

This will be the first picture in several months in which Monte Blue and Marie Prevost have not been co-featured, as it has just been announced that Marie is to have the title role in Kathleen Norris's "Rose of the World," which goes into production about the same time as "The Limited Mail."

BETTY BLYTHE TELLS NEWS FROM ABROAD

Betty Blythe may have it in for the Atlantic Ocean during the winter and early spring months, but at that she isn't going to let this prejudice stand in the way of coming home from Europe just as soon as ever she can after she has given the Samuelson Company her best as "She." In fact, according to a cable received yesterday, Miss Blythe expects to be among us again on March 24.

But Miss Blythe hasn't confined her communications solely to cables. She has written an entertaining letter, telling us all about her artistic endeavors abroad. Just to jog your memory if necessary, Miss Blythe is starring in a film version of Rider Haggard's famous old novel, "She," which the English Samuelson Company is making over in Berlin. Incidentally, if you have been worrying because you haven't heard of Carlyle Blackwell for some time, Miss Blythe brings him to light again.

"My leading man is Carlyle Blackwell," writes Betty. "He is playing the Irish explorer of the imaginary African country. Don't you think he should be good? Lysander Cordova is directing for Samuelson. Young Haggard (Sir Rider Haggard's nephew and heir) is everywhere aiding in the supervision.

"Have had three German and a Parisian offer to remain for another picture, but am glad I'm forced to return so that I won't be able to accept. Talk here is of Joe Schenck soon handling the American release of the U.F.A. pictures.

"Our picture is being made at the old Famous Players-Lasky studio, and production is actually going ahead at an American rate of speed—something remarkable here.

"Saw Rod La Rocque and Julanne Johnston in Paris, but have missed the others over here from Hollywood."

Morosco's New One

The public does love its little mystery, the Morosco management has found out. Wherefore that management has decided not to be stingy about the matter. In other words the next production, according to present plans at least, which will grace the boards of the popular stock house will be that successful mystery play, "The Last Warning," which ran several months in New York last season.

Gayne Whitman, Harland Tucker and Charlotte Treadway will, of course, step out in the important roles.

New Stars for "Nanette"

There is to be no dearth of stars in "No, No, Nanette," it would appear, when that famous musical comedy opens at the Mason next month. Nancy Welford isn't to have the flowers all to herself.

Louis Macloon announces that Mrs. Paul Nicholson, known to the stage as "Miss Norton," is to come West for an important role.

Adele Rowland, wife of Conway Tearle, and Taylor Holmes, will also have big roles in the production.

Pauline Garon Signs

Pauline Garon, I'd have you to know, hasn't been letting the grass grow under her Cinderellas since she returned from Europe. She has signed a contract with Warner Brothers whereby she will appear in "Rose of the World," Kathleen Norris's well-known story. She will play one of these high-power flappers.

Ronald Colman's Mustache

It's just no use. However you may feel about it, Ronald Colman's mustache has come to stay. The young actor has made his firm decision following an avalanche of fan mail electing his mustache to be henceforth a part of his film personality.

Color Photography Again

Now that color photography seems to be really coming into its own, George Fitzmaurice doesn't intend to be left behind. In his next picture, "His Supreme Moment," sponsored by Samuel Goldwyn, Mr. Fitzmaurice means to make at least one-fifth of the total footage by the improved technicolor process, he announces.

A distinctive departure in the use of color photography for "His Supreme Moment" will be the special settings designed by Art Director Anton F. Grot. Working in collaboration with the technicolor experts, Grot has constructed several huge sets in special color harmonies which the technicolor camera can reproduce without a shade of variation from the original.

One of the settings constructed for the color cameras is a Persian harem garden in which the dominant colors are pale blue, gold and Chinese red. This serves as a setting for a play within a play in which Blanche Sweet, who shares featured honors with Ronald Colman, is starred.

An oriental ballet of sixteen dancers lends movement to the episode in which harem beauties, huge Ethiopian guards and oriental potentates furnish a colorful background.

Doug MacLean Wails

"I am on the verge of hospitality prostration. Don't let anyone meet me at the boat when I come back to Hollywood!"

That's the message which Douglas MacLean sends from Honolulu, where he is ostensibly spending a quiet vacation after completing "Introduce Me," his latest and most strenuous picture.

When Doug landed in Honolulu he had his mind all set on going surf-board riding. But no such luck. Instead he was met by a delegation of picture men who insisted on his making a personal appearance at the Hawaii Theater. Then, in the evening, when he had pictured himself strolling among the tall palms in the starlight, he found himself wearing his feet away at an impromptu dance given in his honor by the fans of Honolulu.

So it has been going on day after day, until he says he is so weary of wearing the parlor face that he shouldn't be surprised if he never smiled again, but went in for being a rival to Buster Keaton.

His troubles aren't even over yet. When he returns home tomorrow he will be almost immediately whisked off to New York to plunge into the intricacies of signing a new contract with some releasing corporation.

EASTON SHARES HONORS WITH ELINOR WARREN

Florence Easton, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is one of the finely legitimate singers who grace our concert stage today. Her concert last evening at Philharmonic was an event of the season, and an occasion of joy to the soul sensitive to splendid singing.

Miss Easton chooses her concert repertoire from that great realm of standard music — compositions of accepted merit and real beauty. She brings fine meaning to her songs, especially numbers by Fourdrain ("Celle que je prefere,") operatic arias and numbers of the romantic school of modern composers not of the futuristic school. She is primarily an opera singer and a romanticist of song.

Lovely indeed was her rendition of Schumann's "Widmung," the all-too-seldom heard "Auf dem Wasser zu Singen" by Schubert, and Strauss' "Zueignung." As is frequently the case, she was not in best voice for the first number or two; she is not always happy in her highest fortissimi, and she may have been slightly breathy in the last number or two; they are little things, however, because the faults are purely vocal and Florence Easton never does the slightest thing which is unmusical, out of taste, or could possibly offend in any way.

Indeed she is such a treat of just good musicianship. She is one of the standard artists whose work is of such quality that a certain type of praise would almost be offensive, the more conservative compliment is the greater tribute.

Emily Remick Warren came home to glory last night. For two seasons this brilliant Los Angeles composer-pianiste has toured throughout the East with Miss Easton as her capable accompanist. She plays beautifully, and whatever else life may hold for her it is to be hoped that she will never quite forsake this fine accomplishment, and also that she will continue to develop her marked talent as a composer. She played all of the accompaniments of the evening—encores and all, entirely from memory, with lovely pianissimo, never intruding into the beauty of the song.

After her group of solos she was tendered an ovation when a line of ushers marched to the stage with a dozen huge bouquets—it was a picturesque tribute from her home friends, and it is gratifying to note that now and then a talented musician does receive a bit of recognition in their own country.

CHAPIN VIOLIN SERIES BEGINS AT ALEXANDRIA

"Music of Court and Castle" formed the motif for the novel program presented by Bessie Chapin, violinist, yesterday morning in the ballroom of the Alexandria Hotel, this recital being the first of a series of three morning musicales which she is giving. Assisting artists were Alexander Kisselburgh, baritone; Homer Simmons, pianist, and J. A. Blondin, 'cellist.

Miss Chapin's program was constructive in character, as well as entertaining. Gowned in a costume of the period, she rendered violin solos depicting court music of the medieval era in England, Germany and Austria, and France.

Notable for good tonal quality was her performance of the Bach "Air," which was apropos of the court of Frederick the Great. The well loved "Minuet in G," by Beethoven, was charmingly accented, and the dainty "Pantomime" by Mozart pleased. This number and the "Gavotte" by Gluck, contained some delightful pizzicato effects. Also worthy were the Schubert Moment Musicales," and the lovely "Chanson et Pavanne," by Couperin, which were played with muted strings. Her other selections included works of the English composers, Whitehorn and Eccles, and from the French court, numbers by Lully, Rameau and Gossec.

Mrs. Kisselburgh, in chivalrous costume, sang the Aria from the Wartburg Castle scene from Wagner's "Tannhauser," and Blondel's Aria, "Richard, O My King!" from "Richard Coeur de Lion" by Gretry. His renditions were most acceptable.

The trio, composed of Miss Chapin, Mr. Simmons, and Mr. Blondin, played the opening and closing numbers, the incidental music to Gounod's "Jeanne d'Arc," and the Overture to "Le Cid," by Massenet. A good ensemble was manifested throughout both renditions.

Film Title Must be Outstanding, Says Kirkland

A convincing title is the first requisite toward stimulating interest of producers in screen originals. This is the assertion of David Kirkland, who has directed many of Constance Talmadge's pictures and who just finished "Who Cares?" featuring Dorothy Devore, for Columbia Pictures, and who offers aspiring writers of originals for the screen some sage advice.

"Title is to the screen production what 'personality' is to people," Kirkland declares. "Title is the mysterious something—that draws the picture-going folk into the theater and its subtle power in this respect is equally effective with the producer when he is buying screen material. Of course, the plot must have merit too, but, like an uncut diamond, the brilliance of which is hidden until released in some concentrated form that intrigues the eye, a great story may pass unnoticed unless epitomized in a two or three word title that stimulates the imagination and gives the producer the urge to buy.

"My advice to screen writers is: 'concentrate first of all on title, then evolve a convincing plot; and finally, synopsitize it, in the most attractive word dress of which you are capable.'"

Glands
Must be fed by
Glands
New health, new youth returns

Some of the greatest results in modern medicine come through using gland secretions.

The liver is the largest, most important gland. Ox gall is used to stimulate it as no drugs can do. Countless people gain results which seem amazing in this new-day way.

More Bile Needed

The liver should supply a quart of bile per day. A torpid liver does not. Then comes indigestion, constipation.

Bile checks germ growth in the intestines. When it is scant, germs may multiply and feed a stream of poisons to the blood.

Heart and kidney troubles are often traced to those poisons. Also high blood pressure and premature old age.

There are countless people who might gain new health if that poison supply were stopped.

See What Ox Gall Does

Try ox gall for a few days. The results are prompt and they may amaze you. Perhaps all you need is a stimulated liver. If so, no drugs can do what ox gall does.

Remember that name—Dioxol. Try it for your own sake. There are multitudes of people whom Dioxol can help. To some the results are priceless.

Guarantee: Anyone not satisfied with results from the first box of Dioxol may return the empty box to the makers and receive his money back.—[Advertisement.

BUSINESS CHIEF TELLS CHICAGO

Executives Doing Much to End City Libeling

May Company Manager Points to Steady Growth

Manufacturer Asserts His Trade Has Doubled

In a letter to Charles F. W. Nickels, proprietor of a widely known Chicago Advertising agency, B. F. Schlesinger, general manager of the May Company, shows what hundreds of business executives are doing to make friends for Southern California, independent of the $3250 in cash prizes offered by The Times to initiate a campaign of friendship letter-writing now general throughout the southern portion of the State.

Mr. Schlesinger dismisses in a paragraph the buzzing swarm of misrepresentations about Southern California that has been floating over the eastern and Middle Western States.

"It takes people from far away," he says, "to point out things that the stay-at-homes don't know. The strange things is that we who live here and work here know nothing of these calamities that are affecting our city and, from the eastern point of view, are obscuring it wholly from sight.

"As a matter of fact," Los Angeles has entered upon an era of steady growth, after its somewhat spectacular achievements. Those of us who are here day by day and see hundreds of new houses and many office and business edifices going up; who see streets projected through vacant land built up seemingly overnight; who feel the growth of business enterprises and note that those manufacturers who make meritorious articles are going ahead and extending their territories, not only beyond the confines of California and the Pacific Coast, but even into the Middle West; are too busy to refute the calumnies heaped upon Southern California.

STEADY GROWTH AHEAD

"But it is true that in this era of steady growth, in which we now are, this city will make more substantial progress and still reach out and do more inspiring things than we did in the three or four years just closed, and there are more opportunities here for the man or woman who does things well than there ever were before."

Another letter, even shorter, but in the same vein, is written by Guy Boschke, president of the California Waste Company, in the form of a statement sent to all business and personal friends of the firm and its management.

"We are advised by our Chamber of Commerce," says the statement, "that many of the eastern newspapers are publishing maliciously untrue statements regarding the social and economic conditions of California, such as taxing tourists, bread lines, crop failures, unemployment, real estate value slump, high percentage of business failures and the like.

"We advise you that our business has nearly doubled in the past year. Our losses from bad debts are less than one-half of 1 per cent. We do not have an average of requests for employment of one per week.

NO SOUR GRAPES

"We have recently received offers to purchase our factory property that would yield us a 40 per cent profit on the purchase price of January, 1923. We have no knowledge of the asserted taxation of tourists. We are prosperous. California is prosperous, there is everything here to be desired, and no sour grapes."

C. A. Johnson, a director of the Florence Chamber of Commerce, sends to The Times a set of resolutions adopted by his board, in part as follows:

"Resolved, that the board of directors of the Florence Chamber of Commerce heartily indorse the 'back East' letter-writing campaign advocated by The Times, and recommended by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

"The citizens of the town of Florence are urged to enter into the letter-writing campaign and by communicating to friends and relatives in the East the facts of the true conditions in Southern California, to assist in combatting the propaganda of false reports intended to injure our State and community."

MAGISTRATE THROWS OUT DESK FIGHT

Manufacturer's Charge of Threat to Kill Over Royalties Fails

Justice Ballard yesterday threw out of his court the case of Victor C. Kingman, desk manufacturer, against Manford Minick, possessor of certain royalty rights in desks manufactured by the Kingman Manufacturing Company.

On the 13th inst. Kingman had Minick arrested and placed in jail on complaint that Minick had threatened to kill him because he was not paying royalties as fast as Minick wished them paid on desks manufactured for the Los Angeles school city. About $1400 was involved.

Justice Ballard dismissed the complaint for lack of evidence to support it. Minick testified he threatened to wallop Kingman, but denied the more serious charge.

In addition to giving their names and addresses and the names and addresses of those to whom their letters have been mailed, junior contestants must state their correct age. Such statement will be subject to verification. All letters entered in this division must be so designated.

BANKER'S FORECAST BRIGHT

A. W. Anderson Tells Commercial Board There Are No Threatening Clouds on Business Horizon

No threatening cloud looms on the business horizon of 1925 at present and all signs indicate prosperity, A. W. Anderson, vice-president of the First National Bank, told the Los Angeles Commercial Board in an address delivered at a luncheon of that body at the Biltmore yesterday.

The meeting, which was the first gathering of the board this year, was dedicated to prosperity and was conducted under the chairmanship of E. M. Boddy. Before introducing the speakers the chairman answered a question he said has frequently been put to him as to the precise function of the Commercial Board.

"Briefly, that function is to act as a connecting link between the public and Los Angeles industries," said Mr. Boddy. "There are now more than 5000 industrial plants in this city and the board is solidly behind every one that can qualify for membership in this organization. The board assists the industries in every way possible, on the one hand, and on the other serves the public by keeping it informed of what industry is doing here."

YEAR'S OUTLOOK

In discussing this year's business outlook, not only in Los Angeles but in the country as a whole, Mr. Anderson reminded his audience that, while every condition now looks favorable, it would be necessary this year no less than in former years to exercise caution and use energy to achieve success. "There is nothing to be afraid of at this time, but it would be unwise to be unprepared for unforeseen development," he declared.

The speaker mentioned four elements indicating prosperity for the present season. They were, increasing industrial activity after last year's depression, expanding exports, increased agricultural prosperity and an abundance of money.

"I might add to these our freedom from radicalism," he continued. "The voice of the American people was heard at the polls last fall expressing its disapproval of the various so-called 'progressive' notions strenuously advocated in some quarters," he declared. "The voters manifested their preference for common sense and continuation of long-tested principles in governmental affairs. I regard the outcome of the election as one of the most favorable signs of the times."

COUNCIL'S PURPOSE

Dr. Charles A. Scott, vice-president of the Southern California Council of International Relations, gave a brief outline of the purpose of that organization.

"Those interested in this movement believe that if they are to succeed in their efforts to improve international relations their many scattered units must be mobilized and various movements correlated," said Dr. Scott. "The Southern California Council on International Relations is a medium by which many organizations and individuals may keep in touch with each other so the efforts of all may be strengthened and extended.

"The council seeks to obtain accurate information regarding international affairs and to supply such information, literature and suggestions to organizations and individuals as will enable them to exert the greatest influence in improving our international relationships."

FIREBOAT DRAFT FINISHED

[Illustrated in Rotogravure Section]

Architectural plans for the first of the two new fireboats which are to form the backbone of the fire-fighting facilities at the harbor were completed yesterday. They call for a vessel which will be the last word as a marine machine for combatting conflagrations and in which will be incorporated the most effective features evolved on other fire-fighting craft.

The plans were drawn by L. E. Cavely, marine architect, in collaboration with Fire Chief Scott, who made a special study of the fire-protection needs at the harbor before taking up the drafts.

The vessel will be ninety-five feet in length with a beam of nineteen feet and a draft of six and a half feet, enabling it to navigate in relatively shallow water and approach a fire on land.

It will be able to direct 10,000 gallons of water a minute from twenty-nine nozzles. The nozzles will be so arranged that they can all be turned in one direction. The fireboat will be propelled by gasoline engines as will be the fire pumps.

Construction of the two fireboats was authorized in a $400,000 bond issue voted at the May 5, last, election. Fire Chief Scott will submit the plans for the first boat to the City Council and Fire Commission at once for approval. He expects to have the vessel in operation next August. Bids for the first vessel as well as the sister ship will be let as soon as the plans are approved.

The vessel will be housed near the entrance of the West Basin on the Terminal Island side of the main channel.

GIVES ORATORY CONTEST PRAISE

Authority on Constitution Writes Commendation

Fifth Lesson for Entrants Taken from His Book

Hearty approval of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution as a means to spread information in regard to the country's fundamental law is contained in a letter received yesterday by Contest Director Blanks from Dr. R. G. Gettell, head of the department of political science of the University of California, whose book, "The Constitution of the United States," (Ginn & Co.,) furnishes the material for the lessons now being published in The Times for the guidance of contestants. Dr. Gettell's letter reads as follows:

"The Oratorical Contest on the Constitution is an excellent method of arousing the interest of boys and girls in the fundamental principles of American government. Much of the criticism of our institutions rests upon ignorance, and the work being done by the Los Angeles Times will help to remove this condition. I wish you great success in your efforts. You are performing a real public service for better citizenship."

The fifth of the series of lessons from Dr. Gettell's book, dealing with the balance between authority and liberty provided by the Constitution, follows:

DEMOCRACY AND THE SIZE OF THE STATE. One of the most difficult problems in the development of government for large areas was the adjustment of a proper balance between authority and liberty. In the past democracy was possible only in small states, such as the cities of Greece. Whenever states grew large by expansion or conquest they became centralized and autocratic and took on the imperial form of organization. It was generally believed that democracy could not be worked successfully in large states, and that expansion in size inevitably led to autocratic government.

REPRESENTATION AND FEDERATION. Moreover, in early democracies the people governed through a mass meeting. It was held that every citizen must take part in government and express his opinion directly on all questions. This type of democracy was possible only in small states. In order to extend popular government over larger areas, and to secure the unity needed for peace and order, two devices of government had to be developed. The first was the system of representation, by which the people of a certain class or a certain section could choose one of their own number to act for them and to protect their interests; the other was the principle of federation, by which different states could combine into a union, keeping their own government and law for local affairs but delegating to a common government control over affairs of general interest. The system of representation was used by the original American colonies, and has been generally adopted today in all civilized countries. The system of federation came later, and has been more difficult to establish.

EARLY THEORY OF THE NATURE OF THE UNION. In the beginning of our history there was considerable difference of opinion as to whether the United States was a confederation or a federation. Many persons believed that the Constitution left sovereignty in the hands of the separate States. They argued, therefore, that the States might secede from the Union as a last resort. Others, such as Alexander Hamilton, were determined to create a single American State of which the former thirteen States would be subordinate parts.

By the middle of the nineteenth century the issue became clearly drawn and sectionalized over the question of the extension of slavery to new territories. In the debate between Webster and Hayne in the Senate the main arguments on both sides were clearly stated. The issue was finally settled by force of arms in the Civil War; the theory of national sovereignty had won.

ADVANTAGES OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. The United States has thus successfully established a federation. Unlike Europe, which is split up into a number of small states, separated by tariff barriers and waging frequent wars, the United States has successfully united an area of more than 3,000,000 square miles under a system of law and peace. No restrictions interfere with free intercourse and trade within the entire area. Disputes are settled by law, not force. Democracy is made possible in a large state. It is interesting to note that all the recent suggestions for an organization of the new world in order to prevent war refer to the experience of the American States in forming their Union, and imitate the main features of the American Federal system. It is the only system that solves the difficult problem of peaceful union and that makes possible both local self-government and common control of general interests. It is one of the most valuable devices of government that the mind of man has conceived.

Woman, 102, is Defiant on Rum Charge; Jailed

Mrs. Serepia Nuccy, 102 years of age, appeared before Police Judge McConnell at San Pedro to answer to a possession-of-liquor charge yesterday and defiantly informed the court that she would continue to manufacture liquor for her own use as long as she lived.

"I have been drinking liquor all my life," the centenarian bristled, "and I don't intend to stop now."

The court, rather taken aback by the wizened little woman's defiance, finally gave her the alternative of paying a fine of $100 or going to jail for thirty days. She promptly chose the jail term and was taken to the City Jail here.

Several months ago she appeared before Justice McConnell on a similar charge, but escaped with a thirty-day suspended sentence.

KEARNS ON STAND TODAY

Dempsey's Manager to Testify in Own Defense in Attack Suit Brought by Woman

Jack Kearns will be called as a witness in his own behalf this morning in Superior Judge Monroe's court to deny as 100 per cent fabrications the assault charges of Mrs. Mary Tenney, a motion-picture "extra" whose $200,000 damage suit against the fight promoter is now on trial.

In her suit, Mrs. Tenney, 26 years of age and a divorcee, accuses Kearns of luring her to a Hollywood house, drugging her and attacking her. The charges have been branded by Kearns's attorneys as a blackmail scheme to extort money from Jack Dempsey's manager and announced last night that Kearns will be called upon today to testify in his own defense.

Kearns's contention that the $200,000 suit is a "frame-up" was partially substantiated yesterday by the testimony of several witnesses, the most startling testimony having been given by Carlos De la Cruse, a Filipino cook employed in the house where Mrs. Tenney asserted she had been attacked by Kearns.

SERVANT'S STORY

Cruse testified that Kearns and Mrs. Tenney entered the house about 6 p.m. on May 3, 1924, and that Kearns remained only a short time. Mrs. Tenney had testified that Kearns had remained for several hours, had taken many drinks and then drugged and attacked her. This was denied by the Filipino.

"I served Mr. Kearns and this girls two or three drinks," he testified, "and then Mr. Kearns he say he is going out and for me to call a taxi for this girl. Mr. Kearns then left. This girl say she won't leave and asked for more drinks. I serve her three or four more whisky highballs and took two or three drinks myself.

"I got dizzy and went to the basement, where my room is, and went to sleep. About 9 o'clock I woke up and this girl was talking in the telephone."

Cruse stated he again went to sleep.

"She was crazy drunk," he declared.

Mrs. Tenney had previously testified that she does not drink and never accepted a drink of liquor

CHINA'S STATUS MEDIEVAL

British Oil Man Says Conditions There Chaotic; Avers Foreign Trade Injured

Present conditions in China are like those in England around the year 1300, says George N. Wilson of London, who represents the Asiatic Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of the Shell Oil Company. Mr. Wilson is now at the Biltmore on his way home after a considerable period spent in Shanghai in the interests of his firm.

"Just as the powerful nobles defied the English kings in the Middle Ages, so the Chinese military leaders now bid defiance to the central government," said Mr. Wilson. "Conditions are chaotic in China and what the final outcome will be nobody knows. One thing certain is that the situation is playing havoc with foreign trade and all other lines of activity in the rich Chinese field.

"Developments in China show that a republican form of government is not always a success. It's all right in an enlightened country, but the Chinese were not prepared to govern themselves. So long as the monarchy existed, the Sovereign was able to maintain peace because of his vast prestige resulting from the reverent awe with which the Chinese regarded their rulers. With the downfall of the empire a governmental system was adopted which the majority of the Chinese do not understand and which at least the more powerful among them do not respect."

Speaking of Asiatic oil developments, Mr. Wilson stated that so far as China is concerned, oil production in that country will always be limited. "Some of the large American companies have sought to develop oil wells in China, but with indifferent success," he said. "The field isn't there. In many other parts of Asia, however, production is increasing, especially in the islands of the East Indies. The Japanese are industrially developing the field at Saghalien, Siberia, which is rich in oil. But nowhere in Asia are there any possibilities of such vast production as in the United States and Mexico."

CONTRACTORS TO ELECT

One of the important matters to be taken up at the regular semi-monthly dinner meeting of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, this evening at 6:15 o'clock at Paulais's, will be the nomination of officers for 1925. The election of officers for the next year will be held March 5. William A. Simpson, head of the firm of William Simpson Construction Company, is now president of the local chapter. E. Earl Glass is executive secretary.

SLAYING IS SHOWN BY AUTOPSY

Woman's Body Washed Up at Venice Reveals Marks of Violence, Says Surgeon

A new murder enigma faced Southern California police yesterday as a result of an announcement by Assistant County Autopsy Surgeon Webb late in the afternoon that the middle-aged woman, whose body was washed ashore at Venice Tuesday, had been slain and her body thrown into the ocean.

Dr. Webb performed a post-mortem examination over the woman's body at a Venice mortuary and announced that the woman's death was due to concussion of the brain and a skull fracture. Five of her upper ribs were broken. She had either been beaten to death or run down by an automobile and her body flung into the sea in an effort by the driver of the death car to conceal the accident.

Deputy Sheriff Sweesy and Constable Patton are assisting Venice police in efforts to identify the body and investigate the death. When found, the body was dressed only in underwear, high shoes and stockings. The woman was between 40 and 50 years of age, about 5 feet tall, weight about 100 pounds. Her hair was black streaked with gray. A laundry mark —070— and a heavy gold band ring with the initials "R. to L. W." are the only clews to the woman's identity.

The laundry mark was traced yesterday by Venice detectives to a Santa Monica laundry. There they found that it was registered to a man who gave the name of Whitey of the Virginia Cafe in Los Angeles. Their efforts to get in touch with the man, however, were balked when they were informed by the owner of the cafe that no person of that name was employed there. The detectives were conducting a wide-spread search for the man last night.

WATER AND FIRE PLANS INDORSED

Conservation Body Program Promised Chamber Aid

Efforts Are Commended in Letter by Pridham

Message to Head of County Association Made Public

The water-conservation and fire-prevention program of the Los Angeles County Conservation Association was indorsed and the united support of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was pledged in a letter from President R. W. Pridham of the chamber to W. S. Rosecrans, president of the former body, made public yesterday.

"The efforts of the County Conservation Association," the letter stated, "are especially to be commended in seeking to unite all major organizations and interested groups through directing our efforts on a single water-conservation program, the securing of more adequate fire protection for our mountain watersheds, the reforestation of burned-over areas, the education of the general public toward a better understanding of our peculiar water difficulties and confirmation of other water-conservation projects involved."

The program of the association as prepared by a committee headed by George L. Hoxie, research engineer of the Southern California Edison Company, includes constructive efforts relative to fire prevention, reforestation of burned-over areas, development of constructive, adequate program of flood control and a study of recreational facilities existing in mountain and hill areas and their proper use by the public.

Adequate firebreaks and their proper maintenance.

DEPUTY IS ACQUITTED IN KILLING

Officer Who Shot Man at Pasadena During Gambling Raid Absolved

After deliberating six hours a jury in Superior Judge Hahn's court last night brought in a verdict of not guilty in the manslaughter charges against Deputy Sheriff John T. Hamill, charged with the killing of a Pasadena chauffeur last December during a gambling raid. Hamill will resume his duties under Captain Bond at the Sheriff's office this morning, it was announced.

The jury is said to have stood 11 to 1 for acquittal from the second ballot until shortly before 9 o'clock. Ten minutes later, exactly six hours after being locked up, the jury came to an agreement of acquittal.

Hamill took part in a gambling raid December 10, 1924, at 1155 South Fair Oaks avenue, Pasadena, made by deputies under Captain Bond. William L. Halbe, said to have been a lookout at the time, fled from the officers and was shot by Hamill. Witnesses for the defense including deputy sheriffs who took part in the raid, testified they had reason to believe there were dangerous characters among the players and for that reason they entered the hall armed.

According to Capt. Bond, Hamill has never been officially suspended. From December 12 to 20, he said, Hamill drove the car for the grand jury and from that date until a few days ago operated one of the speed-wagons at the Sheriff's office. He will, however, resume duties on Bond's squad for the first time since the shooting this morning.

Dept. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Shelley prosecuted the case and Hamill was defended by S. S. Hahn.

GREATEST ART EXHIBIT COMING

Museum of History to Bring Displays

Canvases by Painters of Both Americas

Event to Inaugurate New Unit of Museum

The largest and most representative collection of American art ever assembled in the Western Hemisphere, including the work of both North and South American artists, will be exhibited in Los Angeles next November, under arrangements just completed by the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art, it was announced yesterday by Dr. William A. Bryant, director of that institution.

The exhibition, which will be confined exclusively to paintings, will open on November 3, opening date of the first unit of the new Los Angeles Museum, and will be known as the First Pan-American Exhibition of Paintings in Oils. It will continue until January 1, 1926.

Plans are under way to send the North American section of paintings on a tour of the principal cities of Latin America after the close of the Los Angeles exhibition, and similarly the Latin-American section will be exhibited in important cities of the United States.

Dr. Bryant will leave the United States on the 26th inst. for a brief tour of Latin America in the interest of the exhibition. He will visit Mexico City, Havana, Caracas, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Valparaiso, Callao, Guayaquil, Bogota and Panama City.

SUBSTANTIAL PRIZES

"The museum has been at work on plans for this exhibition for several months," said Dr. Bryant, "and, thanks to the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, which has made an adequate appropriation to cover all expenses connected with the undertaking, we shall be able to carry our plans into execution."

Dr. Bryant said more than 500 paintings will likely be shown at this exhibition. The jury of award will be composed of two North American artists and two representing the Latin-American countries, in addition to a representative of the museum.

"It is anticipated that the museum, through its patrons, friends and associate institutions," said Dr. Bryant, "will be able to offer substantial prizes to be bestowed without regard to nationality upon painters whose works are adjudged by the jury to be worthy.

"The exhibition will be the first enterprise of such magnitude ever attempted in the western world, and it will mark an event of extraordinary importance in the history of American art. Never before has an attempt been made to assemble in one place so large a display of the works of representative artists of both Americans."

POLICE SAY RING KEPT RUM OFFICE

An office in the Loew State Building, declared by police to have been the headquarters for a bootleg ring catering to exclusive downtown trade, was raided last night by Officers McRae, Beaver and Caldwell.

As the officers entered they reported a man who gave his name as Eddie Stark pressed an electric button on his desk. A man in the next room fled down a fire escape, the officers declared, leaving about two dozen bottles of that contained liquor. The officers obtained enough liquor from the bottles for evidence and booked Stark on a charge of Wright Act possession and violation of the city lookout ordinance.

An elaborate warning system, consisting of red and green lights, working after the fashion of traffic signals, was declared to have been found in the room in which the bottles were discovered. If a red signal were displayed, the officers said, it was a sign the persons in the outer room were hostile, and if the green were flashed it signified they were friendly.

The offices raided were on the second floor.

Rushes to Aid Woman, Robbed in Her House

Hearing a woman's screams in a house on the 900 block on Naomi street last night, Frank Berenty, of 1400 West Jefferson street, went to her aid.

Inside the house a blanket was pulled over his head and he was robbed of $70 by three negro women and one man. Berenty pursued the quartet from the house and caught one of the women, but was forced to release her by a crowd of negroes who threatened him, he reported to police.

NEW ROUTES TO PORT OPEN SOON

Truck Boulevard to be Ready This Month

March 15 Set for Completion of Lomita Way

Latter Seen as Scenic Drive to Harbor Area

Two more traffic arteries from the city to Los Angeles Harbor are nearing completion, affording relief from immense truck and passenger traffic which, until parts of these highways recently were opened, had to pass over one lone avenue, Harbor Boulevard.

Completion of the last units on Terminal Island of the new Truck Boulevard scattered over five miles, will be realized this month, giving travelers a straight route from the eastern part of the harbor to the city.

Completion also of the scenic portion of Western avenue, extending from Lomita to San Pedro, also is forecast for March 15. It was announced yesterday. This section comprises upward of five miles, climbing hundreds of feet along the eastern side of the Palos Verdes Hills and commanding a view of all Los Angeles and the mountains to the east and southeast. By the Lomita Boulevard traffic already has been passing some months in increasing amount, but the hill drive is expected to attract hundreds of machines daily from the congested routes.

There is talk of a celebration marking the opening of the scenic route next month, to be participated in by film stars and other local celebrities, with radio broadcastings telling of the avenue's beauty.

STRANGE FISH FOUND IN CATCH FROM SOUTH

The vessel discharged 3000 tons of foreign freight, including 1000 tons of coal and rail-road material from Europe, and will load 6000 tons of flour for the Dutch East Indies and sail for the Panama Canal with 1400 tons now in the hold. The Dinteldyk will be the first vessel to be commanded this trip by Capt. J. C. Dekker, who has been in charge of the vessel since last October when Capt. Van Der Hoeven, who had commanded the Dinteldyk since she was built, and during which his ship, the Dinteldyk, had not suffered a single casualty, died of a heart attack while on the bridge of the vessel as it entered the harbor. Capt. Van Der Hoeven was 57 years of age and had been in the employ of the Dutch East Indies Company, of which the Dinteldyk is a unit, for 37 years. He was a native of Amsterdam, Holland, and left a widow and two children.
